(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Sept. 14.—Another great war, with millions of bodies, backed by millions of Bolsheviki in arms against Europe, seemed but to await its Parajovo today.

Heavy Rain In Cape Breton

(Special to The Guardian.)
NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Sept. 14.—Forty-eight hours almost continual downpour of rain in the Cape Breton districts is causing the farmers extreme uneasiness.
In some places grain which was cut before the week-end is lying out in the fields, and low lying lands cropped with potatoes are reported sodden with undrained water.
A short let up in the deluge occurred about sundown, but the hope that it would cease was broken by even heavier rains that followed in the morning (twenty-four hours). Many farmers have become discouraged and believe that the promise which the heavy growth of this season gave of recuperating them for the losses of last year has been broken.

Germany Refused Belgian Demand For Cash Deposit

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—The German cabinet today refused to meet the demands of the Belgian government that Germany deposit stores of gold as guarantee for August and September instalments of reparations payments.
The government, which views the situation unfavorably, believes that the whole war debt problem will have to be threshed out by the reparations commission again.
CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Railroad shippers on strike since July 1 started back to work today and railroads throughout the country signed separate agreements voted on by the striking employees.

Boston Symphony Ensemble Conclude Concerts Here

Another Wonderful Night At The Prince Edward Theatre. Audience Again Thrilled With Delight

The visit of the Boston Symphony Ensemble to Charlottetown the last two days has proved easily the most important musical event of the year—perhaps one might say, of several years. Certainly it has been one of the most enjoyable events from a music-lover's point of view.
The splendidly artistic work of this "miniature orchestra," both on Wednesday and last evening, calls for more extended notice than was possible in yesterday's issue of the Guardian.
First and foremost it must be acknowledged that in Mr. Augusto Vannini, the Boston Symphony Ensemble have a superlatively fine conductor. Mr. Vannini's interpretation of the many and varied examples of the highest forms of music is indeed beyond criticism, while his ability to impart that interpretation to the musicians under his baton stamps him as one of the greatest conductors in America.
In such widely different works as Rossini's "William Tell" Overture, Tschalkowsky's lovely "Andante Cantabile," and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody," Mr. Vannini proved himself a most consummate artist and musician, and his command over his forces was nothing short of electric.
It is not to be inferred that Mr. Vannini was less successful in the other numbers; these three alone of Wednesday's performance are mentioned as being outstanding examples of his altogether superb work. As for the work of the Orchestra itself—where every member was a past-master of his instrument, it is as difficult to particularize as it would be invidious to compare. Let it be said that if it were possible to further enhance the already famous reputation of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the "Ensemble" enhanced it the last two nights' program that pleased the very discriminating audience were Saint Saen's "Bacchanale," Hadyn's "Surprise," Wagner's "Fire" music from "Valkyrie," and Komzack's "Patrie Tale," the last named being a most delicious piece of writing for Strings alone.

A very pleasing surprise was sprung on the audience by the playing of a String Quartette written by our own well-known musician, Mr. Watkis, and entitled "Minuet Antien." The minuet is a quaint and delightful little work, and was exquisitely rendered by the Strings of the Orchestra.
It is very gratifying to see our own local musician's undoubted talent recognized by others, and Mr. Watkis is to be heartily congratulated. It is hoped that the Boston Symphony Ensemble will pay Charlottetown another visit in the near future, the delightful impression they have left behind will not be easily forgotten.

Canadian Immigration Approved in England

(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, Sept. 14.—The despatch from Winnipeg to the effect that the Dominion government has approved the western colonization scheme is welcomed here as indicating that Canada is not quite asleep on the importance of immigration, although not the House of Commons, which has developed almost overnight in the Senate.
(Special to The Guardian.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Jolted sharply by the unexpected action of the House in rejecting the bill, the Senate today, after a long conference, met again today to thresh out an acceptable compromise agreement. That the Dye embargo would be struck out seemed certain, not only because of the expressed desire of the House, but because of the strong opposition which developed almost overnight in the Senate.

Pictou To Have Sporting Day On Friday Afternoon

PICTOU, Sept. 14.—With 36 of the best athletes in the Maritime Provinces already entered for Pictou's Natal Day sports, Friday, September 15, it promises to surpass any similar event of its kind ever held in this county. The track has been surveyed by a certified land surveyor and is in excellent condition.
On account of Victor McRiley, of Windsor coming to Pictou in an attempt to break the five mile record, the Pictou Amateur Athletic Association have put up an additional cup, the finest one in its collection of trophies, as a prize for the holder of the McRiley qualifying or bettering the Maritime record.
McAulay will have as competitors in the five mile run, George Walker, unattached, Charlottetown; Barney Francis, Abbots; Henry Ferguson, Pictou; G. McKay, Baillie, Westville; J. A. Humphoid, Westville; D. Stevens and Angus McDonald, Antigonish; H. H. Wetmore, Inter-collegiate champion, Moncton; C. R. Dunbrack, Dartmouth. The pole vault will be brought together Bill Halpenny and Len McDonald, the two premier vaulters of the Maritimes. This event will be one of the features of the afternoon's sports.
The Crescents are sending Bill Mooney, Grant Holmes, Erin Smith and Chris Lott and the Abbots will be represented by Bill Halpenny, Barney Francis, F. Hennessey, O. Campbell and Phil McDonald, also S. B. Ellis, unattached, of O'Leary, P.E.I.

