

Proper Breathing

The lungs cannot act properly if the nostrils are congested and clogged.

For that persistent Chronic Catarrh of the nose a prolonged medicine is necessary to stimulate the membranes and keep the heating free Nyal's Catarrh Balm softens the hard discharge permitting it to be easily dislodged. It's soothing antiseptic acts on tones up the nose and makes the breathing a pleasure.

Stuffy breathing certainly does make one feel unfit for anything.

The collapsible tube with long nasal tip is a clean and convenient method of medication—Costs only a half dollar.

MRS. VAN DYCK PLEADS FOR DIVORCE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Irene A. Van Dyck began a second action in the Supreme Court yesterday for a divorce from Edward B. Van Dyck, an officer and a member of the Cotton Exchange. In the first action, which was begun a year ago, the name of Mrs. Gertrude Hall, of Webb Hill, Stamford, Conn., was mentioned.

The allegations in her second action could not be learned last night, as neither Clifford S. Bostwick, of No. 46 Cedar street, nor J. Lawrence Friedman, of No. 115 Broadway, counsel in the case, could be found.

Letters introduced in the first action proved of interest to Mr. Van Dyck's friends, who learned from them that he had discovered the "perfect sweetheart." In these epistles Mr. Van Dyck was referred to as "Goosie," while Mrs. Van Dyck was supposed to play the part of "Xantippe."

Mrs. Hall, whose husband was Lincoln Hall, a broker, denied the charges and said that she was engaged to be married to a business man in Boston.

POTATO PRICES IN MAINE WILL DROP.

HOULTON, Me., Oct. 12.—Potatoes are selling at $1 per barrel at the freight sheds and large quantities are being brought in for shipment as a drop in price is momentarily feared.

QUAINT OLD WEDDING IDEAS.

Superstition never clusters round any episode of life more than that of the wedding day, especially in older times.

Then it was customary for the bride to present her future husband with a bunch of rosemary, tied up with ribbons, on his first appearance on the wedding morning. This was supposed to secure his love and loyalty, and to make her happy for ever.

In Yorkshire the old superstition still abounds that nothing more unlucky could happen than for a newly-made bride to leave the church by a different door from that by which she entered.

Another quaint custom, for which there is no known origin, is that practised in some of the Midland and Northern counties. This is to ring a merry peal of the church bells at the first reading of the bans of an interesting matrimonial couple. It is called the "spur peal," which in old Anglo-Saxon means simply "ask."

Of course, it is well known that it is the height of luck for a bride-to-be to dream of fairies the night before the actual ceremony. So much was this idea believed, that many girls would peruse fairy tales before going to sleep.

CHARLOTTETOWN AND ELSEWHERE

It pays to buy in this Province. The S. S. Halifax is due to arrive at Charlottetown at 6 a. m. today.

Prof. Theo. Ross, Charlottetown, was a passenger returning on the express last night.

Rev. George Miller, Alberton, arrived in Charlottetown on the express last night.

The eastern accommodation arrived in Charlottetown yesterday at 5.20 on time, and the Tignish express at 10.10, 20 minutes late.

John Quinn, Contractor, Charlottetown, while doing some repairing to the Appraiser's Office fell off a ladder hurting himself severely, sustaining some very serious injuries to his spine, severely cutting his leg and getting a general shaking up. A physician was immediately called and the injuries attended to. Mr. Quinn will probably be confined to the house for some time.

At the St. Dunstan's Cathedral, Charlottetown, last night, Rev. P.C. Gauthier, D. Palmer Road, delivered a very interesting sermon to the Knights of Columbus, who paraded to the cathedral from their hall on Queen st. The sermon was followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, during which a duet, "O Sponsa Mei," was sung by William Brown and Miss Lucy Blanchard.

"You never call the doctor unless you need him. You listen with grave attention to every word he says. But then—what do you do with that vitally important thing—the prescription he leaves? Doesn't the success of the doctor's treatment depend on the exactness and care with which his prescription is filled and the freshness, strength and purity of the ingredients. LEARNING TO LOVE GOD.

