Scenic Spots Family Traits In Transition

COLD SPRING HARBOR, N. Y., Sept. 11—Genetics, the science which set out to discover the laws of heredity, has found the packages, transmitted from parents to child, containing the entire assortment of hereditary traits, says Dr. C. B. Davenport of the Carnegie Institution station for experimental evolution here.

The name of the packages is genes. They are very small bodies in living cells. The genes lie close to the limits of photomicrography, and with ultra-violet light. There are thousands of them in each cell of the human body. Each cell's multitude of genes is a duplication of those in every other cell—a perfect copy of the original sets from father and mother.

Heredity is too often thought of narrowly as merely the transmission of traits from parents to child. But heredity is, in its broader aspect, the control of individual development. Dr. Davenport says.

The development of the young of any animal, the unfolding of the egg-potentialities into the child, is one of nature's greatest miracles. At every stage that unfolding is under control of factors inside the egg.

These factors are in part the genes. The child develops like the parents because he has the same kind of genes that they have. The broad headed person develops a sessile, certain special genes for broad head form.

"The great question before geneticists now is: Just how do the genes control development? And first we must recognize that not the microscopic genes are the material out of which the body is built, but rather the egg," Dr. Davenport goes on.

"And the egg has to work with great swiftness. To construct from a few cells a mouse capable at birth of moving about, suckling, reacting to various stimulus; possessed of muscle, skeleton the beginnings of thousands of hairs and numerous glands, the circulatory system, a complicated nervous system made up of many millions of cells, takes about 200 hours."

It is the next job of genetics to work out, along these hypothetical lines, the method of production by genes, of the various tissues with their respective qualities at the proper time and place.

Still another direction in which the genetics of the future will move is toward a better understanding of the relation between hereditary changes and evolution. Most of the hereditary changes (mutations) which occur under the eyes of the breeder are not such as are required for progressive evolution.

But some are; at least some mutations occur that fit the organism for a new niche in nature if such should arise. For example, a mutation has been found in a water flea that enables it to live only, or best, in hot springs.

This mutation is useless where there are no hot springs; but if and where it occurs there are no hot springs the species is in luck and a new special adapted to life in hot springs has arisen.

In the future genetics will be more and more concerned with the mechanism by which mutations are produced and with the way in which mutations become built up into new, adapted, forms of animal and plant life.

Canadians Push Missionary Work In North China

HWAIKING, Honan Province, China, Sept. 11—Despite sharp shrinkage in revenues from abroad Canadian missionary activities in China are being pushed with greater vigor than ever before in their history.

The expansion of mission enterprise since the wave of anti-foreignism which swept the country from 1927 to 1930. Government officials, under orders from General Chiang Kai-shek, are putting themselves out to be accommodating to missionaries.

Year by year the Canadian missionaries are pushing their work deeper into the backward rural districts of this north China province, which has a population of more than 30,000,000. Because of the evangelical work of such missionaries as Dr. G. M. Ross of Halifax, N. S., Dr. W. H. Grant of Toronto and Miss Bertha Hodge of London, Ont., the mission was able to report that it had had more baptisms during the past year than in any similar period for 10 years.

Two new schools have been opened by the Church of Canada Mission during the past year with the help of a $1,000 grant from the provincial government. The Canadian church is also co-operating with the government in its nationwide drive to reduce illiteracy in China. Over wide areas in Honan, the Canadian missionaries are starting classes. This work is being carried into the interior, where conditions are much the same as they were 500 or 1,000 years ago. Thousands have been taught to read and write the basic Chinese characters.

The pioneer in this new educational work was the late Rev. J. H. Bruce of Alisa Craig, Ont., who died in 1933 of typhus, while opening a new project. The undertaking he started is being carried on and is expanding, however, under Miss Minnie Shipley of London, Rev. G. K. King of Fredericton, N. B., Rev. E. B. Copeland of Montreal, Miss J. H. Sommerville of Saint John, N. B., and Miss Helen McDougall of Sarnia, Ont.

