CHICAGO NEGRO RELATES HIS EXPERIENCES WITH A GARDEN

"It was had at first, hot, no rain. But the heat in fact, it's not so hot as it seems. It's got me lots of greens for my health. I can't be beat for good health. We like our greens and vegetables fresh, right off the ground and we do get 'em off that 'eh' garden patch. This from a Chicago negro on relief, who had been given a piece of ground for a garden by the relief commission.

Authorities of Chicago in charge of relief activities say that during 1934 only 45 per cent of their clients given gardens reported no previous gardening experience, as compared to 80 per cent in 1933. This would seem to indicate that there is an immense interest in gardening even among those who have never practiced the hobby.

Watch for currant worms and white butterflies and spray the small cabbage and cauliflower plants before the worms get a chance.
