Sharp Pains In His Heart Nerves In Bad Condition

Mr. Fred J. Chase, Thomson Station, N.S., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills with wonderful results. My heart would beat so fast I would have to sit down when at work chopping in the woods. I had sharp pains in my heart when I would lie down at night. My nerves were also in a very bad condition, but after using two boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I feel just fine, and am fourteen pounds heavier than I have been for years."

Rules Governing Guardian "Famous Canadians" Contest

Everyone who is a paid in advance subscriber excepting employees of The Guardian and their families may take part. As many members of one family as a paid in advance subscriber may compete as desired and any subscriber may send in as many sets of answers as he or she wishes, but each set must be complete and will be judged individually.

The successful competitors whose subscriptions are paid forth into 1932 will have the preference.

Clip the picture and coupon underneath it every day and write the answer on the blank line. Save all your clippings until the end of the contest and then send them to the "Famous Canadians" Contest Editor of The Guardian in one batch. Name and address should be included, clearly written or printed, and securely attached to your solutions. It will facilitate handling if you bind your solutions by sewing along the top, or using paper fasteners.

In sending more than one solution, each solution must be enclosed in a separate envelope.

Please attach sufficient postage as, otherwise, it may be necessary to refuse acceptance of the mail.

In case of a tie The Guardian reserves the right to publish one or more tie-breaking puzzles.

The Judges' decision will be final in all matters, and The Guardian will not undertake to enter into correspondence with any individual regarding the decision of the judges.

The Jam-wagon began to put more force into his arms. He drove in a short-arm left to the stomach, then brought his right up to the other's chin. Locasto swung a deadly knockout blow at the Jam-wagon, which just grazed his jaw, and the Jam-wagon retaliated with two lightning rights and a nervous left, all on the big man's face.

Then he sprang back, for he was excited now. In and out he wove. Once more he landed a hard left on Locasto's heaving stomach, and then, rushing in, he rained blow after blow on his antagonist. They came into a clinch, but this time the Jam-wagon broke away, giving the deadly kidney blow as they parted. When time was called both men were panting hard, bruised and covered with blood.

Round six. Locasto sprang into the center of the ring. His face was hideously disfigured. Only in that battered, blood-stained mask could I recognize the black eyes gleaming deadly hatred. Rushing for the Jam-wagon, he hurled him across the ring. Again charging, he overbore him to the floor, but failed to hold him.

Then in the Jam-wagon there awoke the ancient spirit of Berserker. He was insensible to pain. He was the sea-prize again, mad with the lust of battle. Like a fiend he tore himself loose, and went after his man, rushing him with a swift, rattling hall of blows around the ring.

Now they were in a furious mix-up, and suddenly Locasto, seizing him savagely, tried to whip him smashingly to the floor. Then the wonderful agility of the Englishman was displayed. In a distance of less than a two-foot drop he turned completely like a cat. Getting up, he was free, and, leaving a waisthold with a Cornish heave, he bore Locasto to the floor. Quickly he changed to a crotch-lock, and lastly, holding Locasto's legs, he brought him to a bridge and worked his weight up on his body.

Black Jack, with a mighty heave, broke away and again regained his feet. This seemed to enrage the Jam-wagon the more, for he tore after his man like a maddened bull. Getting a hold with incredible strength, he lifted him straight up in the air and hurled him to the ground with sickening force.

Locasto lay there. His eyes were closed. He did not move. Several men rushed forward. "He's all right," said a medical looking individual; "just stunned, I guess you can call the fight over."

The Jam-wagon slowly put on his clothes. He was badly bruised about the body, but not seriously hurt in any way. Shudderingly I looked down at Locasto's face, beaten to a pulp, his body livid from head to foot. And then, as they bore him off to the hospital, I realized I was revenged.

CHAPTER VII

"Let me introduce you," said the Prodigal, "to my friend the Pote."

"Glad to meet you," said the Pote cheerfully, extending a damp hand. "Just been having a dish-washing bee." He finished his dish-washing and joined us, pulling on an old Tuxedo jacket.

"Whew! Glad that job's over. And now, having immolated myself on the altar of cleanliness, I will solace my soul with a little music."

He took down a banjo from the wall, and striking a few chords began to sing. His songs seemed to be original, even improvisations, and he sang them with a certain quaintness and point that made them very piquant.

There came a knock at the door, and a young man entered. He had a broad smiling face and a bulgy forehead. The Pote introduced him to me.

"The Yukon Yorick?"

"Hello," chuckled the newcomer, "how's the bunch? Don't let me stampee you. How d'ye do. Horace! Glad to meet you." (He called everybody Horace.) "Just come away from a meeting of my creditors."

He seemed brimming over with jovial acceptance of life in all its phases.

Several me dropped in to swell the bohemian circle. Some had brought bottles. The little cabin was crowded, the air hazy with smoke, the conversation animated. The Pote had the floor.

"A friend of mine had a beautiful pond of water lilies. They

Painted the water exultantly and were a triumphant challenge to the soul. Folks came from far and near to see them. Then, one winter, my friend thought he would clean out the pond, so he had all the nasty slimy mud scraped away till you could see the silver gravelly glimmering on the bottom. But the lilies with all their haunting loveliness never came back.

"What are you drifting at, you old dreamer?"

"Oh, just this: In the nasty mud and slime of Dawson I saw a lily girl she lives in a cabin by the Slide along with a Jewish couple. I only caught a glimpse of her twice. They are unspeakable, but she is fair and sweet and pure. I would stake my life on her goodness. She looks like a young Madonna."