The three hospitals of the Honan mission are today handling more patients than they ever did in the past. Equipment of the institutions is being constantly improved. Dr. G. G. Struthers of B. B. Clure of Toronto, are among those who have had most to do with the development of hospital facilities of the Canadian mission.

In the field of rural rehabilitation, Rev. D. K. Garis of Aurora, Ont., is showing Chinese farmers how they can bolster their income by planting crops which have heretofore not been grown in this territory. Rev. J. C. Mathieson of Winnipeg is taking the lead in the establishment of rural co-operative societies in this province.

Famous Firm Names Worthless at Bank

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Sept. 11—Names are names but if the name of Dick Powell, Betty Davis, Paul Muni or Warren William were signed to checks they would not be honored at any bank in the world.

Not that the forementioned film players are not financially responsible but because those are not the names they use in business transactions.

For instance Dick Powell's bank name is Richard E. Powell. Miss Davis signs her Mrs. Harmon O. Nelson.

Paul Muni's legal signature is Muni Weisenfreund while Warren William's real name is W. W. Kreech.

Jean Muir Fullerton is the real name of Jean Muir. Pat O'Brien signs his documents William Patrick O'Brien and the name Ann Fenton is to be found on a check written by Ann Dvorak.

Margaret Lindsay's financial rating is listed under the name of Margaret Kies. James Cagney has no other name but the amount of money kept in the bank in his name is small. A check for any considerable amount must be signed and countersigned by his representatives, for Jimmy wants to save, and forces himself to do it.

There must be a half a million samples of Joe E. Brown's signature on baseballs, shirt fronts, theatre programs and ladies' handbags, but none would be honored at the bank. The name that spells money in that family is the signature of Joe's wife, Kathryn Brown.

Rudy Valee is a moneyed man but the signature that unlocks his money bags is Hubert Prior Valee.

It is no wonder then that forgery of an autograph, had it been in Hollywood and that forgery of the stars' names is practically unknown here.

Those autographs look fine in albums—but they are so much wasted ink at a bank.

Opera Stars Flock To Movie Studios

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11—There is music in the Hollywood air these days. The stars of opera are flocking to the movie studios.

The frantic scramble to sign Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink to a contract, which ended in a transcontinental race between two film executives, was only the climax of a cycle that began when Grace Moore caroled a little opera in "One Night of Love."

Since then no studio has been complete without a singer of two on its contract list. Already in pictures or contracted for appearances are Lily Pons, Marian Talley, Gladys Swarthout, Helen Jepson, Grace Moore, Madame Schumann-Heink, Nelson Eddy, Lawrence Tibbett, and Nino Martini.

The effect of this marriage of music and the movies, independent observers believe, will be two-fold:

1. "It will be a tremendous force for the spreading of the standards of appreciation of good music," said Bernardino Molinari, noted conductor.

2. "Undoubtedly, it will improve our popular music," said Otto Klemperer, equally renowned conductor.

"Heretofore," he said, "a movie studio composer was terribly restricted in his writing to the voice-range of the people who were to sing his songs. I would say he had to stay within an octave range."

"With better singers, we will get better songs. It seems to me the emergence of American popular music from barbarism into civilization is just beginning."

PROMINENT YARMOUTH SHIPPING MAN PASSES

YARMOUTH, N. S., Sept. 10—(C.P.) Charles W. Cann, prominent Yarmouth shipping man, suffered a heart attack and dropped dead Sunday at his summer home at Deerfield, Yarmouth County, it was learned here today.

President of the Hugh Cann and Son Steamship Company for many years, Mr. Cann was well known in Canadian waters where his ships operated principally as coastal vessels. Mr. Cann has been retired several years, his firm having been taken over by another company.

Surviving are his third wife, Elizabeth Coulson Cann, formerly of Worcester, Mass., two children by his second wife and two sisters, all residents of Yarmouth.

DRAMATIC

A class in English was given the task of writing four lines of dramatic poetry. The results were various, and, selecting the verse of a usually bright boy, the teacher read:

A boy was walking down the track,
The train was coming fast.
The boy stepped off the railroad track
To let the train go past.
"This verse is very well done," said the teacher, "but it lacks drama. Try again, Johnny, and make it more dramatic." Whereupon, in a surprisingly short time, Johnny produced the following:

A boy was walking down the track,
The train was coming fast,
The train jumped off the railroad track
To let the boy go past.

