Reese acted Without orders Says Durocher

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Leo Durocher, the Dodgers' manager, revealed after today's defeat by the Yankees that the base-running by Pee Wee Reese, which chilled the one big Brooklyn threat in the seventh inning, shouldn't have happened at all. "Reese came down from second without orders on that play," Durocher said. "The way I figure it, Rolfe had to throw less than 50 feet and Pee Wee Reese took the chance on running on his own. That's just the breaks, however."

True story of Giant French Sub

(By The Canadian Press) OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—One of the war's better fables was shot full of holes the other day when an official announcement revealed that the Free French submarine Surcouf was tied up in an American harbor. "The Surcouf was sunk" off the Atlantic seaboard of Canada weeks ago. "Out of a mysterious nowhere there came a fabulous story of this world's largest undersea craft, turning on the convoy of British and allied merchantmen she was charged with protecting. Her vessel was supplied with provisions and fuel by a secret ship after ship to the bottom. Even, possibly, she was being fed in the throes of death before the concerted fire of other ships in the convoy mortally wounded the traitor herself."

Canadians played a big role in the R.A.F. offensive over the week-end, when more than 600 bombers and fighters took part in a 36-hour attack against vital targets in five countries.

Yanks quiet After taking Series opener

(By Charles Dunkley) (Associated Press Sport Writer)

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Winning a ball game doesn't mean a thing—to the triumphant New York Yankees. Coxy and defiant, the Yankees took today's victory as just another ball game. Their dressing room was almost as quiet as a morgue. Grey-haired Arthur Fletcher, one of the coaches, tried to stir up a little enthusiasm by emitting one piercing whoop. But nobody joined him, so he quit. There was no yelling, no shouting, and not even a pat on the back. Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, walked over to Red Ruffing and shook him warmly by the hand and praised his six-hit pitching performance. Ruffing was dead tired. He pulled off his shoes, lit a cigaret and flopped down in a chair in front of his locker. His face was dripping with perspiration. Striking out Dolph Camilli three out of four times didn't make much of an impression on Ruffing. He insisted he threw no hitting but fast balls to the Dodgers' first baseman and clean-up hitter. McCarthy refused to get excited over the victory. Putting on a big black cigar, he sat at his desk in the little room that serves as his office and opened telegrams. Reporters piled in with questions in an attempt to get him to open up. McCarthy remained calm. "It was just another ball game," he said. "You know the game. What can I say? You had a better seat than I did. It was hotter than hell in that dugout. "We had the longest hits, but they had men on bases. It was anybody's game. It's nice to get off in front, however, and I hope we can stay that way."

Semi-Final

Bob Lortie, a brother of Paul Lortie, making his first appearance here, met Jackie Nichols and the fans saw one of the fastest and most rugged to ever wrestled here. Lortie, inclined to illegal tactics was both popular and unpopular with the fans but on occasions showed real sportsmanship. Both boys showed real wrestling ability and the decision, a draw, proved quite favorable to those present. Nichols, always popular here substituted for Al Korman who was prevented from being present by illness.

Dodgers Optimistic

The Dodgers were disappointed, but were as optimistic as ever about the series. To a man, they agreed "the Yanks aren't as tough as we thought they were." Manager Leo Durocher, Ducky Medwick, Pete Reiser, Curt Davis and the others agreed on this: Johnny Allen, the third Dodger eel-bowder today (the used to be a Yankee himself) made it even more significant when he announced to the squad: "We're in, fellas. Ruffing is the only pitcher they got and we had him hanging on the ropes. From now on it's just a soft touch." "Davis pitched a good game," Durocher said, "but he made two mistakes. He gave Gordon and Dickey each a low inside pitch and you know what happened. Gordon hit a homer and Dickey doubled to drive in a run. "All I can say is that with a break or two going our way, we'd have won easily. And we had our one inning when we started to move and then we missed it. When Washell doubled in the fifth, you can't win if you don't hit. "Ruffing didn't have a thing after the fifth inning. He was just bobbing in there. They got less fire on the trophy, but you need four to win it." Medwick said he bruised his back slightly in making his circus catch to rob DiMaggio of a homer in the fourth inning. "I braced myself by holding on to the rail of the fence, and there I was," he explained. "But I had to leap up about two rows in the stands to grab the ball, so I read and banged my back on the wall. It's not much, though. I'll be all right."

"Yanks win; so what?"