Rebels Recapture Town of Bailyna

(Special to The Guardian.)
BELFAST, Sept. 14.—Bailyna in Northern County Mayo has been recaptured by the rebels who swooped down upon the town yesterday, having first captured and captured the garrison of Free State government troops.
BELFAST, Sept. 14.—Reports from Dublin today tell of heavy firing heard over a wide area in that city shortly after midnight reaching a climax between 12:30 and one o'clock.

DE VALERA AND MULCAHY CONFER

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A report was circulated in Dublin today that Eamon De Valera had a conference with General Mulcahy, Commander of the Free State Army, according to advices from Dublin to the Evening Standard.
Gen. Mulcahy is reported to have told Mr. De Valera that there would be no peace until after the surrender of arms.
The fight took place Saturday Bridges and his daughter sought shelter in the home of a farmer, where their wounds were dressed. Then they made their way to Rocky Mount, where they told their story.
The girl said the bodies would be found beside the road, about 15 miles from here. The sheriff and two deputies found them there.
Bridges said the two men attacked him while he and his daughter were travelling along the road. He said they attempted to stab him to death. Then his daughter came to his assistance, they attacked her too making a deep gash about three inches long across Helen Bridges' left breast. Other wounds were on her right side and right arm. There is also a deep gash about three inches long on her neck.
"Lacy Bridges hit my father on the head with a rock," the girl said. "Then they pulled knives out of their pockets and began cutting him. I went to his assistance, and they cut me. They fought all over the road and in the bushes. I did all I could to help my father. When my father got them both down they did not get up. We lay on the ground several hours, exhausted and bleeding. Then we went to a farmer's house and had our wounds dressed."
Bridges and his daughter have not been arrested. The police say Bridges has been at outs with his relatives because he refused to visit them and forbade his daughter to do so.

Fox Farming Conditions and U.S. Tariff Restrictions

Emphasis Should Now Be Placed Upon Preparing Very Choicest Skins For Canadian and European Markets. Declares Prominent Local Buyer.

Interviewed by the Guardian, stated that Fox Farmers would have to have more patience and as they appear today, Mr. W. Chester S. McLure stated that as we are approaching another fur "takeoff" season from the Fox Farms, fox farmers should begin to pay greater attention to the product they must prepare for market.
Owing to present day conditions and fox farming now facing for the first time Tariff restrictions from the United States that is almost prohibitive viz.—a 50 per cent ad valorem duty that goes into effect Friday, Mr. McLure stated that it was an inopportune time to express any opinion as regards the market outlook for Silver Fox Furs for the coming season. One thing he said that we can do, and that is to prepare now to have a high grade quality of pelts, well tanned, clear in color, silky and beautiful; to accomplish this, the Fox Farmer must give proper care, attention, and good feeding of the foxes. They must also be kept clean, free from fleas, so as to promote a long thick growth of fine top hair. In feeding them it is not necessary to over-feed, but supply them with foods that have and will grow glossy, clear coats. A very important matter, Mr. McLure stated, was that farmers should not kill their 1922 pups this Fall, for, as a large percentage of them do not make good fur the first season, and by marketing furs from pups of 1922, there will always be disappointed people with regard to prices. Mr. McLure further stated that Fox Farmers would have to have more patience and wait until their pelts were prime. Last season, early pelting seemed to be general with all fox ranchers, which placed on the market a large number of under-prime, blue pelted skins which is a most serious condition for our furs, when they face the real fur trade. Many manufacturers complained that last year there were more under-prime, blue-pelting skins offered than heretofore, and this is a real menace to our industry.
On being asked whether the duty on live foxes of $200.00 per head would take effect this season, Mr. McLure stated that while the duty on furs of 50 per cent has been passed and gone into effect, no definite information is yet to hand what the duty will be on live foxes going into the United States. Mr. McLure also stated that the best advice that could be given to the Fur farmers at the present time, and under the adverse conditions that are facing us for the marketing of furs was that all Fox farmers should begin immediately as never before to prepare and have for the Canadian and European markets the very choicest skins to offer. As Mr. McLure has always been a very large buyer of Silver Fox skins and disposed of thousands of skins annually in the American market, he stated that he would now endeavor to develop a new foreign market and build it up equal to the market in the United States until barred from it by another Tariff war.
