Of Importance to You

YOU'D BE SURPRISED if you knew how many systems of shorthand have been published and then have been forgotten.

PITMAN'S PHONOGRAPHY. There have been literally many hundreds of them. Most of them have had but one edition, but a few that have been well trumpeted have lived long enough to fool some thousands of young people with their claims of being "easy to learn."

They are "simpler than Pitman," because they are shade-less and position-less. But in the end these minus systems all go to the stenographic graveyard, and a new crop comes on. And all the while Phonography keeps right on doing the actual shorthand work of the English-speaking world.

Pitman's Phonography is written by 77 per cent of the shorthand clerks in the departmental offices of the United States, 91 per cent of all the official shorthand reporters in the law courts of the United States, 98 per cent of the official shorthand reporters of the law courts of the State of New York.

All the reporters and reporters of the Debates and Committees of the United States Congress, these are official figures and not mere "home-made statistics."

Who ever heard a Pitmanite wither or regret that he had not studied another system?

Further information regarding Pitman's shorthand cheerfully furnished at the CHARLOTTETOWN BUSINESS COLLEGE, where it is taught.

Has Not Created Anything More Enthralling

Written by STROHEIM Directed by STROHEIM Starring by STROHEIM

HER husband had neglected her—had gone away—she was very lonely and unhappy—outside her door waited one who had sworn to make her the happiest woman on earth—all she had to do was to give him his chance. Do you think you know what was in the letter she gave him? What would you have written in her place?

You'll find the answer in "BLIND HUSBANDS," the most absorbing, gripping, thrilling piece of photo-realism you've ever seen in your life—a story so true and yet so beautiful as to hold you breathless to the very end. If you miss this tremendous drama of human passions you will miss the greatest sensation of the year. Now playing.
