SKIRMISH IN MILK STRIKE AREA

Tear Gas And Clubs Are Used Freely As Farmers and Guardsmen Clash.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 19—(A.P.)—A crucial skirmish with 1,000 milk strikers at Appleton, fought with tear gas and clubs enabled United States guardsmen tonight to control trouble centres of the State and assure most Wisconsin cities a normal supply of milk.

The first fatality of the strike for higher prices occurred near Port Washington when William Dickmann, 53-year-old farmer, tumbled off a truck bringing milk to Milwaukee. The driver, Albert Bradley, drove over his body, reported that Dickmann and a companion threatened to dump his load, and completed his delivery.

On a 200-mile front along the west shore of Lake Michigan, strikers made stiff resistance to delivery of milk and energetic efforts to push their fight into other sections of the state.

Authorities hoped the encounter in Appleton, where 300 officers chased a large force of pickets out of town in disorder, has been the "show down."

EVIDENCE IN CONVICTED ON MITCHELL PETTY LARCENY CASE HEARD CHARGE

Former Bank Head Is Charged With Evading Tax Payment.

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 19—Edward F. Barrett, a Vice-President of the National City Bank, the second largest bank in the United States, sat in a witness chair in Federal Court today with a ledger open upon his knees and read figures showing that from 1922 until the crash in 1929, Charles E. Mitchell helped his wife to make nearly $300,000 by stock transactions.

From his ledger, Barrett, a heavy-set, round-faced man who began his banking career in 1928 as Mitchell's secretary, and, as he rose from one position to another, continued to handle Mrs. Mitchell's business affairs, read entries corroborating evidence contained in letters exchanged between the Mitchells.

Max D. Steuer, Mitchell's chief counsel, read the letters to the jury, which will decide whether the former National City Bank chairman is guilty, as charged, of having evaded payment of more than $850,000 in income tax in 1929 and 1930.

There were between 15 and 20 pool transactions beginning in 1922 and extending through 1928 in which, the letters revealed, Mitchell accepted participation in behalf of his wife. Her profits from these amounted to about $100,000.

Unlucky Number Is In Demand

LONDON, Eng., May 19—Every house numbered thirteen on a Hendon, Middlesex, estate has been sold.

Some of the other numbers are in a more advanced state of building, but prospective tenants prefer to wait for a No. 13.

Five people named Wilson—not related to each other—applied for the same No. 13.

"Thirteens are always the first to go," the agent said.

All Prosperous

"Two tenants took other numbers and asked to transfer when the thirteens in the same streets were built.

"People seem to think thirteen is lucky and certainly all the tenants in thirteens seem to be prosperous.

"I have never heard of ill luck befalling one of the thirteen tenants, and none has asked to change.

Furs, we are told, are most satisfactory if kept in the fresh air. Husbands consider they would be much more satisfactory if kept in the shop.

Better be unborn than untaught; for ignorance is the root of misfortune.

their lot with their native province.

In his encouraging review of the year's work President MacPherson said: "I am confident that a good foundation has been built upon which you can build successful careers. This work St. Francis Xavier has been carrying on for a long time and it is a great satisfaction to know that it has produced excellent results.

Parliamentary Banking Committee Announces Public Debt As $8,855,596,800.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, May 19—The public debt of Canada, the nine provinces, municipalities and corporations amounts to $8,855,596,800, the Parliamentary Banking Committee reported today to the House of Commons. This load of debt represents an annual interest charge of $421,965,800 at an average rate of 4.77 percent.

Containing a number of recommendations, chief of which is one that urges a general conversion of Canada's outstanding obligations at lower interest rates, the report also details the debt of the country and those of the provinces and municipalities.

Canada's net debt (Dominion) was placed at $2,599,039,000 with the annual interest payments, $121,637,800.

The gross direct liabilities of the provinces totalled $1,363,382,464, on which annual interest payments amounted to $62,715,593, while provincial indirect liabilities added a further $219,977,011, with $9,071,034 annual interest.

The grand total of direct liabilities of Canadian municipalities was $1,584,000,000, on which annual interest payments were $87,616,000, the report stated.

As at March 31, 1933, the bonds guaranteed by the Dominion of Canada for both principal and interest amounted to $780,148,354, while those guaranteed for interest only totalled $216,000,000.

Railway debts amounted to $919,000,000, a figure, however, which as far as the Canadian National Railways is concerned, embraces only that portion of its obligations not guaranteed by the Dominion. The debts of other corporations amounted to $1,178,000,000.

With regard to private debt, the committee reported that the figures available only partially covered the field. However, the census of 1931 ascertained that out of a total of 654,297 owned and partly owned farms in the Dominion, 244,201 were mortgaged to the extent of $677,564,100. These figures apply only to "owned farms," and to mortgages held by corporate companies.

A student had been spending freely and was short of cash. It was near the holidays, and he hated to write home for money. As a last resort he pawned his dress suit.

When the time came to leave for home, the suit was still unredeemed. He hurriedly scraped together enough cash to get it back, packed it in his bag, and was off.

At home his mother was helping him unpack.

"Henry," she asked, "what is this ticket on your coat for?"

"Why, mother," he replied, "I went to a dance the other evening and that's the cloakroom ticket."

She continued putting away his clothes. Finally she lifted the trousers. They, too, were ticketed.

"Henry," she exclaimed, "what kind of a dance was that?"

The eternal life, the life of faith, is simply the life of the higher vision.—Henry Drummond.

Aged Ladies To Observe Birthday

During the present month two of Prince Edward Island's oldest residents will celebrate their birthdays.

