

The Wall Flower BY MARION RUBINCAM

A CONFIDENTIAL DIARY Chapter 8

Dora did see Morton Newberry after a time, of course. She shared all the social activities and pleasures of the family, so far as her shy temperament would let her.

But for three quarters of an hour she stayed behind in the kitchen until that place was as shiningly clean as Aunt Maude desired, and until the dining room table was set for the next morning's breakfast.

Then she ran up to her room to comb her hair into order again, hating its limpness, and in her hurry, making a very unbecoming arrangement of it.

Then she went down to the "parlor" to find Gladys playing the piano. Jesse standing by her singing and Morton standing a little way off, smoking a cigar and looking as though he wished he could sing too.

"You've got a beautiful voice," Jesse was complimenting Gladys. "Now, let's try this new one. Judson only got it yesterday."

Gladys began to play it. She had a rich voice which made up in volume what it lacked in fineness of quality. Aside from the usual singing exercises at school, it was trained solely by imitating the vaudeville "artists" who played now and then at the one small theatre. This meant that she forced a natural contralto to high soprano, with somewhat disastrous results. Jesse impressed by sound and strength, really thought it remarkable.

Gladys was particularly good at "soon songs." She reached the chorus, "Oh, how I love you, baby," and rolled her great eyes at Jesse with telling effect. When Jesse joined in the song, one could feel the room shake a little.

Government's Policy Reviewed and Criticised

The Leader of the Opposition, Mr. J. D. Stewart, Severely Criticises the Bell Government Especially With Reference to the Bungling of the Elections Act.

Following is the concluding part of the address delivered by Mr. J. D. Stewart, Leader of the Opposition, in the Provincial Legislature on March 21st, in reply to the speech from the Throne, and to the speakers (Messrs. Hession and LePage) who had preceded him.

Mr. Speaker, before coming to a discussion of the motion before the House, I think it is only right and proper that I should apologize for the infirmities of the flesh which caused a closing of the debate last week before it should properly have terminated, and also to express my gratitude to you, sir, and to the House generally for the kindness and forbearance with which I have been treated during the past few days.

When I moved the adjournment of the debate on Thursday last, I thought I was dealing with the matter of Agriculture. My hon. friend the Commissioner (Hon. Mr. LePage) was sitting there at that time, and I don't know whether or not he has the power of the evil eye—he will probably himself imagine that the department is so difficult to criticize that the very effort to do so would hurt a fly. The matter of surprise to me is that so very little of performance or promise is shown in his department.

It is true that the progress of the School Fairs is referred to in the Address. These fairs were carried on very successfully by the last government, perhaps just as successfully as they are at the present time. We are all agreed as to their usefulness and great importance, and I am prepared to give the government credit for carrying on the good work though and once I do not think they are entitled to any great amount of credit, as the fairs were inaugurated and fully established before they came into power.

The massed mud digging operations, also referred to in the Address, should certainly be a credit to the late government which inaugurated the scheme, through which a good deal of benefit has accrued to the farming people of this province. This project has been allowed to drop by the present government, and machinery has disappeared and no mud has been supplied since the Conservatives went out. I can remember when my hon. friend, the Leader of the Government, was in Opposition, how he had the railway on his back, and he had a banner constructed in his honor, and he has managed to do nothing in regard to realizing his proposition and his promises will not go very far towards furnishing and supplying fertilizer for the farmers of the province.

One of the things that she was feeling rather badly, she sat and scribbled in a diary-notebook that she had. This was a fairly thick volume with heavily gilt edges, and a clasp and key, that had been her mother's. It was one of the few articles that had belonged to her mother that she possessed.

In the early part of the book, her mother had written stray items of information, dates of marriages and births, addresses, now and then a paragraph of some thing she had done.

Grand Jury in its report will in every case bring in a valuable finding. I am certainly not finding any fault with it, but I would like to draw the attention of my hon. friend to the fact that this is not the first Grand Jury that has examined and made a report on Falconwood Hospital. I would also draw his attention to another matter—that an election took place in 1919 in which my hon. friend was absent from his seat for the first time and that, shortly after that, a report came out in the Liberal press—a report heralded forth with the largest and heaviest type—setting forth that the Falconwood institution at the time and for some time past was in a deplorable and disgraceful condition, despite the fact that the Grand Jury two months before, in the Supreme Court in Charlottetown, had made a thorough examination and had brought in a thoroughly satisfactory report. I would also draw his attention to the fact that that report as published in the same newspaper, the report that Grand Jury was practically the same as this report upon which he professes to base his conviction of the present good condition of the institution. Can he and his hon. friend, the Commissioner of the Institution, and the former of the Grand Jury was? He was a gentleman who for many years took a very prominent part in the public and political affairs of this province, and who was for many years at the head of an important department of the public service, the Hon. James H. Muncksiey. We have two reports of Grand Juries, and if we can depend on them in one case surely we can place our dependence on them in the other case.

