SAD AFFLICTION. Mr. William Lang is the eldest son of the late John Lang of Tryon, Prince Edward Island, and left his home over forty years ago. After spending some years in Massachusetts as a carpenter he removed to California where he continued his trade in several places including Los Angeles. A few years ago Mr. Lang's eyesight began to fail and all will regret that after several operations which he hoped would be successful, he is now totally blind in the Blind Industrial Home for adults in Oakland, Calif. There is no one more pleased to meet former acquaintances or to make to talk over the "good old days" in his native province. He is now quite an expert in the making of good home brooms of several designs which he disposes of to Oakland housekeepers and even delivers them himself without the aid of a guide.

Spare the children from suffering from worms by using Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge with which to combat these insidious foes of the young and helpless. It is an excellent worm destroyer, and when it qualities become known in a household no other will be used. The medicine acts by itself, requiring no purgative to assist it, and so thoroughly that nothing more is desired.

When his child was stricken with diphtheria he committed her to the hands of the Great Physician alone. His wife protested and left the child in her father's arms for the night. She was in raging fever, her throat "as white as snow." When in the morning Mrs. Simpson found that the disease had entirely disappeared, she prayed that the truth that had been revealed to her husband might be revealed to her. The revelation was granted, and their home in New York was dedicated as a Home for Faith and Physical Healing, a building afterwards donated by one who had been miraculously healed, and dedicated to God as the "Berachah Home," "The House of Blessing." The Berachah Home was afterwards located in a beautiful residence on the Myack hillside. Dr. Simpson found the conventional ideals of Thirteenth Street Presbyterian Church, irreconcilable with his own. He longed to preach to the masses, and in 1881 he resigned the pastorate and a salary of five thousand dollars and with no financial resources, began the evangelistic work which eventually centered in the Gospel Tabernacle, and was organized as the Christian and Missionary Alliance of which he was president. Dr. Simpson wrote more than seventy books, and volumes of hymns that have been widely circulated. His new missionary trail around the world, Alliance missionaries today occupy sixteen or more of these fields. His loyalty to the "Word of God" in these days of apostasy gave Modernism the edge of its spear. His teaching of neglected by the great majority of Christian teachers gave to suffering humanity a saving faith in the Christ who healed "all manner of sickness and all manner of disease." Who Himself "took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses" and who is the same yesterday, and today, and forever. Paul Rader who is now president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance is authority for the fact that thousands of homes were spiritually and physically blessed by Dr. Simpson's teaching of the Bible regarding the healing of disease, the truth that transformed him when dying of heart disease, into a man whose capacity for hard work was so wonderful that for thirty-five years he neither needed nor knew the meaning of a holiday. Dr. Simpson's plain statement regarding the healing of disease, the truth that transformed him when dying of heart disease, into a man whose capacity for hard work was so wonderful that for thirty-five years he neither needed nor knew the meaning of a holiday. Dr. Simpson's plain statement regarding the healing of disease, the truth that transformed him when dying of heart disease, into a man whose capacity for hard work was so wonderful that for thirty-five years he neither needed nor knew the meaning of a holiday.

That creed of the Christian and Missionary Alliance is simple and fatherly. "I believe in God the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, in the verbal inspiration of the Holy Scripture as originally given in the vicarious atonement of the Lord Jesus Christ in the eternal salvation of all who believe in Him; and the everlasting punishment of all who reject Him. I believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as my Saviour, Sanctifier, Healer and Comforter." Dr. Simpson gave no undue prominence to Divine Healing in his ministry, but it was to him part of the Gospel which he was compelled to preach. One service a week was devoted to the sick at the Gospel Tabernacle and Dr. Simpson has said that the records of the healing of all manner of diseases would fill volumes. The alarming spread of Christian Science, which denies all the fundamental doctrines of Christianity, calls for men like Dr. Simpson who are loyal enough to God's Word to believe and teach the Gospel which Christ committed to His disciples, the Gospel of both soul and body.

