EXODUS FROM OSTEND SETS IN IN GRIM EARNEST

Thousands Crowd Wharfs in Attempt to Board Steamers for England. MANY HURT IN THE MELEE.

Most of the Refugees Are Without Money and England Faces Gigantic Problem to Succor Them.

On the boat from Ostend, October 16.—(Despatch to the London Daily Chronicle).—Ostend is in imminent danger of occupation by the Germans. In all probability it is only a matter of hours before the port will share the same fate which has overtaken Brussels and Antwerp, though not, let us hope, that of Termonde and Louvain. I prepared to leave the city early this morning. I was on the quay at 5 o'clock, and even then the whole place was crowded with people who had been there many hours waiting for a chance to get on board one of the numerous boats bound for England. It was an exodus almost as great and hurried as that which Antwerp witnessed a few days ago although, on the quay, at any rate, there were lacking any distressing scenes accompanying the retreat of the population further north.

When I reached the Gare Maritime at 5 p.m. there must have been five thousand people already there in long queues waiting to get on the wharf. The crowd increased in volume as the hours passed and at 9.30 the first boat came alongside. The gangways were put in place and the rush aboard began. The steamer quickly filled and moved off, the waiting crowd apparently as big as ever. An hour later a second boat was in position and again the rush set in. Such officials as were visible lost their heads, and people were badly hurt in the crush. I saw two poor children fall and get trampled on. It was impossible to move, so dense was the throng. At length, with the help of soldiers, I managed to reach the gangway. I have never seen on any passenger steamer such a mass of humanity on upper decks, lower decks and cabins. There was no distinction of class. Every vestige of organization had broken down.

There were no stewards on board or anything to eat or drink. Almost all of these people were fleeing for refuge, whole families with many children. How they are to be provided for in such numbers in England is a problem. Some have money, though not much. Others are destitute and have nothing left but the clothes on their backs and a few things in their bundles. No country can ever have been more desolated than Belgium has by this war. An Antwerp man said to me: "There is no longer any Belgium."

AEROPLANES DROP BOMBS.

As we were moving out of Ostend a German Taube aeroplane flew over us and dropped a bomb, which fell into the sea. It was apparently intended for the docks. Many shots were fired at it, but it was too high to be within range of rifle fire. Our poor refugee passengers, cheery to the last, shouted, "Vive l'Angleterre," and "Vive la France." Fighting is going on quite close to the sea coast, and the sound of guns was loud as we steamed past. Movements have been so rapid in Belgium during the last four or five days that the population of west Belgium has been more or less taken by surprise. They have become accustomed to the sound of guns and the reports of engagements more or less close at hand, and it is only now in Ghent, Bruges, Ostend, and intervening villages that the whole population suddenly realized that the occupation of these districts is practically an immediate reality; that if they wish to get away they must do so at once, and that there is only one way out—by steamer from Ostend.

The Germans fully intend to occupy the whole of Belgium and establish themselves on the coast at Ostend, Zeebrugge, and Dunkirk, whence they will probably attempt operations of one kind or another against England, possibly by means of Zeppelins and aeroplanes. At any rate, in the first instance, Belgium is exhausted, played out, utterly fatigued and broken. Nothing but complete rest will restore her.

FRENCH REGIMENT ASSURED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—"Eleven hundred men and seventy-five officers as a result of two days' curfews by the Royal Canadians," was the announcement made at the 65th army last evening, where Lieut. Col. Gaudet, Dr. Mignault, and the future officers of the unit had gathered to hear the report from the four recruiting stations of the city. The promoters of the movement to send a crack regiment of French-Canadian to the front were more than pleased at the manner in which the men have come forward expressing their willingness to serve their King and country and they now regard the success of the regiment as assured. Dr. Mignault said that while he expected as much from his fellow countrymen he had not thought that his enrolling would be so rapid. He is convinced from two days' experience that at least four thousand men will be forthcoming by the time every section of the province has been heard from.

Steps were being taken to recruit men from the different centres of the province so that the first thousand could be supplemented by further regiments whenever they will be required. No men addicted to the abuse of intoxicating liquors are being taken, and nothing is being overlooked that would contribute to raise a first class unit for the British army.

All that is lacking now is the legal authorization from Ottawa to recruit men for the unit as up to the present time those offering have given in their names, only awaiting the necessary papers from Ottawa. As every moment tells, Dr. Mignault sent off an urgent appeal last evening to the department asking that the papers be forwarded at once.

There is no Chance to Lose Your Money

An investment which pays large dividends is usually one where great risks are taken; but, in the case of THE INTERPROVINCIAL COAL COMPANY, LIMITED, of Saskatchewan, every particle of risk is eliminated by our guarantee to return 25 per cent on your investment every year for four years, and the placing of the money subscribed "in trust" in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Charlottetown; same not to be used by us until you send a qualified representative to the mine, and to our coal-yards, to judge whether our claims are true, or not. If true, then we are at liberty to use the money; but, if untrue, all of it will be returned to those who invested it. This makes an investment with every element of chance eliminated.

Our Offer is as Follows: We Want More Capital

We own a coal mine with 2,000,000 tons of coal in it, situated in Castor, Alberta. We are incorporated in Saskatchewan, registered in Alberta and doing business in both provinces.

Our coal is good, domestic purpose coal.

Our markets use a thousand times as much coal as we can supply them. We are so much nearer our markets than other coal mines that their competition is practically eliminated as far as the price is concerned.

We purpose taking out of this mine 200 tons of coal per day, when we are completely installed. We have spent $15,000 in development, and have convinced ourselves that we can produce that quantity.

We estimate, and thoroughly believe that we can sell all the coal we can mine at an average profit of $1.00, clear, per ton, with the expectation of our markets increasing year by year as the country around us settles more thickly.

Through Alva von Alvensleben, of Vancouver, B. C., a number of prominent Germans are said to have bought large tracts of British Columbia lands. Even after the reports that the German Government had taken over property of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Germany, and that cigarette factories in Dresden, Batschau and Baden-Baden were seized by the German Government because a majority of the stock of the companies controlling the factories belonged to Englishmen, there was no disposition on the part of the British Government to change its attitude toward property in English territory owned by Germans.

HIS OLD FATHER SATISFIED. "Twenty years ago a discouraged young doctor in one of our large cities was visited once by his old father, who came up from a rural district to look after his boy."

"I'm not getting along at all," was the disheartened answer. "I'm not doing a thing."

"The old man's countenance fell, but he spoke of courage and patience and perseverance. Later in the day he went with his son to the 'Free Dispensary,' where the young doctor had an unsalaried position, and where he spent an hour or more every day."

"The father sat by, a silent but intensely interested spectator, while twenty-five poor unfortunates received help. The doctor forgot his visitor while he bent his skilled energies to this task; but hardly had the door closed on the last patient, when the old man burst forth:

"I thought you told me that you were not doing anything! Why, if I had helped twenty-five people in a month as much as you have in one morning, I would thank God that my life counted for something."

"There isn't any money in it, though," explained the son somewhat abashed.