Something has been said in regard to the work carried on in the Technical and Agricultural School. As I have already stated, I am as much interested in the school as you are, and as desirous as anybody for the advancement of education in this province in all ways. And I think that no form of education is more practically needed than along this very line, and so far as the department of the public service, the Hon. James H. Muncksiey, we have two reports of Grand Juries, and if we can depend on them in one case surely we can place our dependence on them in the other case.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

will push the interests of the island in this matter at the earliest opportunity.

Provincial Claims.

The important matter of our claims as a province against the Federal Government is one which has often been discussed on the floor of this House. In the Speech from the Throne it is intimated that the government "intends to take advantage of this opportunity to push the claims of the province."

This is a matter in which the party I represent should take particular pride. It has been referred to so often that I will only touch upon it in passing. I need not remind the House that before 1911 it had practically been abandoned. The government of the day was closed with respect to these claims; that we need not waste our time making any further efforts in the matter; and that from 1911 on that door was opened to the extent that we received from the government of Ottawa an annual sum of $100,000 paid to our general account. That door was opened by the Conservative Government and it has remained open to this day.

And further than that, the negotiations would have been still further advanced if the government had still further augmented our revenues, if it had not been for the unfortunate outbreak of the war. I very well remember the session of 1918 when my hon. friend, now Premier, was very insistent on the "appeal" that the hon. Leader of the Government was not still further pressing those claims. He argued at great length that we were not pressing them with sufficient strength. We were "fawning and coaxing where we should demand."

And once his supporters were occupied in his Cabinet, the matter was one not of request but of right, and demanded that if we did not succeed in obtaining our full justice by negotiation then we should carry our case into the courts.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

during this session five seats on the floor of this House are vacant and that one electoral district in this province is totally unrepresented.

Afraid of the Polls.

Is this the explanation? It must be either of two things—culpable negligence or something worse. On account of it we have a condition of affairs that so far as I am aware is without parallel in the history of this province. One-sixth of the total number of representatives of this House are absent—one-sixth of the total number of seats vacant and one district totally unrepresented and the laws and statutes of this province deliberately and openly violated by the very gentlemen whose first duty it is to see that the laws are carried into effect.

I do not think there is anything further I might say with reference to this. It appears to me that the explanation I have given is perhaps the correct one—that on account of the misrepresentations by which these gentlemen gain power, and on account of their knowledge of the fact that the promises they made have been falsified and that the people know they have been fooled and are waiting their opportunity at the polls—on account of all this, they very naturally wanted to hide off for as long as possible because they did not want to face the people of this province even in a by-election! If not all, at least some of the seats could have been filled. There is no doubt about it. None were filled, or attempted to be filled, and this is an argument going to show that it was simply a matter of cowardice on the part of the government in dodging an issue that would bring them before the people sooner than they were absolutely compelled to.

Mr. Stewart, in conclusion, said that any further matters he had to discuss he would leave until a later date, as he had not yet fully recovered from the effects of his illness.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

ed from a less sophisticated member of the government to a more sophisticated member—one who had a little more political experience, who knew what was coming, and who quietly shelved this little amendment because it was not deemed safe or expedient to have a by-election?

Can't Get the Seats.

Is this the explanation? It must be either of two things—culpable negligence or something worse. On account of it we have a condition of affairs that so far as I am aware is without parallel in the history of this province. One-sixth of the total number of representatives of this House are absent—one-sixth of the total number of seats vacant and one district totally unrepresented and the laws and statutes of this province deliberately and openly violated by the very gentlemen whose first duty it is to see that the laws are carried into effect.

I do not think there is anything further I might say with reference to this. It appears to me that the explanation I have given is perhaps the correct one—that on account of the misrepresentations by which these gentlemen gain power, and on account of their knowledge of the fact that the promises they made have been falsified and that the people know they have been fooled and are waiting their opportunity at the polls—on account of all this, they very naturally wanted to hide off for as long as possible because they did not want to face the people of this province even in a by-election! If not all, at least some of the seats could have been filled. There is no doubt about it. None were filled, or attempted to be filled, and this is an argument going to show that it was simply a matter of cowardice on the part of the government in dodging an issue that would bring them before the people sooner than they were absolutely compelled to.

Mr. Stewart, in conclusion, said that any further matters he had to discuss he would leave until a later date, as he had not yet fully recovered from the effects of his illness.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

Perhaps I might add that the Leader of the Government made a pilgrimage to Halifax. Just what was done, or whether any results came of that pilgrimage, I do not know. I assume that that conference was considered even by the hon. Leader of the Government himself as being of not very great importance, because if there is one man in the House who is qualified above all others to deal with the subject, it is the hon. Leader of the Government.

