

The Ordinary Cough

All coughs are much the same in the incipient stage, but its hard to tell what they will develop into.

A cough at the beginning does not amount to much, it has to become more than an ordinary cough to have any special attention paid to it. That's just where mistakes are made; the time to stop a cough is when it begins. Always keep a bottle of

DEATHS

(From Yesterday's Evening Guardian) STEWART.—Died suddenly of apoplexy at Bay View last night, 13th John Stewart aged 84. Funeral Friday at 2 o'clock to Cavendish Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ROBERT McLAREN

One of the landmarks of Charlottetown has passed away in the person of Mrs. Robert D. McLaren whose death occurred at her home on Grafton Street Tuesday at the advanced age of 87 years. Thelma Mrs. McLaren was a native of Bermuda, and when but a child was taken by her parents to Glasgow, Scotland, where she lived sufficiently long to well remember some of the scenes and people although she never again visited her old home. Her father was an army officer, and with his wife and two daughters, one of whom was the late Mary McKay came to the Island long years ago, took up their residence in this city and lived on Grafton Street until they were all called to their heavenly home. Some five weeks ago Mrs. McLaren fell and sustained injuries which, at her time of life, naturally hastened her demise. She was a Christian woman, beloved by her intimate acquaintances and affectionately regarded by all. She was one of the oldest members of Zion Presbyterian Church, and she has left behind a record of good deeds. Her aged husband now in his ninety-second year will have the sympathy of all in his sorrow.

The stout woman should know that yellow increases her natural size. Satin also makes her look bigger. Blue is slightly enlarging tone; white is a stationary color. Black, seal brown, navy blue and the deepest of crimsons are all tones that decrease the size.

Do not enter another day with itching, bleeding, or protruding PILES. No surgical operation required. Dr. Chase's Ointment will relieve you at once and so certainly cure you. Write to us, 107 St. James Street, Toronto. Sample box free if you mention this paper and enclose 5c. stamp to pay postage.

CHARLOTTETOWN AND ITS MAYOR

Citizens of Charlottetown will read with pleasure and justifiable pride the financial statement of the city for the past year. The report throughout spells healthy growth, progress and prosperity. The figures speak for themselves and speak plainly; civic liabilities decreasing, civic conveniences and utilities expanding, civic resources growing without any increase in taxation.

This condition is all the more to be appreciated at the present time when almost all other municipalities are borrowing heavily in the British market. We are not only not borrowing, but are rapidly reducing our debts. We are making progress, probably as rapidly as a city of our size and resources has a right to expect. We are gradually improving our amenities; our sanitary conditions are being improved—although there is still room for improvement; we are yearly adding to our sidewalks, having now over thirteen miles of concrete laid; our streets are, generally speaking, fully equal to those in most of our Canadian cities; we are yearly beautifying our streets by tree planting; our street lighting is being gradually extended; we have a park that would do credit to a much larger city; in short we have all the conveniences and comforts as a city and as a people that could reasonably be expected of a city of our size—and with all these we are living within our means. We have neither increased our taxes nor mortgaged our future to maintain this pace.

In due course the city of Charlottetown, if blessed—as we have no doubt it shall be—with a Mayor and City Council of the calibre of the present, will be on a par with the oldest and most substantial cities of New England which had their day of small things and developed gradually and healthily. We may be accused of slowness; we have not grown up in a night, like the gourd of Jonah, nor in a year, like some of our Western neighbors. We have hastened slowly; we have "cut our garment according to our cloth" and today our city's credit in the money markets of the world stands on a par with that of any city in America and far higher than that of many cities which have more noise about their phenomenal growth. As a result real estate in Charlottetown is worth its face value; business is in a healthy condition and the investor in any kind of legitimate business or enterprise here may rest assured that there are no "wild cats" lying in wait for him nor inflated values to lure him into mad cap ventures. Financially, socially, morally and spiritually the city is healthy.

