THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

THURSDAY MORNING JAUNARY 3, 1907.

THE ICE PROBLEM.

From the beginning of December to the spring, ice is regarded, if not with aversion, at least with a feeling of coldness by our city and Province. Most winters it tends to become more and more familiar, clinging about our shores and ports and wrapping the Island in a chilly embrace. The board ice is a steady boarder with us, coming without invitation, always unwelcome, and there is no guest whose departure is more heartily speeded in the spring time. It is the recognized enemy of navigation and the relations of trade and navigation are so close that our Board of Trade always keep a watchful eye upon the ice. For that purpose they employ Capt. John Gillis, an old, experienced and trusted navigator to take observations.

This winter our old enemy has been less in evidence than usual. He came as usual early in December, but was not looking so robust as in former years. True, he frightened the captains of the winter steamers as usual and they ran away to Georgetown, but since their departure he has grown sickly and thin. When Captain Gillis went forth the other day as is his wont, to take measurements and report on the condition of the ice, he started out on foot. He found the walking unsafe. He came back and reported that he must have a boat. The enemy had forsaken the channel leading to the harbor, and Captain Gillis, like Peter of old, is too weak in faith to walk on the water and make good time. He could not measure the ice, for there was none to measure.

This is the new problem. We have an ice famine in mid-winter. The Steam Navigation Company's boats cannot run because they are laid up for the winter. Anyway it would be like forcing the season—like wearing a straw hat in February—were the summer boats to stir the blue water at this season of the year. Equally it would be ridiculous for those famous ice-breakers, the Minto and Stanley, to come here when there is no ice to break. Arctic navigators like Captains Finlayson and Brown who delight in bergs and mountains of ice, must not be made a laughing stock. Truly it is a good time for ice-breakers to keep out of sight of Charlottetown. So there we are. May flowers and daisies blooming at Uigg, Parson Simpson digging in his garden, farmers plowing their fields, and we calling out for the ice-breakers to come hither? Perish the thought!

It is clear we have no case on which to appeal to Admiral Brodeur at Ottawa. "Want the ice-breakers, do you? Show me your ice!" he would say, and in the face of such a rebuke we must be dumb as Malpeque oysters. There is nothing for us but to go on carting our produce round by Georgetown, paying $10 to $15 per car load for the privilege. Let us pray that the ice shall not wholly disappear, lest peradventure the Minto and Stanley be snatched away to assist in breaking the ice-bridge at Cap Rouge, Quebec. There is always ice enough there. Attest the noble work of the Montcalm, with two captains, four mates, six engineers, purser, Marconi operator, seven stewards, six cooks and assistant cooks, three waiters, two boatswains, eight quartermasters, three storekeepers, two carpenters and a regiment of firemen, oilers and able seamen, all of whom worked 20½ hours in the winter of 1904-5 at the ice bridge and did not break it. Actually worked on 39 different days, two to seven hours a day and burned $19,000 worth of coal.

There is always ice at Cap Rouge in winter time. That is the place where the ice-breakers should be, not wasting their time round Prince Edward Island where even our Board of Trade expert can find no ice!

NEW YORK TUNNELS AND SUBWAYS.

The latest issue of the Scientific American tells of the progress being made in New York tunnels and subways. The two tunnels of the Pennsylvania Railway Company under the Hudson River have been completed so far as boring the way is concerned. Each will have two tubes for the passage of trains, so that the two double tunnels will be equivalent to four single tunnels. The same company is pushing four tubes beneath East River, which separates old New York from Brooklyn and these will be put through and ready for use in 1908. In connection with these and a number of other tunnels making ten in all, is a vast system of subways beneath the streets of what was New York and Brooklyn. There are now 21 miles of these subways in the more important of which are four parallel railway tracks on which express trains are flying back and forth at high speed like the shuttles of a power loom.

Within four or five years time New York will have 100 miles of subways and tunnels in operation, says the Scientific American. As in this network of underground railways it becomes necessary for one to cross another, great preliminary planning is necessary to arrange the respective depth at which they must be built to avoid interference. For instance, at the intersection of Sixth Avenue and and Thirty-second Street there are three underground double-track railways one below another, while at the surface run the trolly cars on two tracks, and in the air above is the double track Elevated Railway. Here are five railway lines one above another, the lowest running 55 feet beneath the surface. The Scientific American devotes its entire front page to a graphic illustration showing the five railways and cars thereon thus superimposed one upon another.

Where is the esteemed Patriot on the time table question? That is what many are asking. It printed the time table early in October and then made no objections to it, although that was the proper time. The Guardian also printed the table, stated its objections thereto frankly and has since repeated them. The Patriot, almost three months later, objects in general terms and in a furious mood, but no one can tell from a perusal of its columns what it wants.

Gained Both In Strength and Weight.

Another Case That Proves The Merit of
FERROZONE

"I was in poor health nearly all last winter," writes Mrs. Cross, of Wakefield, Ont. "My appetite was variable, I was weak and unfit for work. I suffered a good deal from nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. My digestion was generally out of order. By springtime I had lost flesh, color, and had a bad cough. The doctor didn't help me very much, so I decided to try Ferrozone. It did me ever so much good in one week, I gained strength, looked and felt a lot better. When I had used six boxes of Ferrozone I weighed myself and found a gain of fifteen pounds. Ferrozone rebuilt my constitution, and made me a new woman. I consider Ferrozone worth its weight in gold to every weak woman. It cures quickly and saves big doctors' bills. (Mrs.) R. Cross."

No tonic so certain, so helpful, so safe; try Ferrozone yourself, 50c per box at all dealers.
