WARRIORS PARADE BEFORE THE PRINCE

Drizzling Rain Spoiled What Would Have Been a Magnificent Spectacle — Ten Thousand Veterans Took Part in Ceremony.

(Special to The Guardian) TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 30.—The Warrior's parade before the Prince of Wales at the exhibition today was a gallant but melancholy sight.

It was an impersonal kind of ceremony as all such great gatherings must be. The Prince stood bareheaded under a shadowed canopy which served as the saluting base.

The third battalion, Toronto Regiment, sporting the old red patch, was another unit which drew cheers as it proudly, and a little stiffly went past, the eyes right at the saluting base.

Among the civilian notables were Hon. W. D. Ross, the Lieut.-Governor of Ontario; Mr. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner at London; Hon. C. H. Ferguson, Premier of Ontario; Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General of the Province; Senator Casgrain; Bishop Sweeney; Mr. R. Y. Eaton.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 30.—Through mud and rain, ten thousand veterans today marched past the Prince of Wales as in days of war they marched along muddy roads to the Salient and the Somme.

CHAOS REIGNS IN VALLEY OF THE YANGTSE

(Special to The Guardian) SHANGHAI, Aug. 30.—Chaos, approaching the worst that prevailed at the height of the civil war last spring again reigns in the Yangtse Valley as the bitter struggle between South and North returns to this area.

The forces of General Sun Chuan-fang the Shantung commander, have crossed the Yangtse at one place, at least, in the vicinity of Chinkingiang and the advancing Northern lines are approaching closer daily to Shanghai, the probable fall of which has become the topic of conversation.

Northern Forces Are Approaching Closer To Shanghai, the Fall of Which is Believed Imminent.

One result of this turmoil has been the resumption of firing on foreign merchantmen and men-of-war. Besides the gunboat Isabel, Flagship of the Yangtse patrol force with Admiral Henry H. Bough aboard, another United States naval vessel fought a brisk duel with Chinese forces yesterday. She was the destroyer, Nova which figured in an engagement at Nanking in March.

Articles of Everyday Use Were Material For Common Barter Among Indians As Revealed in Indian Exhibit.

(Special to The Guardian) TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 30.—Visitors to exhibit in Indian relics in Canadian museums seldom realize the difficulties involved in the classification and cataloguing of such specimens. An immense amount of research work must be undertaken every time a new collection is acquired by a museum.

Trade carried on between the Indian tribes scattered over North America before the advent of the White Man and the universal custom of making tribal gifts adds indistinctly to the task of the ethnologist. When stone or bone implements, arrow-heads or hatchets, are found in a certain district the layman may be pardoned for presuming that they were made by Indians of the tribe known to have inhabited that particular region.

Some particularly fine specimens of the product of expert craftsmanship are included in the John H. Crouse collection recently acquired by the McCord Memorial Museum, Montreal. The specimens in this collection were found by Mr. Crouse and two other men in the neighborhood of Bradford, Ont. Most of the material is of Huron-Iroquois origin. Many fragments of pottery, showing crude attempts at design, are included in this collection. One of the greatest handicaps to the classification of Indian relics is the fact that many of the objects are works of the Canadian Indians. The most reliable work on the subject and that most used by curators is the "Canadian Handbook on Indians." This is a digest of the material in a volume compiled by Frederick Webb Hodge and issued by the American Bureau of Ethnology.

Ambulance Called To Greet Flier At Croydon

(LONDON, Aug. 30.—An ambulance was summoned today at Croydon to welcome Charles A. Levine, owner of the trans-Atlantic monoplane "Columbia" when he arrived at Croydon Airport alone in his plane and without a pilot's license at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. E. S. T.). He had flown from Paris.

LEVINE ARRIVES FROM PARIS WITHOUT PILOT'S LICENSE AFTER HASTY SECRET DEPARTURE

The ambulance and a physician were called after Levine had made three attempts to land in such a manner that he was recognized as an inexperienced pilot and likely to require medical attention when he did come down. The fourth attempt was successful, if somewhat bumpy. On the first attempt the wheels of the "Columbia" grazed the ground, but there was not enough space for it to come to a stop. Levine succeeded in raising, although his undercarriage almost struck the top of a hangar.

When the second attempt failed, the air port chief ordered a plane into the air to show Levine the centre of the landing field. Both planes circled the field. After one more failure Levine got down. The "Columbia" bounced 30 feet into the air before settling finally to earth.

Officials asked Levine what he was going to do. "The only thing I have in mind," he said, "is that I want a shave." "Levine made hair-raising attempts to make landings," the chief duty officer of Croydon said. "Each time I thought he surely would be killed. It was obvious that he was an utter amateur as a flier. On the fourth attempt he made quite a decent landing. "His machine was hauled into a hangar and he is still with it. I don't know whether any steps will be taken because of his flying without a pilot's license. "I am finished with French aviators and with French airdromes," Levine said. He had left Le Bourget Field near Paris, under mysterious circumstances. None there had known of his intention to fly until the "Columbia" rose from the ground and headed toward London. CROYDON, Eng., Aug. 30.—Charles A. Levine announced here this afternoon that Captain W. G. Hinchcliffe had been definitely selected to pilot the trans-Atlantic monoplane "Columbia" back to the United States with Levine as his companion. They would hop off, Levine added, as soon as the weather clears.

"There is strong agitation in Eastern Canada in favor of Mr. Ferguson and added pressure will be brought to bear on him in the course of the next few weeks," Mr. Tupper added. Among the westerners whose names were prominently mentioned, he cited those of Hon. R. B. Bennett, K. C., of Calgary, and Hon. Robert Rogers, Winnipeg.

Million Dollars A Year Saved By Decision

(Special to The Guardian) OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 30.—Canada will save a million dollars a year in interest, operation and maintenance costs of the Hudson Bay route by decision to abandon Fort Nelson as the terminal of the Hudson Bay railway. That is the considered opinion of Frederick Palmer, the British expert who was engaged by the Canadian government to pass upon the relative merits of Nelson and Churchill.

Moreover the estimated cost of providing harbor facilities at Churchill is only one third of the estimated cost of providing similar accommodation at Nelson. Minimum requirements at Nelson would have cost $21,000,000. At Churchill, these can be provided for $7,000,000 according to Mr. Palmer.