ULM CO-PILOT'S WILL IS PROBATED

SYDNEY, Sept. 10—Co-pilot with Flight-Lieut. Ulm in his tragic trans-Pacific flight last year, George McCorquodale Littlejohn, 30, late of Balmoral, left estate valued for probate purposes at $98,585.

Leave to swear of his death was allowed and probate of the will was recently granted.

Littlejohn bequeathed to the "committee, directors or managers" of the Aero Club his 10 debentures, each of the nominal value of $125, and left the residue of his estate in trust for the benefit of his wife.

Taking It Literally

The new office boy had been instructed how to answer callers. Just before noon a man asked, "Is the boss in?"

"Are you a salesman, a bill collector, or a friend of his?" the boy inquired.

"All three," was the answer.

"Well, he's in a business conference. He's out of town. Step in and see him."

RECEIVES SAD NEWS—Mr. W. N. Tanton, Jeweler, of this city, yesterday received a telegram announcing the death of his sister Gertrude, Mrs. J. C. Rand, of 28 Sammont Street, Everett, Mass. Mrs. Rand had been in poor health for some time but able to go around when last heard from, a short time ago. The deceased leaves a sorrowing husband and one daughter, Hazel, and two sisters, Lavinia (Mrs. J. F. McKay) Arlington, Mass., and Clara, Mrs. A. R. Robertson, Everett, Mass., and one brother, W. N. Tanton of this city. The deceased was a daughter of the late George P. Tanton and Mrs. Tanton of this city.

TAKES TEACHING POSITION—Mr. Winston J. Mayne, M.A., Emerald, left on Wednesday morning to take a position as assistant professor in Mathematics at Brown University, Providence, R.I. Mr. Mayne graduated from Prince of Wales College in 1932 with a High Honour Diploma, and from Acadia University in 1934, receiving a special prize in Mathematics. Last year he returned to Acadia to complete his work for the M.A. degree. In addition to being a most successful student, he is an athlete of some note, excelling in the pole vault, the high jump and the 100 yards dash. For several years he was located at Clinton where he taught school.

PSYCHIATRIST'S VIEW OF LONG'S ASSASSINATION

Network of Emotional Currents In Society Finally Resulted In Concrete Action.

(By Howard W. Blakeslee)
(Associated Press Science Editor)
NEW YORK, Sept. 10—The assassination of Senator Huey Long, as seen by psychiatry, rose from something far deeper and more significant than individual imbalance.

It was already a completed idea in many minds. It was due not to insanity of an individual but to a network of emotional currents in society.

This analysis is made by J. L. Moreno, M. D., a psychiatrist internationally known in his field for his discovery of "sociometry," a new method of mapping and tracing the effects of networks of emotions in communities.

"Certain crimes, as political crimes," he said, "are not individual acts. The individuals implicated in them are negligible compared with the emotional currents underlying which provoke them to act."

"Crimes like these are also neither accidental nor impulsive. They travel through the minds of many long before they are acted upon by one who is caught by such a current. The crime is committed many a time in fantasy and in many forms long before it takes the shape of real action."

"These persons spread the seed. It is a form of psychological infection which travels through the psychological network that exists in the community."

"Every crime exists in various degrees of maturity in the minds of individuals sensitized for those particular forms of crime. The germ of a crime of this sort is scattered in the minds of thousands of individuals."

"In Louisiana we have to visualize a state of millions of individuals in emotional turmoil during a number of years. These emotions separate groups in the community according to their partisanship for or against the dictator."

"From these groups every possible emotion, jealousy, fear, hatred, anger, sympathy, travels through the psychological networks and affects the more sensitive individuals more, the less sensitive ones less, and some not at all."

"It is from the Huey Long sensitive agents that the actor may one day arise. He is caught by an anti-Louisiana current. He is more of a symbol that an individual at the time."