They are Mrs. Alice Smith, at Theresa's, and Mrs. Mary McSwain, Lorne Valley, who will have reached the ages of 102 and 99 years, respectively.

Alice Smith was born in County Galway, Ireland, in 1831, and came with her parents to Prince Edward Island six years later, where she has resided since.

Mary McSwain was born on the Isle of Lewis, Scotland, between May 10 and 20, in 1835. The family came to the Garden of the Gulf eight years later and settled in Belfast.

Here both young girls grew into womanhood and married, yet neither of them had their names changed. For Alice Smith married James E. Smith, while Mary McSwain married Captain Allan McSwain, who was also a native of Scotland.

With the exception of a few distant relatives, Mrs. McSwain's family are long since dead, but Mrs. Smith has one son surviving, 80 years of age.

These remarkable old ladies are still hale and hearty, and able to attend to light household duties. They have lived during the reigns of four English monarchs: William IV, Victoria, Edward VII, and King George V. Both enjoy to the full their faculties and vision. But, like others, they experienced many unpleasant and bitter trials as they journeyed along life's highway. Especially does Mrs. Smith recall scenes of political troubles and dire poverty in her native land, which she says, "were so indelibly stamped on my young mind that I never forgot them." Mrs. McSwain, or "Aunt Mary," as most folk call her, took many voyages with her husband to foreign lands. She loves to talk of those good old days and can entertain one for hours with humorous and tragic episodes of the sea.

Auburn Play

On May 2nd, the Auburn Dramatic Club, under the capable direction of Mr. Walter McEntee, presented "Polishing Papa," a three-act comedy at Webster's Corner Hall to a large and appreciative audience.

The play is one of family life with plenty of comedy and passages of real drama. Smith (Papa), a sausage manufacturer, is altogether too ready to go about his home minus shoes, necktie and grammar and his son and daughter begin to polish him. The son hates the sausage business and wants to go into something "refined" like investment, banking and that brings plenty of trouble to him.

But once the various complications and misunderstandings are straightened out, everything turns out well.

Outside the members of the family there is an English Duke, who is a failure; Rose Parker, who gets on wonderful with Smith; a smart salesman and a young attorney.

This play was very difficult to stage, but all who took part in it are entitled to much credit.

Following was the cast of characters: The difficult role of Sydney Smith (Papa), was capable performed by Mr. Joseph Simpson, who gave a true picture of his part both in manner and speech, as an old man who did not wish to be polished in manner or in grammar.

Arthur Smith, the son, was impersonated by Mr. Edward Shea.

Jane Smith, the daughter, was played to perfection by Miss Mabel Cusack.

Rose Parker, a college girl, was excellently portrayed by Miss Margaret Lambe.

Mr. William Kelly, displayed admirable talent in his part as Dick Brainerd, a young attorney.

Plenty of humor was supplied by Mr. Ambrose Kelly, who elicited gales of laughter from the audience in his part as Samuel Karmen, an advertising solicitor.

Mr. Arthur McCarron, as usual gave an excellent account of himself as Lord Reginald Dabney, a duke impersonating British nobility.

Miss Mary McCarron very capably performed her part as Marie, a maid in the Smith's home.

The part of Mrs. Stephens, the housekeeper, was successfully played by Miss Mildred Simpson.

Miss Mary Callaghan played well her part as Peggy, a friend of the Smith's.

The following specialties were more than enjoyed by the audience: Violin Selections by John Grimes, with Miss Isabel McDonald as accompanist; Step dance, by Miss Annie Grimes; Recitation, "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight," by Miss Mabel Cusack; Vocal Solo, by Miss Margaret Lambe and Mr. William Kelly.

This play was put on for the benefit of the Catholic Women's League and will be staged again in the near future.

A WORD FOR FATHER

It is father who writes the cheques for mother's day celebrations and all other celebrations, too. On the first of the month he is the most generally important member of the household. But the fact is generally forgotten on the second.

Why not hand him a flower, sometimes along with the "please remit?" It is chiefly the father's fault that he is lost in the shuffle. He is inclined to be silent.

He is content to stand in the background.

He is not often the scholar or the dreamer.

He shoulders the responsibility of rent and taxes.

He is not often the pathfinder, or the pioneer; nor the rebel.

Give father a cheer, ladies, but let him pick out his own necktie!

In the meanwhile every day is his day. And he spends it working for the wife and children.

He works himself to death that his wife and children may be assured of comfort and independence.

He belongs with the hundreds and thousands who dare not revolt—at least publicly.

He has given hostages to fortune, as Francis Bacon once said. He knows it. But he doesn't care.

Sometimes we may have a national memorial day to father. That is, if we can get sufficiently wrought up over him.

We take him for granted in human society, even as we take salt for granted in the daily provender. And like salt he savors the whole.

Father works at the commonplace task of earning a living, supporting a family, discharging his duties, laboring along quietly six days a week, standing between his dependents and the world—Great Thoughts.

ATHLETICS WEAKENED

(Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, May 18—Baseball's old bugaboo, disabled players, today is the most serious threat to the Philadelphia Athletics' pennant chances.

George (Moose) Earnshaw and "Lefty" Grove, the A's stellar hurlers, are on the shelf at least for the rest of the week. Earnshaw with Lumbago and Grove with toothache. Each has been out of action several days already.

In addition to this handicap, Connie Mack, veteran pilot of the Athletics, got more bad news along similar lines yesterday, learning that Eric McNair, the Dixie shortstop, will be laid up for at least two weeks more with a pulled tendon in his throwing arm.