Game By Innings As Yankees Win Opener Of Championship Series

By JUDSON BAILEY Associated Press Sports Writer

DODGERS: Walker up: Walker looked at three low balls and then drew a pass. Herman up: With the hit and run on, Herman bounced to Rolfe and was easily hit. Walker reached second. Reiser up: On the first pitch Reiser sent a long fly to DiMaggio who held Walker on second with a quick throw to the field. Camilli up: Camilli worked the count to two and two and then struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left. YANKEES: Stumm took one strike and then singled sharply to left. Rolfe up: Rolfe grounded to Camilli who threw to Reese in left centre. The runners held their bases. Ruffing fled to Walker. No runs, no hits no errors, one left. Second Inning DODGERS: Medwick got the count to two strikes and one ball got fanned. Lavagetto up: After taking two strikes, Lavagetto checked a sharp grounder to Rizzuto and was thrown out. Reese up: With the count two and two Reese lifted a high fly to Keller who took it without moving. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left. YANKEES: Keller filed to Reiser in right centre. Dickey up: Dickey bounced out. Herman to Camilli. Gordon up: Lifted a tremendous home run far back into the lower left field grandstand. Rizzuto up: Rizzuto followed with another long fly which Medwick caught. One run, one hit, no errors, none left. Third Inning DODGERS: Owen lifted a fly which Keller caught. Davis also filed to Keller. Walker drove a liner to left and Keller took it on the run for his fourth straight put-out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left. YANKEES: Ruffing slapped a grounder to Reese and was thrown out. Stumm hit a grounder to Camilli back of first and he tossed to Davis for the putout. Rolfe struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left. Fourth Inning DODGERS: Herman grounded out to Rizzuto. Reiser struck out on a slow ball. Camilli fanned on three pitches. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left. YANKEES: Henrich lifted a fly which Reese took. DiMaggio hit the first pitch, a terrific belt for what looked like a certain homer, but Rolfe and Medwick, leaning backwards over the four-foot wall in left field with his arm extended caught and held the ball, falling to the field with his glove held high. Keller worked the count to three and two, then walked. Dickey drove a high fly which struck the railing in front of the bleachers in right centre 400 feet from the plate and bounced back into the outfield, for a double, scoring Keller. Gordon up: While the crowd boomed, Gordon was purposely passed to Rob DiMaggio of a homer in the fourth inning. "I braced myself by holding on to the rail of the fence, and there I was," he explained. "But I had to leap up about two rows in the stands to grab the ball, so I read and banged my back on the wall. It's not much, though. I'll be all right."

Fifth Inning

DODGERS: Medwick drove a high fly which DiMaggio caught on the run in left centre. Lavagetto also filed to DiMaggio, who came in back of second base for the put-out. Reese popped a single into short right centre for the first hit off Ruffing. Owen up: With the count two strikes and one ball, Owen rifled a liner into left centre.

Sixth Inning

Walker lined to DiMaggio. Herman drew a walk on five pitches. Reiser walked. Camilli after getting the count to two and two struck out for the third straight time. Medwick grounded to Rolfe who stepped on third to force Herman. No runs, one hit no errors, one left. YANKEES: DiMaggio sent a grounder to Reese left and was barely thrown out at first. Keller drew a pass on five pitches. Dickey shot a single into right centre, Keller sliding into third. Gordon singled over Reese head into centrefield. Keller scoring and Dickey holding up at second. Davis was replaced by Hugh Casey. Rizzuto hit the second pitch for a fly to Reiser in left centre. The runners held their bases. Ruffing fled to Walker. One run, two hits no errors, two left. Seventh Inning DODGERS: Lavagetto sent a sharp grounder and was safe on an error. Reese hit a single. Lew Riggs came in to bat for Owen. On the first pitch Riggs singled into short centre and Lavagetto, who had been on second beat DiMaggio's throw to the plate sliding into Dickey and knocking him down. Reese stopped at second on the fly. Jim Waddell went in to pinch-hit for Casey. Waddell popped a foul which Rolfe caught on a run to the edge of the Yankee dugout, and then wheeled and threw to Rizzuto at third base to catch Reiser for a double play. Riggs holding first, Walker grounded to Gordon and was thrown out by several yards. One run, two hits, one error, one left. Eighth Inning YANKEES: John Allen came in to pitch and Herman Franks went behind the plate for the Dodgers. Stumm up: Stumm was hit by the second pitch and took first base. Rolfe up: Allen threw a bouncer on the second pitch and Franks threw to Reese to catch Stumm stealing. Rolfe waited out a three and two count and got a base on balls. Henrich looped a short fly to Medwick, who held Rolfe on first base. DiMaggio filed to Reiser in dead centre. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left. Ninth Inning Herman grounded out to Rizzuto. Reiser shot a low liner which Rizzuto caught. Camilli hit the first pitch on the fly to DiMaggio in dead centre. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left. Yankees: Keller grounded out to Walker. Gordon waited out a walk. Rizzuto slapped an easy grounder to Herman and was an easy out. DODGERS: Medwick topped the ball for a single. Lavagetto popped first pitch for a single. Medwick stopping at second. Franks grounded into a double play, Gordon to Rizzuto to Stumm. No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Balmy Beach Withdraws From Union

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—(CP)—President James McCaffrey of the eastern rugby football union said tonight he has received a telegram from Toronto Balmy Beach, announcing the Club's decision to withdraw from the union. McCaffrey made public this telegram from the Balmy Beach club: "In view of final decision regarding Bobby Porter we have decided to withdraw from the league." "Beaches' decision to withdraw followed McCaffrey's announcement today that the six-man executive committee had decided that Porter, a former professional baseball player, was ineligible to play in the union.