I've Gained 18 Pounds and Feel Like a New Person Since Taking TANLAC states Mrs. Jno. E. Wolfe, Grand Deserts, N. S. Thin, frail people frequently make remarkable gains in weight by taking Tanlac.

It enables your worn-out stomach to extract every ounce of nourishment from the food you eat, thereby building up the whole system. At all good druggists.

The Bankruptcy Act In the Supreme Court

In the matter of the Estate of Frederick J. Mullen of Tracadie Cross, P. E. Island, Authorized Assignor.

There will be sold by Public Auction on the premises of the above named Assignor, at Tracadie Cross on Wednesday the 19th, day of April at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, seventy one (71) acres of land, with buildings thereon being the farm formerly owned by Frederick J. Mullen of Tracadie Cross, P. E. Island, Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, by Deed of Assignment bearing date the 7th, day of March A. D., 1922.

This farm will be sold subject to a Mortgage of $1500.00. Terms of Sale are: 20 per cent purchase price to be paid the Auctioneer at the time of Sale, and the balance payable on the execution of the Deed of Conveyance. There will also be sold at the same time, and place, personal property consisting of one cow, etc.

THE CANADIAN CREDIT MEN'S TRUST ASSOCIATION LTD. (Maritime Division) E. W. MANSON, Representative for Prince Edward Island, Authorized Trustee.

The Bankruptcy Act In the Supreme Court

In the matter of the Estate of Frederick J. Mullen of Tracadie Cross in Queens County, Prince Edward Island, Authorized Assignor.

Sealed Tenders will be received by the undersigned up to noon on Wednesday the 19th, day of April, A. D. 1922, for the purchase of the Stock of Merchandise and Store Fixings and Book Debts, of the Estate of the above named Authorized Assignor, situated at Tracadie Cross.

Tender No. 1.—For stock of Merchandise and Store Fixings contained in the store formerly occupied by the above named Authorized Assignor at Tracadie Cross, consisting of Dry Goods, Groceries, Hardware, etc. These goods have all been inventoried at present day prices.

Tender No. 2.—For the Book Debts of the Estate of the above named Authorized Assignor. Tenders must be marked plainly on the outside with the number and name of the item tendered for. A certified cheque for 20 per cent of the purchase price must accompany each tender.

The highest or any Tender not necessarily accepted. A complete detailed Inventory of the stock of Merchandise and Book Debts, may be examined at the Office of N. Rattenbury, Charlottetown, or at the office of the undersigned at Summerside.

THE CANADIAN CREDIT MEN'S TRUST ASSOCIATION, LTD. (Maritime Division) E. W. MANSON, Representative for Prince Edward Island, Authorized Trustee.

FARM FOR SALE

24 acres clear land, situated at East Bayville, 3 1/2 miles from town, new buildings, pump in house and barn. ASHLEY McLAUGHLIN.

Brighton Property For Sale

The best building lot in the Brighton district, high and dry. Beautifully treed. Spruce hedge at north. Large enough for nice lawn and garden. Apply R. E. WHITE, Gray Dart Show Rooms, 159 Queen St. Phone 521 or 234-L.

Agents WANTED

Farmers Agents and Specialty Salesmen, wanted to demonstrate a fast selling article to farmers and fishermen. Sells on sight. A splendid proposition. Liberal commissions. Apply early and get your choice of territory.

R. E. WHITE, Gray Dart Show Rooms, 159 Queen St., Charlottetown.

FOR SALE

The farm formerly owned by the late Christopher Cairns, consisting of one hundred and ninety six acres more or less, situated in Freetown, one and one quarter miles from Freetown station with house and out buildings. Clear title can be given for all of it. For particulars apply to.

ALEX. CAIRNS, Lower Freetown. A. SCOTT MacMURDO, North Bedouque, Executors.

FARM FOR SALE

The subscriber offers for sale his farm situated at Campbell's Cove, Lot 47, consisting of 206 acres, 70 acres clear, balance covered with soft and hard wood. Buildings consisting of dwelling barn, piggery, machine house, poultry house, all in first class repair. Will sell with or without stock and building, 1.

D. J. CONWAY.

FOR SALE

Kinkora property for sale, known as the Kinkora Race Track property, consisting of 212 acres, there is 57 acres ready for cropping, 120 acres clear, 35 acres in mixed lumber and balance in pasture, this makes an ideal dairy or potato farm, as there is a brook hat runs across the farm, there is also five pumps on the property. The rear of this farm fronts on Mt. Tryon road. This property is situated 1.2 mile from Kinkora station, convenient to Church and School. Large dwelling house and good buildings, this property don't need any puffing, as most of the public have driven through it going to the races. If not sold privately, before April 15th, will be sold by public auction, with all stock, crop, machinery, and household furniture, April 25th. Will sell property to suit purchaser. On account of ill health am moving to California, Peter Ranahan.

