RETURN TO P.E.I.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Waugh, with their son, Master Charles, have returned to their home in New Annan after a year's sojourn in the Rocky foothills of "Sunny" Alberta. The Waugh family report a pleasant year spent but are pleased to renew old friends and acquaintances in and around their "Island" home.

FORMER ISLANDER—From Vancouver comes the news that A. J. B. Mellish, who over a quarter of a century ago was prominent in legal and military circles in Prince Edward Island has apparently transferred his enthusiasm to lawn bowling. In competitions among seventy members he has won first prize for individual bowling and third prize for his team bowling during the fall and winter sessions of the Undercover Lawn Bowling Club.

CANADIAN HELPERS MEET—The "Canadian Helpers" of Nine Mile Creek school held their ninth meeting April 12. The President, Ralph MacLean occupied the chair. The roll was answered by a riddle. Margaret Darrach, Secretary, read the minutes of last meeting which were adopted. The Treasurer, Wilma Garveit, reported she had spent the money she had on hand to purchase articles for the Easter boxes which were sent to Miss Flora Campbell, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Flora Currie and Mr. George Macdonald. Easter greetings were sent to Miss Catherine MacLean, Supervisor of the Junior Red Cross, Miss Annie and Roberta Currie and also to Fairview, New Dominion and Rice Point schools. It was decided to open the next meeting by the name of a famous man and what he did. Charles Betts, the Health and Cleanliness Convener, had no report on the program consisting of practicing the dialogue "When Women Have Their Rights." There was no further business and the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

POLICE COURT—At the Police Court yesterday a man charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated was sentenced to seven days in jail. A man charged with assault, causing bodily harm was sentenced to 90 days in jail. The defendant in a disorderly conduct case was fined $50 or as an alternative thirty days in jail. A drunk who failed to appear had his three dollars bail forfeited. A vagrancy case was heard and adjourned until May 11th.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT—The changes that have been made in the grocery and meat store of Mr. F. J. MacDonald during the past few weeks have elicited many favorable comments from shoppers who have taken advantage of F. J.'s ten day Jubilee sale. The entire store has been changed around. The meat department has been moved to the newly constructed addition in the rear, and the main grocery counter to the left hand side as you enter the corner door. The main entrance is a great convenience, as it is easily accessible from both streets, and also allows a great deal more window space on Prince Street. Goods are well displayed on tables in the center of the store as well as on the shelves, all being in easy reach of the patrons who like to pick out their needs for themselves. The office has been moved up to the front. The exterior of the building is being painted and when finished the store will present a very fine appearance.

COMMUNION SERVICE—The North Tryon Presbyterian Church in Canada held its communion service on Sabbath morning, Dr. M. E. Genge, the pastor in charge, preached a sermon on the sacraments of the church and the heart preparation necessary to make these sacraments effective in the lives of the members. The Sacrament of Baptism was administered and a large number of communicants were present. Among them twelve new members received. Eleven by confession of faith and one by letter. It was one of the most hallowed services ever enjoyed by the congregation. The evening service was largely attended and the sermon by Dr. Genge was a masterpiece of national patriotism and loyalty. The speaker took his text from Proverbs 8 chapter and verses 15-16 "By me kings reign and princes decree justice," etc. and a congregation dispersed feeling that they had paid home to Jesus Christ the Great King and head of the church and to the Empire's King and Consort. The services closed with the National Anthem. Mr. Major Wadell was the soloist for the day and Miss Marion Waddell the organist.

WOOD ISLAND—Under the auspices of the Wood Islands Debating Club, organized March 6, 1935, a series of very interesting debates have been held on Wednesday of each week in the Wood Island East Hall. The propositions for debate were as follows: Resolved, that "Railway transportation is more beneficial than highway transportation to the communities of P.E.I." "That the farmer has a happier life than the fisherman." "That nature is more pleasing to the eye than art." "That reading is more helpful than travel." "That Iron is more useful than coal." "That the married man has a happier life than the bachelor." The interest in these debates has been far beyond the greatest expectations of the organizers. All meetings were largely attended, and the propositions were closely contested by the many and surprisingly capable speakers. At the closing meeting held on April 26, a vote of thanks was offered to the committee, Mr. M. C. MacPhee, Pres., Mr. Wendall MacMillan, vice pres., Miss Belle Stewart, sec'y. It is hoped that when winter again rolls around that this very interesting and instructive pastime will be renewed.

Janice Meredith

By PAUL LEICESTER-FORD

spoke of it to the bondman, the latter was far from conciliatory and again charged Evatt with being a spy.

