—HOLY HOUR — The impressive and beautiful service of the Holy Hour was held in St. Paul's Church, Summerside, on Sunday evening when a large congregation attended. The celebrant was Rev. Father A. J. Special music was rendered by St. Paul's Choir with Mr. Guy Houghton as soloist.

—FINED $50 — At the police court in Summerside yesterday the case of the clerk from one of the retail stores who sold ammunition to John Durant, the 15 year old lad who shot Harland Bell, was concluded before Mr. J. E. Wyatt, K. C. After hearing the evidence the judge summed up the case quoting the law made to deal with such cases. His Honor said that there was a fine of $50 or three months in jail or both, penalties could be imposed for selling ammunition to a minor. His Honor fined the defendant $50 and costs but said that the next offender who came before him for a similar case would be given the jail sentence.

—SOME FRACAS — There was a lively time in the old town of Summerside on Sunday evening when a real old time row was staged before a large audience of citizens. The participants were considerable enough not to start the show until after church and about 8.30 things started with a bang. It appears from the evidence given in the police court yesterday morning and afternoon that a young man from out of town and a man whom he had given money to secure liquor for him disagreed and when they became involved in a wrestling match the police intervened. Each of the two policemen took a man to look after but did not hold on to either one. Quite a crowd viewed the proceedings later on, however, the police secured the man from out of town and arrested him and he was fined $10 and costs at the police court yesterday afternoon.

Wade — Milliken Nuptials

The following wedding from the Lewiston Daily Sun of Sept. 2nd is of interest here as the groom's father is a brother of Miss Wade and Mrs. J. A. Messervy of this city.

The leading social event of the season took place last evening at the Bates College chapel when Miss Nelly Knowlton Milliken, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Carl Elias Milliken of Portland, became the bride of Robert George Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Wade of Rockland, Mass. The wedding was at eight o'clock. Rev. George F. Finnie, pastor of the United Baptist Church, performed the ceremony, using the double ring service. The bride was given away by her father.

Frank F. McGinley of South Paris was the best man. Bridesmaids were: The Bride's sisters, the Misses Gladys and Beatrice Milliken of Portland; Miss Gertrude Lombard of West Springfield, Mass.; Miss Margaret Nelson, Augusta; Miss Jean Wade, Rockland, Mass.; Miss Elsie Roberts, West Roxbury, Mass.; Miss Vivian C. Milliken of Portland, was the maid of honor, and the flower girl was Dorothy Elaine Milliken both sisters of the bride.

Gordon Fay, Wilbur Batten, Merrill Barceon, George Bradley, Waldo Weymouth and Howard Bartlett ushered.

The bride was lovely in her gown of white satin, bouffant style with lace panels. She wore a lace bordered veil, used in the family, caught with pearls and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor wore a beautiful peach colored georgette and her flowers were Ophelia roses. The bridesmaids' dresses were especially effective in three shades, ranging from honey dew to flame color, and they carried gladioli in the same shades. The decorations were beautiful. The altar was banked with greenery made up of asparagus fern, white palms and fern with large baskets of gladioli in flame colors shading down to pale yellow were used on either side of the chancel. Arthur Pettengill, presiding at the organ, playing the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," as the bridal train came down the aisle, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the recessional.

A reception in Chase Hall followed at 8.30 attended by a large number of friends and relatives. Gladly in the same colors as decorated the chapel were used. The large reception room was transformed into a drawing room by the cozy arrangement of books, table lamps and floor lamps. Vases of gladioli added to the charm of the room. In the receiving line were: The bride and bridegroom, parents of both, the best man and the maid of honor. The bride's cake was cut at a silver tea table. College friends and the bride's sister served. Mrs. George M. Chase, an aunt of the bride, had charge of the decorating.

Relatives of the bride attending beside her parents were: Her sisters, the Misses Gladys C. Gladys E. Beatrice E. Edith L. Dorothy Blaine Milliken, her brother, Carl E. Milliken, Jr., uncle and aunt, Professor and Mrs. George M. Chase and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Chase, aunts, Miss Elizabeth D. Chase, City; Miss Caroline W. Chase, New York; Mrs. E. C. Bryant