"In the cabin by the Slide?" I asked.

He started, looked at me searchingly: "You know her?"

"She means a good deal to me."

"Oh, I understand. Yes, that long queer cabin highest up on the hill."

"Thanks, old chap."

"All right, good luck."

Very softly I approached the cabin, for fear of encountering her guardian in my heart. Carefully I reconnoitered, and soon, to my infinite joy, I saw the Jewish couple come forth and make their way toward the girl was alone.

How madly beat my heart. It was a gloomy kind of night, and the cabin looked woefully bleak and solitary. No light came through the windows, no sound through the moss-chinked walls. I drew near. I knocked at the door. No answer. "Bernie," I cried in a faltering whisper.

Came the reply: "Who is there?"

"Love, love, dear; love is waiting."

Then, at my words, the door was opened, and the girl was before me. She stood gazing at me, a little fluttering hand went up to her heart as if to still its beating.

"Oh, my dear, I knew you were coming. Something told me you would come at last. And I've waited—how I've waited! I've dreamed, but it's not a dream now, is it dear; it's you?"

"Yes, it's me. I've tried so hard to find you. Oh, my dear, my dear!"

I seized the sweet, soft hand and covered it with kisses. I loved her so, I loved her so!

"High and low I've sought you, beloved. Thank God! Thank God!"

"Oh, it's you, really, really you at last," she cried again, and there was a tremor, the surface ripple of a sob in that clear voice. She fetched a deep sigh: "And I thought I'd lost you forever. Wait a moment, I'll come out."

Endlessly long the moment seemed, yet wonderously irradiated. Then, at last, she came. She had thrown a shawl around her shoulders, and coaxed her hair into charming waves and ripples.

"Come, let us go up the trail a little distance. They won't be back for nearly an hour."

When we had seated ourselves on the hillside, she turned to me. "And so you found me, dear. I knew you would, somehow. In my heart I knew you would not fail me. So I waited and waited. It was cruel we left so suddenly, not even time to say good-bye, but I could not help myself. They dragged me away."

Public Notice As To Applications For Oyster Farming Leases

Applications for leases of Prince Edward Island areas for oyster farming purposes will now be received by the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa.

Leases will be granted in Malpeque Bay and its tributary rivers and in such other areas as are not now public commercial oyster beds and are approved by the Department as suitable for oyster farming. A plan showing the lots available for leasing in the Malpeque Bay area may be consulted, without charge, at the office of the Supervisor of Fisheries, Charlottetown, or at the Biological Station at Ellerslie or the office of any Inspector of Fisheries in the province.

Summary of Major Leasing Conditions

Before a lease is granted, the area applied for is to be examined by the Department's oyster expert.

Each lease will be for a term of 20 years and will be renewable for a further like period.

Rentals on the following basis will be payable under each lease: (1) To a resident of the immediate district; (2) To a person or company in the province; (3) To a person or company outside the province.

In any further information desired as to leasing conditions may be obtained on application to the Supervisor of Fisheries, Charlottetown, or the Department at Ottawa.

Information as to the most effective methods of oyster farming, obtained by the Department through the investigation which it has been conducting in the Malpeque Bay area, will be made available to applicants for leases, or intending applicants, upon request.

Ottawa, Oct. 19th, 1931.

WM. A. FOUND, Deputy Minister of Fisheries. Oct. 21-W-S-81.

NOTICE

We hereby notify all our creditors that we are going out of business on Nov. 30th, and it is imperative that all outstanding accounts be settled before that date. Accounts unsettled by that date will be handed to our solicitors.

Mr. Daniel Mullin, Supervisor of Schools, visited the school here last week.

Mr. Chester Bruce, Kingsboro, was a visitor to Souris East recently.

Miss Freda P. Dingwell, South Lake, was a recent visitor to the provincial capital.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McIntyre, East Point, were visitors to Souris on Sunday last.

Mr. B. Frederik Rose, South Lake, was a recent visitor to the Provincial capital.

Miss Laura Campbell, Charlottetown, visited a short visit to her home in Elmira.

Mr. J. F. Mossey, general merchant, Bothwell, loaded some cars of potatoes this week at Elmira for the Harris Abattoir.

We sincerely regret that there is no noticeable improvement in the condition of Mrs. Margaret McVane, Bothwell, and wish her a speedy recovery.

Most of the farmers in this locality have finished the grading and shipping of their potatoes and are now expectantly awaiting large monetary returns.

Mrs. B. Frederik Rose, South Lake, recently accompanied her little daughter, Eleanor, to Charlottetown, where the latter is undergoing treatment.

A recent item in "South Lake Notes" was erroneously printed and should have read thus: Mr. Wilfred MacDonald, Bothwell, was a recent visitor to Souris.

Mrs. Vincent McIsaac, Souris, was a visitor to East Point last week, the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. Stuart McIntyre. She returned to her home in Souris on Sunday.

Mackerel fishing, in the waters off this part of the coast, is slackening, due to the scarcity of the fish and the distance they have moved off-shore. It was necessary, some days, for the fishermen to go out ten miles or more in order to come up with the school. Some of the local fishermen effected good catches of mackerel last week, some obtaining as many as one thousand fish per boat.

Mrs. Florence McLeod, teacher, Red Point, was a passenger to Elmira on Monday evening, C.
