

ROMANCE OF HUMAN FRAILTY PICTURED IN "STELLA DALLAS"

At the Prince Edward. Zest for Life's Better Things Mingled With Pathos of Helpless Errors.

"Stella Dallas" the stupendous production which is the attraction at Prince Edward Theatre, is a vividly dramatic modern story of typical American life. It depends not upon the usual motion picture "hook" of wild chases, runaway stage coaches, prairie fires, or battles for the dramatic element, but rather, upon the delicate, talented characters by a case of unquestioned ability and popularity. "Stella Dallas" contains more real drama, intermingled with the lighter moments, than any story he has yet interpreted for the screen. One of the high lights of this story is the unwavering faith and love for her mother, played by Belle Bennett, faithfully enacted by Lola Moran, Samuel Goldwyn's most recent discovery. The little girl, and later, the young woman, fully cognizant of her mother's shortcomings, remains blue true to the end, preferring to sacrifice the beautiful home and the companionship of worth-while people which she really craved, rather than forsake her mother, whose every living ambition and desire has ever been wrapped up in her daughter. There is one episode where, humiliated by her mother's unbecoming appearance and manners, before the fastidious crowd of young folks who were the girl's intimates, Laurel insists that they leave at once the resort where they are vacationing. That night, aboard the sleeper, both hear the same crowd of thoughtless youngsters merrily ridiculing Stella Dallas and sympathizing with Laurel over her mother's appearance. The scene is one which will remain indelibly stamped upon the memory. The suffering of the mother at the realization of the probable humiliation of her daughter, and her "opossum playing" in order that Laurel, if awake, might believe she slept, through the heartless conversation, rivals the concern of the girl, her slipping quietly from the upper berth to investigate, her relief at finding the mother apparently sleeping, and her slipping under the covers to pass the remainder of the night cuddling next to her dearest possession—Mother! Another situation is that where

Tourists Can Still Hear Yodelers

KUFSTEIN, (Tirol) March 9.—Despite recent reports to the contrary appearing in the American press yodeling is not a lost art in the Tyrol, and in Switzerland. Jazz has not yet superseded this vocal diversion peculiar to Swiss and Tyrolean mountaineers, and tourists in the unfrequented parts of these districts can still enjoy yodelling contests. But in Kufstein, 60 miles from Munich, the yodelling of certain natives is apt to clash with mechanical music, for a gigantic organ is to be put up at the picturesque old fortress of Geroldseck, nearly 2,000 feet high, from which fine views may be obtained. The organ will have three manuals, eighty registers and 4,000 pipes to send its sounds into all directions for a distance of five to seven miles. The cost is estimated at $35,000.

Liquor Amendments Given Three Months Hoist

(Canadian Press.) HALIFAX, N.S., March 9.—In the committee on law amendments of the local House this afternoon recommendation was adopted on a vote of 6 to 8 to give a three months hoist to two bills to amend Nova Scotia Temperance Act. One measure was brought in by Mr. J. F. Mahoney, Conservative, Halifax, providing that magistrate may use his discretion in applying the other wise arbitrary fine of $100, and costs in the case of a man found with liquor in his possession in a place other than his private dwelling and providing for a man convicted under the Act the Right of Appeal, which he is at present denied. The other bill was brought in by Mr. E. R. Nickerson, Conservative, Shelburne, and provided drastic amendments to the Act including one making it a prima facie evidence of guilt when an inspector met any form of obstruction in searching a house where liquor was believed to be offered for sale, the motion to give them three months hoist was made by Mr. W. H. Farnham, Conservative, Digby, and carried after considerable argument.

side. Therefore, their scholars had for the most part no means of coming to South Tryon, so that if they were deprived of the church the Sunday School would be completely broken up. The non-concurring minority on the other hand had no organization formed from the 10th of June, 1925 to the 1st of July, 1926. Then their witness declared that "Mr. Stavert told us we had better get going." This was on the eve of the sittings of the commission.