Mt. A. rules Against Maritime Football series

SACKVILLE, N. B., Oct. 1.—(CP)—Dr. G. J. Trueman, president of Mount Allison University, today ruled against the University entering a team in any rugby league this year owing to extra time required for military training. Mount Allison's Canadian Officers' Training Corps, however, will be allowed to play a home and home series with a C.O.T.C. rugby team from the University of New Brunswick. This decision quashed a recent proposal that Mount Allison, U.N.B. and St. Dunstan's University of Charlottetown play off for the New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island championship.

"Red" Ruffing Gives Brilliant Pitching Display in Turning Back Fighting Brooklyn Team

(By Judson Bailey, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The magnificent New York Yankees harnessed pitching and power today to turn back Brooklyn Dodgers 3-2 before a record crowd of 68,540 and send the world series off to a spectacular start. It was a glorious triumph for Charley (Red) Ruffing, 36-year-old veteran of 17 years in the American League and it was a perfect day at the plate for Joe (Flash) Gordon, and most of all it was an impressive display of team co-ordination. Ruffing hurled no-hit ball for 4 2-3 innings and suppressed the dangerous Dodgers on six safeties, all of them singles except one. The big, powerfully framed right-hander had a few lapses in the late innings, possibly symptoms of age, but he never lost control of the game and the sixth victory of his extended career in these classics of baseball was one of his finest. Gordon hit a home run to shoot the Yanks out in front in the second inning and then drove in the deciding counter with a single in the sixth. The Yankees also were held to six hits by Curt Davis and two other Brooklyn pitchers, but only some incomparable fielding by the Dodgers kept this check on the Bombers. Joe Medwick robbed Jolting Joe DiMaggio of an almost certain home run in the fourth by making one of the most difficult catches ever seen in a major league. Medwick drove a whistling liner straight for the lower stands in left field and Medwick backed up against the four-foot wall just in time to spear the ball with a mighty leap. He was leaning backward over the wall when he made the catch and he tumbled down on the field holding the white ball visible all the while in his outstretched glove. In making the catch, Medwick bruised his back slightly. This catch was not sufficient to keep the Yankees from scoring in the fourth frame, however, as Davis promptly walked Charley Keller and Bill Dickey brought them all the way home with a tremendous double that bounced off the railing of the centrefield bleachers 400 feet from the plate. Gordon was purposely passed then and also waited out a walk in the eighth inning to keep his slate clean for the game. Gordon's single that pushed the winning home in the sixth also was the blow that drove Davis off the mound. Charley Keller drew a walk after one out and went to third on a single by Dickey. But Davis had a chance to escape until Gordon reached for an outside pitch and slammed it into centrefield to bring Keller trotting home. Chubby Hugh Casey, leading relief specialist, pitched the next two outs but the Dodgers then were removed for a pinchhitter, Johnny Allen, a former Yankee, hitting the rubber.

The Charlottetown Forum will probably open early in November, the earliest in its more than ten-year history. C.F. Archer, manager of the organization said last night. Last year the opening skate was held the third week of November. Prospects for hockey in Charlottetown are not bright this season, persons connected with the game said. Majority of former players are serving with the forces. However, there may be some junior and juvenile teams but no plans are underway yet.

BRINGING UP FATHER

To extend Air Training plan

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—(CP)—French Canadians had the assurance of Air Minister Power today that they will have a French-Canadian squadron in the Royal Canadian Air Force overseas as soon as enough French speaking personnel are obtained. Speaking last night to a joint dinner meeting of the St. Lawrence Kiwanis Club, the Montreal Chamber De Commerce, the Reform Club and a number of other organizations, Mr. Power said that he had been "earnestly hoping for a long time to witness formation of an exclusively French-Canadian unit. "As soon as we secure enough French-speaking pilots, wireless operators and gunners, observers, mechanics and auxiliaries, such a squad will be formed. "Speaking of the training plan, Mr. Power said, "we have made headway; we shall achieve even more. The number of fliers in the schools will be increased by 25 per cent. "Moreover, we have decided to go beyond the scope originally contemplated under the air training plan. "We will expand its scope by building again almost as many schools and airbases as we have constructed so far. "Keep Minard's in the home."