AUCTION SALE

AT ORWELL ON WEDNESDAY

April 12th, at ONE o'clock p. m. STOCK of horse & years old, Black Directum Patch, 1 mare 6 years old, Bay Commodore, 1 extra handsome stallion coming 2 years old (registered) sired by Dingo's 2.5 14 Dan Capitola by Parkside, this is one of Lower Canada's best futurity prospects, won 2 first prizes and diplomas, 8 head young cattle, 1 to freshen in May, 50 hens.

IMPLEMENT—1 binder, Massey Harris, 1 hay rake, McCormack, 1 set disk harrows, 1 single plough, Frost & Wood, 1 set pin harrows (iron) 1 scuffer, 1 seeder, 1 truck wagon, (nearly new) 1 cart and wheels, new, 1 bike wagon rubber tire, 1 buck board, 1 Joz cart, 1 McLanahlin driving sleigh, 1 wood sleigh, big box, 3 sets driving harness, 1 set bow, 1 pad and breechin, cart saddle, and breechin, set double harness, 2 collars and hames, 1 grindstone, lot poultry netting, 2 pair leather traces, 1 barrel churn, 1 15 gallon milk can, set blacksmith tools, quantity wool, also household furniture, 100 bushels potatoes, 2 ton hay, and some straw, 20 digger loads of oyster mud, 3 shares in Orwell Dairy Co., other articles too numerous to mention. TERMS—6 months on all sums over $5.00, 6 per cent per annum, off for cash. J. A. MURCHISON, J. A. McDONALD, Auctioneer, Orwell, March 30th, 1922.

Apply Sulphur To Heal Up Your Skin

Broken out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief. You can get it by applying a little Mentho Sulphur and improvement shows next day. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this so, apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up. Get a small jar from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

A Splendid Organization.

The next matter dealt with in the Address is one that I do not think the Department of Agriculture has much to do with. I refer to the Potato Growers' Association. To my mind, however, this is a very important organization. And I may say in passing that it has been organized altogether, and is being carried on by those very men whom my hon. friend from Montague (Mr. Hession) has referred to as "stealing" from one another—men who are, nevertheless, the backbone of the country. Potatoes, of course, have always been an important part of our life. I think it is admitted that we have one of the best places on earth for producing them. My hon. friend (Mr. Hession) referred to me as being "a farmer in a small way." I suppose he means by that, a gardener, and he is quite right. My experience as a gardener has taught me this, that in any seeds we can produce at all in this province, we can produce as good a quality, if not better, than any we can import. I have tested various kinds of Island seeds side by side with imported varieties, and very often found this to be the case. Here, where we grow potatoes so successfully, there is no question but that the industry of raising potatoes, for seed is a splendid one, and will have a great future if properly taken care of.

In regard to the question of better transportation, I think we are all agreed on the importance of this and the part it will play in increased production. I hope the government, now that it is in line with the government at Ottawa,

A False Brag.

I will not deal with the Public Accounts just now, because they are not yet properly and intelligently discussed before the motion of Supplies is before the House. I might just remark that a statement made by my hon. friend who seconded the resolution (Mr. LePage) has led me to believe he was wrong when he said that I had judged him to be. I took him to be a man who had reached a point in middle life, and was bearing his years well, but when he says that the government in making expenditure a record, I take it he cannot be old enough to have read the political history of 1913-14, because had he done so he would have found that there were small surpluses at that time. I might also remind him that the Liberal governments have not yet done as far as we have in the number of surpluses, though they have gone very far beyond us in deficits.

The matter of proposed legislation is dealt very meagerly with in the Address. The hon. Leader of the Government, however, has given some information in reply to my inquiries, for which I suppose I ought to be thankful, as it has partially supplied the deficiency which is so very obvious in the Speech.

Mr. FARMER

Now is the time to secure your seed potatoes, 1000 bushels Government Inspected seed, (Green Mountains) why grow red potatoes when the markets demand white. J. P. HOOPER, Charlottetown.

Freckle-Face

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily

NOTICE

All goods of Ezra Power's sold on his property Hope River to be replaced at once in his house to the satisfaction of my friend Mr. J. P. Hooper. Also two tons of hay to be delivered to him or proceedings shall be taken without further notice. (Sgd.) EZRA POWER.

NOTICE

To owners of Frost & Wood, Crown grass plows. I have recently been allowed a patent on my invention for repairing those wheels where the corner is worn out of the hub. As the season is now approaching, it would be well to examine your wheels and see if they need repairs, if so I can repair them that you can get more wear out of them than when new for one dollar and seventy-five cents each, while if it does give you a new wheel, I have been using my device for over two years and it has given perfect satisfaction. Any parties sending me six or more wheels for repairs, I will pay the return freight on them. J. T. O'LEARY, Peake's Station, P. E. I. Any one infringing on my patent will be prosecuted according to law.