The mayor and Councillors are to be congratulated on their year's work and served it well. In the nature of things fault has been found in some departments, but generally speaking with but little cause. There has been some adverse comment on the condition of the streets both in summer and in winter. The dust has been always lain where citizens wished it would, and the spring freshets have not always followed the prescribed waterways. These things can be improved upon and we trust will be hereafter. With the exception of these little eccentricities on the part of the dust and the freshets the year has been one to be proud of.

The election, which is now looming up in the near future, will probably make some changes in the personnel of the Civic government. Naturally some budding statesmen will offer their services; naturally, also, some who have shared either actively or passively in the glory of the past year will offer to repeat the performance. To encourage the new or to perpetuate the old, in whole or in part will be the prerogative of the electors whose funds are to be placed in trust in the hands of the Council; it is for them, the electors to do their duty, for them to choose, remembering the old adage "Let the office seek the man, not the man the office."

It is but due to Mayor Lyons to state that had he consented to stand for re-election he probably would have been returned unopposed. He has made an unusually successful municipal chief and been most assiduous in his attention to the duties of his office. In addition to his careful supervision of the routine work of his office he has been popular socially. Hardly a public function has been complete without Mayor Lyons being allotted a part in the proceedings, and he "touched nothing he did not adorn." A fluent, witty orator, he has been in demand as an after dinner speaker. He has taken a keen interest in the welfare of the young, attended all the principal exhibitions in connection with the schools, and has been a generous contributor to the prize lists. He has been pre-eminently charitable, and in all his actions and conduct in office he has had a single eye to the welfare of the citizens and the fair fame of the city. In his retirement the thanks and best wishes of all classes in the community go with him.

BOARD OF TRADE

The full and interesting presidential report made by Mr. R. H. Jenkins to the annual meeting of the Board of Trade last night is one of the greatest boosts the Island had had. Taken in conjunction with Mayor Lyons' report on the civic year, it means that Charlottetown is the best city of its size in Canada. Other cities in the Maritime Provinces have reason to congratulate themselves on the year's progress, but no city can boast as Charlottetown can of a year of unalloyed prosperity booming trade, and a surplus in the treasury.

Mr. Jenkins rightly dwelt on the value of the public meetings held under the auspices of the Board. These have an educative as well as an encouraging influence on the community and should be resumed during the present year. In order to get the spirit of optimism into every man, woman and child these special efforts are necessary, and the result will far more than repay the trouble incurred during the year. The Council of the Board has accomplished a good deal of valuable work. It was as vigilant as ever in connection with the Winter Steamers; obtained better car service between Painsane and P. du Chene, and between Stellarton and Pictou—matters of great importance to people travelling to and from the Island; and in co-operation with Premier Matheson, secured greatly improved telegraphic and telephone service concessions between here and the mainland.

For the future Mr. Jenkins was able to report that the new Marine Ship will be constructed by the Dominion Government on the other side of the river; a new knitting factory will be established; and a new steamer service between Charlottetown, Halifax, Sydney and Newfoundland will be inaugurated.

The only fly in the ointment has been the increase of freight rates on the Island railway. As we pointed out before, it would have been only fair and reasonable had the management postponed making any upward changes until the railway had been standardized and the Island put in direct communication with the mainland.

Mr. Jenkins is to be congratulated on a successful term of office. He will be able to look back upon it as the year in which optimism had for the first time a chance to vaunt itself.