Mr. Campbell argued that this eleventh hour organization did not establish a case sufficient to entitle the Commission to order that the property should be divested from its present legal and equitable owners, the United Church congregation who were using it as a necessary place of worship for their well established and well attended church services and Sabbath Schools. The United Church congregation had offered the use of their church at such hours when they were not using it. They proposed this as a reasonable way of assisting the minority in their hardship, if they wished to continue as an organized group.

Mr. McKinnon in speaking on this case said in part that in the Tryon case claim was made on behalf of continuing Presbyterians on the ground that the vote taken at Tryon was strongly in favor of the continuing Presbyterian but that Church as well as Hampton went into Union because they formed a majority in the one charge giving a majority in all three of one; Bonshaw being strongly in favor of Union; also on the ground that the United Church have a large Methodist Church within 1 1/4 miles to the South and two Churches to the North and Northwest within 7 miles, namely Cape Traverse and Searlestown and also several other Churches to the South and east Craupud, Victoria and Hampton, a former Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Whitehead in arguing the Marshfield case said that in this case the congregation had voted in favor of Union and the minority congregation who, since the vote, have been worshipping in the Baptist Church there, had made application to the Presbyterians Church. A majority of the Commissioners had awarded the Presbyterian Church to the non-concurring congregation and they stated that the majority thereby disposed of their church could find accommodation in the neighboring Methodist Churches those who lived nearer Dunstaffnage could go to Dunstaffnage Methodist Church, while those who lived nearer York could go to York Methodist Church and also some could go to the Methodist Churches at Pleasant Grove and Charlottetown.

It was proved by reference to the evidence that York Church was already filled with one congregation while the other two churches mentioned were so small as to be out of the question. Mr. Whitehead further argued that the Act did not contemplate that a minority could take away a Church building from a majority, if by so doing the majority congregation was compelled to divide itself into several groups, all going to different Churches in the neighborhood. He further stressed the fact that the majority congregation as a unit must not be deprived of a reasonably convenient place of worship in the attempt to find a place of worship for the minority.

An offer was submitted on behalf of the majority to allow the minority to use the Marshfield Church on Sunday afternoons for a reasonable proportion of the upkeep.

Mr. Thane A. Campbell in presenting the Dundas case said that this was an application on behalf of the non-concurring for allocation to them of the former Presbyterian Church at Dundas. In opening, he pointed out that the Commission had unanimously agreed that this application should not be granted. The majority of the Commissioners, however, namely Mr. H. J. Palmer, K. C., the chairman and Mr. Commissioner Martin had substituted a recommendation that the former Methodist Church at Bridgetown should be allocated to the applicants.

Mr. Campbell stressed the fact that the United Church congregation in this case as in all others, was ready and willing to do everything, it reasonably could to assist the minority group in securing a reasonably convenient place of worship. He pointed out, however, that in the present case, there was in reality no bona fide minority group in the meaning contemplated by Section F of the Amending Act. After the result of the vote on entering the United Church had been announced, a congregational meeting was held at Dundas, and at this meeting a resolution was proposed and carried that the entry of the Dundas congregation into the United Church should be made unanimous. This decision had been given practical effect by the fact that all the members of the former Dundas congregation, who had voted against union, had remained for the next fifteen months as active members, attendants, subscribers and officers of the United Church congregation at Dundas. Two signatories appeared to the application presented to the Commission by the nonconcurring group. One of these Mr. Kelvin Hunter, admitted he did not know of any former Presbyterian member of the Dundas congregation who had not continued to be an active member of the United Church congregation. He himself, admitted that he had not been a member. The other gentleman, whose signature the application purported to bear, Mr. Norman McSwain, did not appear before the Commission to support the application. One of the witnesses said he heard that Mr. McSwain did not sign the application. The evidence also showed that Mr. McSwain was still actively engaged in the work of the United Church congregation and that he is an elder and subscriber in that congregation. The evidence also intimated that several of those who had signed a document circulated in support of the application had told the United Church clergyman that they really thought it would be much better for the United congregation to work together.