P. E. Island World Man. I wonder how many of readers of the Charlottetown Guardian know that the man who has been called "the foremost world man of our generation" was born in Prince Edward Island. Dr. A. I. Simpson's grandfather came from Scotland in 1774. In 1843 Albert Benjamin the fourth child of James Simpson was born in Bayview. The family moved to a farm in Western Ontario in 1847. After attending High School in Chatham the Albert B. Simpson began to teach at the early age of sixteen in order to earn money for a college education. In 1861 he entered Knox College as a student for the ministry. He graduated from that college in 1863 and in 1865 became pastor of Knox Church, Hamilton. He was one of the most brilliant and eloquent young ministers in Canada. The results of his nine years' pastorate in Hamilton are said to have been extraordinary from both a spiritual and a financial standpoint. In 1873 he attended the Evangelical Alliance Conference at New York City. He preached in Thirteenth Street Presbyterian Church. In the audience were delegates from Louisville, Ky. That led to an invitation to the largest church in Louisville which he had accepted. "A growing missionary vision" led to the acceptance of a call to a large field in New York city. While pastor of Thirteenth Street Presbyterian Church in New York there came to Dr. Simpson his wonderful experience of physical healing. For over twenty years he had suffered from many physical infirmities. When at College he had been compelled to abandon his studies on account of nervous prostration. His pastoral duties in Hamilton were interrupted by a four months' leave of absence granted him on account of ill health. Constantly he had been depending on "remedies" and "preventives" to alleviate heart trouble. A prominent physician in New York told him he had not sufficient constitutional strength to last longer than a few months. And then came to Dr. Simpson the blessed truth that transformed his life. It was whispered to him in the singing of the jubilee singers on the Indian camp ground of Sagoyoga Springs. Later at Old Orchard Beach he heard the testimony of those who had been healed of their disease by just trusting the word of Christ. It led him to study his Bible and give this testimony to the world: "At His feet alone with my Bible open and with no one to help or guide me I became convinced that this was part of Christ's glorious gospel for a sinful and suffering world for all who would believe and receive His word." In the pine woods at three o'clock on Friday afternoon he made the following pledge: "As I shall meet Thee in that day, take the Lord Jesus as my physical life for all the needs of my body until my life work is done; and God helping me, I shall never doubt that He does become my life and strength from this moment, and will keep me under all circumstances until all His will for me is perfectly fulfilled." He left the pine wood with "every fibre of his soul tingling with a sense of God's presence." Shortly after he was asked to join a party that were about to climb one of the mountains of New Hampshire. His recollection of former painful experiences in Switzerland, and his dread of any high altitude made him shrink back, but his fears were allayed by the thought that Christ was to be his strength. When he reached the mountain top he said he seemed to be at the gate of heaven and from that time was conscious of a new heart in his breast, literally as well as spiritually, and Christ was "its glorious life." When his child was stricken with diphtheria he committed her to the hands of the Great Physician alone. His wife protested and left the child in her father's arms for the night. She was in raging fever, her throat "as white as snow." When in the morning Mrs. Simpson found that the disease had entirely disappeared, she prayed that the truth that had been revealed to her husband might be revealed to her. Captain Janney on Hunger Strike. LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 7. - This is the twenty-seventh day of Captain E. L. Janney's hunger strike in the provincial jail here, and he is showing no disposition yet to take nourishment. Captain Janney's object in hunger striking is to attract public attention and endeavor to gain public sympathy in his case. This was revealed in a letter written by him, which was censored by the prison officials. In the letter Janney complained that a friend in Medicine Hat had refused to secure counsel to defend him; that the world was down on him, and that he would do something to bring his case to the public notice. Since that time he has not eaten anything, so far as the prison guards have been able to learn, though he drinks water, and asked for a stick of licorice last Saturday.

Resigned to Schools. Eight new schools are ready for occupation, while five more will be constructed before winter. The schools just completed and those under construction are in the heart of the Mennonite settlements, where the "old colonists" reside, and who are most opposed to the public schools. In the majority of districts the Mennonites have been resigned to the public schools, as it is certain locations are retaining the old Mennonite schools, officials announce. Part of the Mennonite colonies.
