GIANTS COFFIN WAS UNEARTHED

LONDON, April 7.—Workmen frequently come upon curious things in their street excavations, but it is not every day they disturb the last resting place of a famous giant.

Some workmen had this uncanny experience while digging in Trenchard St., Bristol, recently.

Their picks and shovels grated against the leaden coffin of Patrick Cotter O'Brien, whose immense stature of eight feet three inches made his name a household word a century ago.

There is no mistaking the identity of the coffin for the plate thereon bore the following quaint inscription.

PATRICK COTTER O'BRIEN

Whose name was Cotter,
But he called himself O'Brien,
Whose stature was 8ft. 4in.
He died on Sept. 8th, 1800.
Aged 40.

Patrick, it appears, was as gigantic in graces as in inches.

A native of Kinsale, Ireland, local history records that his manners were amiable and unoffending, and the inflexible integrity of his conduct through life, united to the calm resignation with which he awaited the approach of death proved that his principles were strictly virtuous.

It is said that O'Brien hated the idea of exhibiting himself, and he directed that his body should be so buried as to cheat the grave robbers that gave additional terror to death in those days.

Accordingly his friends provided a leaden coffin and had it interred at a great depth, iron bars being placed in the sides of the rock to render removal impossible.

The local authorities of Bristol are proud of their find, and it is thought they will resist any overtures from the Green Isle to recover the remains.

EDITOR'S MAIL.

POTATOES IN SYDNEY.

Sir—I saw in an Island newspaper, I think it was The Guardian an interview had with a man returned from Sydney stating that they had here some 35,000 bushels of potatoes in stock.

In conversation I heard the remark that potatoes were high. I mentioned what I had seen in the paper and they said they did not believe it. I took the trouble to make some enquiries and one dealer, I think he is from Charlottetown, assured me that 7,000 bushels was the limit of the stock on hand.

As I think there was design in the above deception I would like to see it corrected.

Yours respectfully

THOS. E. RAMSAY.

A CHILD OF SPRING.

Stern winter lingers, loath to leave us yet;
Only today in bare woods I found
His frozen banners white upon the ground,
And in the trees his shining lances set.

The wind sang was a murmur of regret
For all the joy departed, and a sound
Of sorrow filled the frosty air around
With melancholy whispers of Forget.

But I beheld, behind a curled leaf,
Hiding in vain her loveliness and grace,
A timid flower intently listening
In this deserted world worn gray with grief.

Arbutus with her fresh and fragrant face,
Impatient for the mother-call of spring.
