THE PHYSICALLY DISABLED VETERAN SECOND IN A SERIES ON THEIR EMPLOYMENT

W. W. SMITH
 CASUALTY REHABILITATION SECTION
 DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

Here's a man who serves both the DISABLED VETERAN and YOU!

AVAILABLE across Canada at offices of the Department of Veterans Affairs are men known as Casualty Rehabilitation Officers. These men, the majority physically disabled themselves, have been trained in modern techniques of placing physically disabled in positions where they can be 100% efficient.

In the hospitals they work with the veteran, helping him select suitable vocations leading to successful placement. If training is indicated, they assist the veteran in selecting a proper course.

On the other side, they work constantly with employers. They assist in carrying out analyses of the physical requirements of jobs so that physically disabled veterans capable of doing these jobs 100% efficiently may be placed in them.

They are, in effect, trained assistants available to the veteran and to employers both in placing physically disabled veterans and in adjusting their employment if unsatisfactorily placed. They co-operate with the Special Placements Section of the National Employment Service which also offers Canadian industry a specialized placement service for the physically handicapped.

Employers who can assist in providing opportunities for the physically handicapped veteran will find the services of the Casualty Rehabilitation Officer and the Special Placement Section of the National Employment Service readily available to them.

The approach to the employment of the approximate 25,000 physically disabled veterans should be the normal approach. There are many things of which they are fully capable. Physical restrictions are surprisingly few. They should be employed as are the so-called able bodied, on a basis of what they can do. Thousands of physically disabled veterans have already been absorbed into Canadian industry. They are proving not only that there is scarcely a field to which they are not suited, but also that their working habits are exceptionally good.

It's what a man CAN DO that counts

Issued under the authority of
HON. IAN A. MACKENZIE—MINISTER OF VETERANS AFFAIRS
DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

Three books dealing with the modern technique of employing the disabled are being made available to employers. They will be found of real assistance in making effective placements.