How can one learn to love God? Evidently some do not have that love for God which they should have. There is a love which is manifested in an emotional ecstasy; there is a love which is seen best in service and devotion, though this may be the outgrowth of reverence or ecstasy.

The cold, methodical, mathematical man will live a long time before he experiences that emotional love. It does not fit nature, and never will. A man of the opposite temperament would think he was backsliding if his heart was not fired up continually with the kind of love that fits his character. Indeed, all love is alike after all, but it has these various channels of expression and different ways of manifestation, dependent partly upon a man's mental make-up.

We learn to love things by keeping at them. Loving God may be acquired by keeping at it persistently. Love of God can be cultured more readily than love for some of the things we eat, because God made special provision in every man's life for that man to respond to divine influences. Mental tastes can be cultivated. If one prays and reads the Bible and introduces the opportunities to worship God in his temple, the appetite will be created and kept moral. Whenever we hear a man say that he can't love God, we conclude that he is not thoughtful enough to consider what God has done for him, or honest enough to acknowledge his indebtedness to the Lord.

TRUE COURAGE.

"Mother," said little Teddy, "what is courage?" "Courage, Teddy? Let me explain. Suppose there were ten little boys in a bedroom, and nine of those little boys were bad, and got into bed straight away. But if the tenth little boy knelt down to say his prayers, that boy would show true courage."

"Oh, mother, I know something better than that!" "What is it dear?" "Suppose there were ten ministers in a bedroom and one of them got into bed without saying his prayers, that would be courage!"

A CHERRY HEART.

Gratitude is a great promoter of joy, and prompts one to seek peace and pursue it. The quests of the heart are usually successful. In the matters of social sunshine and individual cheer as in spiritual grace and comfort, if we ask we shall receive, if we seek we shall find, and if we knock it shall be opened unto us.

To be in fellowship with God is to stand in the light and warmth of the Sun of Righteousness. In that case we are cherry, no matter as to the season. December is as pleasant as May, it may be cold without, and the dampness may penetrate to the very bones, but in the realm of the divine home circle, with the blaze of love on Father's hearth. That makes the heart cheery. Of course it does. Let us be grateful, and that will help to make us happy.

YOUR INFLUENCE.

It is said that there is no religious work save that of personal touch. If that be true, what care and prayer should be employed in the use of it. It is the faculty of influence that every man possesses, and in each case it is different from that of every other individual.

You have it, as did Francis of Assisiss, Paul, John and Jesus. It is a delicate essential, human thing, with divine power thrilling it. In the fact that yours is different from every other man's life its value to you and the world. It is that subtle thing that closes the circuit and sends the vital power across to the other fellow. Even the power of God's own life, eager to pass us, bated till that circuit was passed, insulation passed with his incarnation in Christ, through whom his personal power touched and saved us.

This personalization of the divine life was necessary to our salvation; and it is through a spirit-filled personality, and in His name and power, we may savingly touch our fellowmen. Let us do what we can for Him and them.

AN ODE TO COOK.

The world is always praising all the great folks of the time; The artists and the sculptors and the orators sublime; But to earth's greatest heroine they seldom cast a look. I'll tell you who she is at once—the blessed household cook!

We hear a lot of lauding for the man who goes to war, For the doctor and the lawyer and the prophet's wondrous are, Engineer and decorator and the author's famous book; But we seldom hear a word about the blessed household cook!

Perhaps you think she isn't worth the praise that I would give, But without her ceaseless kindnesses, pray how long would you live? We would soon expire if of food we had no partook.

By her hat in honor of the blessed household cook! She saves the lives of thousands by her duties every day, Though she does it in a simple and unnoticed quiet way; And when I am an author I shall surely write a book About the queen of womankind—the worthy household cook!

WHY WE FAIL.

Mr. Torrey says that the reason many people fail in the battle of life is because they wait till the fight with temptation is on before they seek equipment for the occasion. The fact is, those who succeed in the strife of truth with falsehood actually gain the victory on their knees long before the battle begins.