"From the other angle the position of Huey Long in the network was similarly characteristic and significant. The more powerful the currents in the networks against him became, the more powerful became his fear of them. In fact his fear for years never left him. He had to employ more and more bodyguards."

"In recent months, it has been stated, he did not go to a phone booth in an hotel where he lived without his bodyguards. In his last filibuster speech he said this was perhaps his swan song."

"Just before he went to the Louisiana legislature session, he said to his wife 'I'll die fighting.' This kind of pronouncement was not accidental and not the result of superstition. Every individual feels in critical moments the impact of danger, or hatred, or love which is for or against him in the networks."

DUTCH MAY BUY AUSTRALIAN FROGS

MELBOURNE, Sept. 9—Bull frogs may achieve greater things than a croak. They have a trade importance. The Consul for the Netherlands (Lieutenant-Colonel F. H. Wright) advised the newly appointed Trade Commissioner to the Netherlands East Indies to advocate the dairy taste of the Australian bull frog and the fine quality of the skins.

Colonel Wright said the Netherlands imported bull frogs from New Orleans, where frog farming had attained considerable importance.

Money and articles worth $385,850 were found in letters which had been sent to the Dead Letter Office in Australia last year.

For the year more than 3,000,000 letters had to be sent to the Dead Letter Offices of the Commonwealth.

Of these 41,000 were posted without addresses. The unaddressed letters contained money and valuables worth nearly $20,000.—Australian Press Bureau.

AUSTRALIA AGAIN SHOWS A SURPLUS

CANBERRA, Sept. 9—Australia's remarkable recovery from depression is again evident in the Federal Government's budgetary position which is expected to show a surplus of between $5,000,000 and $5,250,000, when the accounts are presented to parliament against an estimated surplus of only $69,000.

Even this does not disclose the full position, as provision has been made for helping wheat growers to the extent of $16,000,000 from ordinary revenue, an amount which was not budgeted.

All the States' accounts, under the financial recovery plan, were allowed deficits this year, but two of them, Queensland and South Australia, are expected to report surpluses to their parliaments.

GERMANS RESIDENT AND NATURALIZED IN AUSTRALIA ARE NOT ENTHUSIASTIC NAZIS.

Recently Professor Mannhardt of Marburg University, speaking to the National German Council at Kiel deplored the fact that the 40,000 Germans who had emigrated to Australia in the past century had become divided and that German culture was rapidly disappearing among their descendants. He outlined a plan to imbue Germans in Australia with the Nazi spirit to re-unite them and keep Germanism alive in the Commonwealth.

German residents there, however, are not inclined to be enthusiastic. reports show. The German Consul and the president of the Deutscher Turnverein in Brisbane, for instance, have made it clear that they have no wish to take an interest in the internal politics of their country. The younger generation of Austro-Germans have grown up in an Australian atmosphere with a purely Australian outlook.—Australian Press Bureau.

REFORESTATION IS AUSTRALIAN PLAN

Following a conference in Melbourne of Australian Commonwealth and State forestry authorities, $500,000 has been made available jointly by the Federal and New South Wales Government for work in this State to begin immediately.

It will absorb many men. A scheme for fire protection in one area alone will provide 100 jobs.—Australian Press Bureau.

After graduation from Miss Edger's school in Montreal she studied in Boston at the New England Conservatory of Music, and made very rapid progress. While staying at Wianno, Cape Cod, she attracted the attention of the director of the Washington String Quartet,

Will Test Skill As Native Cooks

(By The Canadian Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 11—Club women representing the 48 states will demonstrate their skill in cooking favorite dishes in a native states culinary contest sponsored by the Women's Exposition of Arts and Industries at its 14th annual exposition to open here Sept. 30.

Women from the north will show their mastery of devil's food cake, pumpkin pie and butter cookies. Southerners will compete on the second day in baking sponge cake, pecan pie and corn bread. Western cooks will be tested by angel food cake, lemon pie and white bread. Native New Yorkers will compete on entries of jelly rolls, apple pies and doughnuts.

The culinary contest will be but one feature of the exposition, which will have the aspect of a consumers' convention.