As the two talked, Janice came up and again offered to give the signature to Charles, but he refused it, saying it was not his, and asking her to keep it.

Evatt remained at the Merediths' several days, entertaining them with his stories of the court, but, leaving Janice that he must be about the King's business, declared he must leave next day.

"You will never see me again," he went on, "unless—"

"Unless?" asked Janice, her face downcast.

"Unless I return here to carry you away," he said, seizing her hand.

"Please let go my hand," she said.

"Not till you give me yea or nay," he said.

"But I can't," began the girl.

"May I come back?" Evatt demanded.

"Yes," she answered desperately.

"I give you back your hand, Janice, but remember 'tis mine," he said, and departed, leaving a flustered, puzzled and miserable damoiselle.

III.

Among Janice's suitors were Philemon Henion and Mr. McCleave, pastor of the Presbyterian church which the Merediths attended. The latter's suit was favored by Mrs. Meredith, a strongly religious woman who thought marriage to the clergyman might cure Janice of what her mother considered flippancy.

As for Philemon, he appeared to Janice to be more or less of an uncounted yokel.

And now, although it was useless for an indentured servant to hope for her hand, it was obvious that Charles had fallen a slave to her beauty. He was near her when he could be, and one day, when he helped her and Sukey, the cook, prepare preserves, her mother became aware of his fondness for the girl.

She rebuked her daughter, and to her husband urged the girl's early marriage to Mr. McCleave, but the clergyman, a widower, had a flock of young children and Mr. Meredith objected to his daughter's being a drudge for them.

The squire favored Phil's suit, and

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. WILLIAM F. McNEILL

Seldom has the whole countryside been so shocked as when the sad news spread from door to door and from heart to heart, that Mrs. William F. McNeill had passed away on April 5th at the early age of 40 years. Mrs. McNeill was, before her marriage, Miss Bessie Gillis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gillis of Summerside who now mourn the loss of an affectionate daughter, Bessie, as she was familiarly and lovingly known by her friends, was a great favorite among her many acquaintances and being of a friendly, genial disposition, she was loved and respected by all who knew her. Before her marriage she had been connected with the two large business firms of R. T. Holman Ltd. and Brace & McKay and in that capacity she had the opportunity of meeting and becoming acquainted with a much larger circle of friends than fell to the lot of most people, and needless to say that her endearment of heart and mind endeared her to all. In the town of Borden where she had lived for the last foremost in everything that was when the mother objected on the ground that the Henions were bankrupt, said that the elder Henion had plenty of good land which Janice's dowry could develop. Mrs. Meredith then warned her husband that the girl's head was full of the bond servant.

Janice, asked later by her father to explain the stable man's presence in the kitchen, revealed that Charles had come in to warn her that the villagers were preparing to tar and feather Meredith because of his profligate attitude. The news left the squire still defiant.

A few weeks after, Janice's mother found the girl reading a letter which she demanded to see. It contained a miniature of Janice herself and was the work of Charles.

The discovery caused a furor in the Meredith house. Charles was rebuked for his presumption and Janice was forced to give the portrait back to him.

Her parents knew so little of their daughter's nature as never to dream that they had occasioned the first suggestion of tenderness for the opposite sex the girl's heart had ever felt. And love's flame is superior to physical law in that the less ventilation it has, the more fiercely it burns.

MEMORIAL

helpful to the religious and social life of the community, being a faithful member of her church and one of the members of the choir since the church's inception here some years ago.

Along with her mourning besides her husband, she mentioned her mother and one Miss Macdonald to whom she was greatly attached and who survives Mrs. Bertha McNeill and Miss Lucy Gillis in the employ of Sincere and Stewart, Charlottetown; also two brothers, Mr. Harold Gillis of Corney, Ont., who served in the Great War and Robert Gillis of Corney, P. C., to all of whom she rendered the most sincere sympathy, in her case the scriptural injunction is certainly true "in the midst of life we are in death" and the call came to her with the unexpected suddenness. Still she bore her sufferings with christian fortitude, being able to converse with her family and friends till the last. She was visited daily by the Rt. Rev. Father MacLellan, Father O'Hanley and her own parish priest Father Monaghan and kindly greeting and in the words of the poet will say "Peace and rest at length have come All the day's long toil is past, And each heart is whispering Home, Home at last."

Her funeral at Summerside was very largely attended, friends coming from all sections of the country to pay the last tribute of respect to one they loved while the most beautiful floral tributes and Mass Cards were banked around her casket. We will all miss her friendly smile and kindly greeting and in the words of the poet will say "Peace and rest at length have come All the day's long toil is past, And each heart is whispering Home, Home at last."