But for the night of agony and bloody sweat of the garden, Jesus would have been poorly prepared for Pilate's hall and Calvary. Moreover, if his disciples had kept awake and wrestled in prayer till the dawn Peter would likely have owned his Lord, and none of them would have stood so far away on the next day.

We have learned to know that the fight of the day is won in secret and in family prayer, before the physical fast is broken, and long before the enemy is in sight.

ENGLAND AND WAR.

In matters of warfare man has always been a coward and a hero (we don't want to fight—but, by jingo! if we do!) but I think he is growing more cowardly. Not so much because he may be, in spite of appearances, growing less inclined for fighting, but because he is growing afraid of fighting. In the old days England gloried in playing the part of David. The glory of the conquest of the Armada was increased a thousandfold by reason of the fact that the English fleet was outclassed in size by the Spanish. But today we have but one desire; that is to be twice as big as any possible opponent. And, further, we have so little faith in the permanence of the battle-spirit that we are all saying to each other that the next war will be the last; mankind could not stand another. We don't know mankind Moscow, for its day, was quite as staggering an object-lesson as could be any possible Armageddon of the future. —Aholbrook Jac'son.

DR. PORTAL'S FEE.

Dr. Portal, the favorite medical attendant of Louis XVIII, of France, was offered an unusual reward for his services. Having cured Vestris of a severe illness, the famous dancing master said to him: "My dear doctor, I should never dream of offering you money. Between artists there can be no dealings except those of gratitude. To demonstrate mine, I will give you a valuable hint as to your department. I have often noticed that you have a most ungraceful way of carrying yourself. I can remedy that in a few lessons, and teach you now to enter a sick room in such a way as to please the most exacting patient. We can begin now if you like."

Much to the amazement of Vestris, Portal declined this offer, and so lost the esteem of his illustrious patient.

"NA-DRU-CO. DYSPESPIA TABLETS

Proved of Great Value to Me"

There is only one explanation for the numbers of enthusiastic letters that we receive praising Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and that is that these tablets certainly do cure any kind of stomach trouble.

Here is a typical letter from Miss Eliza Armsworthy, Conso, N.S.: "It is with pleasure I write to inform you that your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets have proved of great value to me. I tried remedy after remedy but without any lasting good. Having heard of your tablets curing such cases as mine I decided to give them a fair trial. They proved satisfactory in my case."

The remarkable success of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is such a success as can only come to an honest remedy compounded according to an exceptionally good formula, from pure ingredients, by expert chemists. If you are troubled with your stomach just ask your Druggist about Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, and sold throughout the Dominion at 50c. a box.

DOGS AND DOORS.

Few of the contemporaries of James McNeil Whistler cared to match their wit against his, for the artist's sharp tongue was almost as famous as his paintings. Yet there is one such encounter recorded in J. J. Conway's "Footprints of Famous Americans in Paris," in which the honors must be awarded to Whistler's adversary.

Whistler was at the height of his artistic fame, when a French poet, of which he was very fond, became ill. The artist immediately called in Sir Morell Mackenzie, the famous throat specialist. The renowned physician was not much pleased at being invited to diagnose the illness of a dog. However, he held his peace, prescribed, pocketed his fee, and drove away. The next day he sent an urgent message to Whistler, asking him to call quickly.

On his arrival, Sir Morell gravely ushered him in, and said, without a smile, "How do you do, Mr. Whistler? I wanted to see you about having my front door painted?"

MORAL SYSTEMS.

The straight and narrow way which Christ enjoined upon His followers indicates the moral path which each of us must observe in order to lead a blameless, consistent, and individual career. But the instant we try to survey the moral system of a whole people or race we are confronted, not by a single straight path, but by a vast plain, as it were, stretching from a dim light, far in the distance, with green, graceful hills striking its base, to the wide paths dotted here with primeval forests, other with gardens of daintiest flowers and cut up by manifold paths of various breadth running in seemingly contradictory directions. How one is bewildered by a sight like this.