Several others had also told him they were sorry that they had signed the document. From these facts in evidence, Mr. Campbell, asked the Court to draw the inference that at least a great number who were supposed to be the supporters of the application had lent their support under a misapprehension as to its real nature.

The United Church congregation, under the circumstances, did not feel that they would be justified in offering to a group organized under such conditions and whose likelihood of continued organization was a matter of grave doubt. A church building such as the Bridge-town Methodist Church which they as legal and equitable owners were now employing for Sunday School and prayer meeting purposes and Mr. Campbell contended that the application disclosed no grounds which the Commission or court would be justified in making such an allocation. The United Church congregation however, had offered to the non-concurring group the use of the Bridgetown Church at such times as they themselves, did not require it for services, and Mr. Campbell moved that the Court should vary the ward of the commission in accordance with the offer, by awarding to the non-concurring group the right to use the Bridgetown Church instead of the outright title and property.

In the matter of Freetown, Mr. Whitehead, in arguing, said that in this case the majority of the Commissioners had awarded the Presbyterian Church to the non-concurring minority congregation. It was urged that the Presbyterian and Methodist congregation had formed a United Congregation after the vote was taken, on the understanding that both the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches be used alternately by the United Congregation. Evidence was presented to prove that the United congregation had on several occasions, been cramped and crowded even in the Presbyterian Church which was larger than the Methodist Church, and that when a Communion service was held in the Methodist Church there was uncomfortable overcrowding. The present situation in connection with Sunday School and Young Peoples' work made it necessary that the United Congregation should retain both Church properties. An offer was submitted by the United Congregation allowing the non-concurring group to worship in the Presbyterian Church building at whatever hours on Sundays the church was not being used by the United congregation.

Banks Closing Cause Scare In Montreal

(Canadian Press.) WEST PALM BEACH, March 9.—An armored car bearing $2,000,000 in currency arrived here shortly after noon yesterday, from Miami to prevent the closing of two local banks following the closing of three other banks yesterday. Heavy withdrawals of deposits in the two banks continued in the early afternoon but bank officials expressed belief that the impending closings had been averted by the relief from Miami.

Livestock Report

(Canadian Press.) MONTREAL, Mar. 9.—With but 17 cattle, 73 calves and 653 hogs received for today's market there was very little change in prices. Calves were sold for $10.00 with one lot at $10.50. There was a slight weaker tone to the hog market. Buyers were talking easier prices but all sales today were made at $10.00 mostly on a flat basis. Sows $9.75 to $10.00.

THE MARKETS

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 9.—Business in grain on the Montreal market for export accounts continued slow owing to the indifferent attitude of foreign buyers. The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was also of a limited character but the undertone was steady in sympathy with the recent strength in the Winnipeg cash wheat situation, a stronger tone developing in the local market for spring wheat grades and prices were marked up ten cents per barrel. Car lots of first patients were quoted at $8.00; second patients at $7.50 and strong haker at $7.30 in tubs extra track. The export business was quiet but local trade was fair. The undertone to the winter wheat flour market was firm but prices showed no change. The trade was fair. The milled market continued active and firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was steady with a moderate trade passing. Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 2,550 cases. The turnover in potatoes was small and prices ruled steady. Car sales of Quebec varieties were made at $1.00 to $1.10 per bag of ninety pounds in bulk, extra track. There was no Prince Edward Island or New Brunswick Green Mountains in car lots offered on the market. The feature of the butter trade was the pronounced strength that prevailed and prices scored another advance of 3-4 cents per pound. This was attributed to the continuing good demand. A fairly good business was done. New Zealand finest creamery butter and eastern townships regarded No. 1 pasteurized sold at 43-3-4 cents to 44 cents per pound. The receipts were 678 packages. The cheese trade continued quiet and the undertone was easy. Eastern and western grades were quoted at 17-3-4 cents per pound. The receipts were 59 boxes.