Trade had every reason to congratulate itself upon having such a number of excellent and able members who were able to meet so often and regularly and co-operate in giving their attention to public matters of this city and province. They had a right to congratulate themselves upon the standard of the young men they had produced in this city and upon their attention and interest in public matters. He did not think they would meet a more able or better class of young men anywhere than they had in this city, and Charlottetown must congratulate itself upon that fact. Mr. Bentley remarked upon the large number added to their membership during the past year, owing, he said, largely to the assiduity of the President and the members of the Council. The condition of things set forth by the President in his report was one upon which they could congratulate themselves and the province. Referring to the parcels post system that was being introduced, Mr. Bentley said it would have a large and stimulating effect upon trade in the province, and he thought it would be a matter of great satisfaction. With regard to the condition of the province, there was no time within his memory when the outlook for the progress and prosperity of the Island was so roseate as it now was; never were conditions brighter than at present or more hopeful for the future. Mr. Bentley went on to say that the financial stringency that had been generally experienced during the past year had not affected this province; in fact, there was a remarkable buoyancy here in business, and he thought that was a matter of which they should be proud. Their province was at last coming into its own; they were reaping the reward of their patience for many years past. The report was unanimously adopted. The chairman thanked the speakers for their kind remarks, and said he was sorry he was not able to do more.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The Secretary then submitted his report and the financial statement. He said that with characteristic spirit the President had been very modest in his address for there were many things upon which he had not touched in which the Board had been most active and had achieved excellent results. In his experience, the Board never stood better financially than it did to-day. That Board, he went on to say, had done things for which others had got the credit, and because of the Board's modesty in not publishing its accomplishments, the query had often been put to him when collecting membership dues: "What is the Board doing anyhow?" There is nothing of it in the papers. Therefore he urged that the Secretary in future be given greater latitude in his communication with the Press; be given a free hand in publishing the things the Board accomplished. During the year 63 members were added to their rolls, more than had ever been received in any previous year, and the old members had kept up their connection with the Board very well. As to the financial statement this showed a very satisfactory state of things; that the total membership up to the end of the year was 115; and that for 1913 there was a surplus of revenue over expenditure of $294.70. On the motion of Mr. Rattenbury, the Secretary's report and financial statement were adopted.

OFFICE-BEARERS.

The election of office-bearers for the ensuing year then took place. Mr. Paton moved, and Mr. Rattenbury seconded, the election to the Presidency of the Hon. W. S. Stewart, the retiring Vice-President. There was no other nomination and Mr. Stewart was unanimously elected.

Upon the motion of Mr. Pickard, seconded by Mr. Gordon, Mr. John O. Hyndman was unanimously elected Vice-President. On Mr. Rattenbury's motion, Mr. Miller was unanimously re-elected as Secretary, the mover remarking that Mr. Miller filled the position exceedingly well.

The following were nominated for election as members of the Council: Messrs. Hilson, E. Aitken, Jenkins, Bayer, W. A. Stewart, Bentley, B. L. Cotton, Duffy, Hornby, Toombs, Higge, Gordon, Pickard and Buntain. Those elected on ballot were Messrs. Gordon, Aitken, Jenkins, Pickard, Higge, Buntain, Hilson and Cotton. Mr. Paton was nominated among the above, but upon the ground of the younger men being given an opportunity of serving, he declined.

Mr. Rattenbury then moved that, as it would be a great regret for them to lose Mr. Paton's services on the Council, Mr. Paton be elected a life member of the Council. Mr. Hughes seconded, and the motion was carried. Mr. Paton returned thanks for the honor, and remarked upon the gratifying interest the young men were taking in the Board, and with their assistance on the Council he was sure the coming year would be a very good one.

The following were elected a board of arbitrators: Messrs. W. F. Tidmarsh, H. Winchester, A. G. Peake, P. F. Hughes, Secretary.

OTHER MATTERS.

Mr. E. S. Coffin, grocer, was elected a member of the Board on the motion of Mr. Higge.

Mr. Higge said there was one subject the incoming council should consider and that was the heavy death roll that had been exacted during the past year around this province. Many good lives had gone down for some cause unknown. It seemed to him that it was time there was some proper system of the inspection of ships. He did not know exactly at present what system they should suggest, whether or not they should ask the Dominion Government to appoint an Inspector of Ships, but along those interests of human life.

Mr. Full discussed the railway time table as regards the trains from the west into Charlottetown and urged the Board to demand that the train which at present, he said, while due in town at 11.40, usually arrive anywhere between 12.30 and 1.30, should be made a through express from Tignish to the city, leaving Tignish at 5.30 a. m. and reaching Charlottetown at 11 o'clock—this for the summer; while in the winter the train should arrive in Charlottetown even before eleven o'clock, because then it only came from Summerside. This train as at present worked, he argued, caused great inconvenience and diverted trade from the city to Summerside. If the change as suggested by him were made there would be no extra cost to the railway.

Mr. Hughes drew attention to the fact that the company owning the steamer Harland had decided to sell her in view of the unprofitable working of that service. Last year the Government reduced the company's subsidy from $3,600 to $2,500 and the consequence was the company found it difficult to maintain the service at that figure without a heavy loss. They were asking for an increased subsidy if the service was to be maintained; they wanted now $3,500, and the shareholders had definitely authorized the directors to sell the steamer if the Government would not give them that amount of subsidy. The service the Harland maintained was, he said, an important one to the city and brought a good deal of business to Charlottetown which would be diverted elsewhere if that service were abolished.

Mr. McCreedy recommended to the Board the desirability of issuing an illustrated pamphlet of the city similar to that which they published some time ago and for which there had been a great demand. Mr. McNutt, on behalf of the Canadian Defense League, sought to get the Board's consent to a meeting to take place here shortly and to be addressed by Dr. John Hughes, an official of the League and a brother of Colonel Sam Hughes, being held under the Board's auspices. The Chairman said that all these matters would engage the Council's attention. The meeting then came to an end.

N. B. SCHOONER LOST

(Canadian Press) HYANNAS, MASS., Jan. 14.—A (twenty four hour search at Nantucket Sound fails to reveal any trace of the schooner Greta of Dalhousie, N. B., which disappeared during Monday night's gale. It is believed to be swept to sea or foundered with Captain Berryman and five men. She was bound to St. John.

HERD IMPROVEMENT

"Results are given by a writer in 'Hoard's Dairyman' from two American experiment stations where the effect of better feeding was definitely recorded. Cornell experiment station arranged with a farmer, who owned what appeared to be an average herd for New York State, he fed his nine cows for a year and allowed the station officials to test them. At the end of the year the herd was transferred to the station where it was fed and cared for as the officials thought it should be. The result was remarkable. In the hands of the farmer the average butter for production for the nine cows was 156.5 lb. In the hands of Cornell station the average production for the same cows was 301.9 lb. Four of the cows more than doubled their production or made very substantial increases, and only failed to show a profitable advance. No appreciable increase in the percentage of butter fat was noted, but the increase in the total amount was far more than was looked for.

ANNUAL MEETING

The regular annual meeting of shareholders and patrons of Emerald Dairy Association will be held in the Hall in Emerald, on Wednesday, 21st Jan. inst., 1914, at once o'clock, p. m.

Nothing in a Good Morning Newspaper is of Greater "Human Interest" Than The Store Ads

BUYING is such a big part of the routine of life—so much else, of home-comfort and life's livableness, depend upon wise buying of things or the home and person—that the "ads" acquire a real importance as "timely news."

Advertised in this morning's paper are things of beauty of utility, which, before the day is done, will have "found their places" in the great scheme of home-making in this city. But for the timely publicity given to these goods by the merchants, their sale would lag and wait upon NECESSITIES of buyers, rather than answer to their immediate use.

As long as human beings are interested in making home and the life at home better and more attractive, so long will the "ads" continue to hold a large element of "human interest." For they aid and accelerate the "making of the better home." They assist home-makers to "make the most" of their resources for buying—often making possible economies which permit, through wise management, the purchase of HOPED-FOR THINGS, as well as of the things that MUST BE BOUGHT.

You'll find, in today's paper, advertising which will have a quickening element of "human interest" in it for you.
