Pre-Historic Dwellings In Lake Constance

CONSTANCE, Germany, Feb. 8.—A hitherto unknown dwelling has been discovered by skaters on Lake Constance. The pre-historic find was a direct result of the cold wave as the lower lake was frozen over, allowing thousands of skaters to besport themselves on the crystal clear ice. Through the ice they saw not only the pre-historic dwelling but a whole assortment of ancient beams and household implements.

LIKENS BRAIN TO NEWSPAPER

British Scientist Finds High Fore-Head Really Indicates Brainpower.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—A remarkable resemblance between the manner in which the brain and a metropolitan newspaper functions was found by Sir Arthur Keith, lecturing at the Royal College of Surgeons here. He found that in modern man the "staff" part of the brain—the executive part—had grown to a decided preponderance over the "mechanical part" or the part that handled and despatched the messages from the nerve centres of the body. This was not the case in the lower mammals, where the brain was given almost entirely over to "mechanical part."

Sir Arthur said that 100 years ago a small but enthusiastic band of medical men were mapping the surface of the human head into areas, believing that in each underlying part of the brain there was situated a specific faculty of the mind.

Advancing knowledge of the brain had swept away old phrenological maps from the surface of the head, but unfortunately the fate which had attended these early attempts had brought the art of the cartographer as applied to the human brain into disrepute. Such scepticism was unjustified. At the beginning of the present century, anatomists set out in earnest to make an elaborate survey of the grey rind or cortex of man's brain; the first maps produced were comparatively simple, but had since become more complex, the latest showing the cortex of the brain divided into over 100 distinct districts or areas.

In later maps, although there was complete agreement as to the main areas, there was still a considerable discrepancy as regards the number with Mr. Wilfred Nicholson as W. P. On Jan 24th the members held their first debate of the season, the subject being Single or Married Life, which was ably discussed by the pro and con. sides, and the results were an equal ballot. The speakers in favour of Single Life (Pro.): Walter Weeks, Emerson Murry, Chester Weeks, and Frank Cutcliffe; Married Life (Con): Mary Stevenson, Horace Cutcliffe, Hilda Cutcliffe and Ray Weeks.

The Misses Marion MacDonald and Elsie Ford, Glasgow Road, spent a well earned vacation with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Rackham, Fredericton.

Mr. Frank Cutcliffe and Mr. Ray Weeks paid a visit to Pleasant Valley recently.

The many friends of Miss Lena Hickox are glad to see her back to her native province once again.

FORTUNE BRIDGE

Misses Evelyn Johnston and Clara Aiken, two of Fortune's most popular young ladies, are attending the Domestic Short Course in the city.

We regret to hear that Mr. W. H. Townshend, C. N. R., has been on the sick list, but are pleased to know that he is now convalescing. His son Francis of Rollo Bay West visited him in the city last week.

Mr. Edwin Reid of Rollo Bay West is officiating in capacity of sheriff at present in place of Sheriff McDonald, who is ill in the hospital.

Mr. Reginald Dingwell of Bay Fortune was on the sick list recently, but is now better.

Mr. H. Francis of the firm of J. S. Francis & Sons, Sleigh and Carriage Builders, was on a business trip to Georgetown, Montague, etc., last week.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Henry McKie, one of Bay Fortune's oldest residents and a true gentleman in every respect. Deceased was in splendid health up until a few days before he was called home, when he was suddenly stricken with paralysis from which he never recovered despite the best of care. The late Mr. McKie was one of a large family of whom all have passed to the Great Beyond except one sister. He will be sadly missed in the community where he was a great favorite with all, as he exemplified the true Christian Spirit of Love.

He is mourned by two daughters—Blanche, wife of M. R. Dingwell, Bertha, at home and one sister, Mrs. J. S. Francis, Fortune Bridge, and nephew Alden who resided with him since his return from the Great World War.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. D. McDonald, and all that remained of a loving father and kindly man was interred in Bay Fortune Cemetery. The pall bearers were his two nephews, Harry and Arthur by Rev. Edwin Bridgewater of St. John's Anglican Church and was very largely attended. After a short service in the home the remains were taken to St. John's Church.

Rev. Mr. Bridgewater taking as his text "The Communion of Saints," spoke very eloquently of the sterling Christian character of the deceased and of his unceasing devotion to the Church.

He was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery adjoining the Church by Leigh Lowther, Raymond Myers, Oscar Myers, Crisp Moore, Wilnot McDonald and Ayard McVittie.

CORNELIUS E. LOWTHER

The community of Crapaud was again called upon recently to suffer the loss of another life-long resident in the person of Mr. C. E. Lowther, who died on the 4th instant at the age of 66. The late Mr. Lowther was one of Crapaud's most enterprising farmers but his health became impaired during the epidemic of influenza in the year 1919 and he never fully recovered from its effects. However he bore his ill-health and suffering with the greatest of fortitude. He leaves to mourn his passing, his widow Amy, (a daughter of David T. and Mrs. Lowther of North Carleton) and three children: Mrs. Verner Moore of Crapaud, Mrs. Max Burgess of Charlottetown and one son Eric Lowther on the homestead; also four sisters, Mrs. Robert Myers of Victoria, Mrs. George Myers of Hampton, Mrs. James Newsome of Boston, and Mrs. Carrie Coles of Kensington and one brother Herb of Tryon. The funeral services were held on Wednesday the 6th inst., conducted

FRANCIS, EDWIN REID, WILLIAM FISHER, JAMES DINGWELL, EARL DINGWELL.

It seems that it is our sad duty to report a number of deaths of dear ones in this column—the "young and the old, the low and the high," as Knox says, all must go, and despite the fact that we see Death every day it seems that we can never grow used to it, and it always comes with a shock. A very sad death occurred in Souris when the little eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Richards was called to join the Angel band.

Elizabeth, who was a beautiful little girl had not been in good health for a number of months, suffering from diabetes. However, hope was held out for her recovery until a few days previous to her death when she became ill enough to be put to bed. All that was possible was done, but to no avail, and God took her to Himself where there is no care and sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Youst, who spent the winter months with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Matheson, Dundas, left last week for their home in Western Canada. While enroute they will stop off for a short visit to Mrs. Matheson's brother, Rev. Arthur Matheson, Fredericton.

Mr. Ralph Dingwell, accompanied by the Red Rose Tea man, motored from Charlottetown, East last week calling on all their customers despite bad road conditions. Some stunt for January—but leave it to Ralph.

Mr. Harold Matheson, Albion Cross, recently paid a visit to the home of our merchant, Mr. Daniel Nicholson.

Mr. Felix McIsaac and his sister, Miss Annie of Boston, arrived in Souris last week, called home by the death of their other, Mrs. James McIsaac.

Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Blaisdell, Red House, have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of their infant son, a bright baby of six months. The little one contracted "flu" and although medical skill was called in and everything in human power done to save the little life, God willed otherwise and the baby spirit fled to its Heavenly home. The spirit remains were laid in Dundas Cemetery. "He will gather, He will gems for His kingdom.

Mr. Everett Webster Jr., Marie, spent her week-end with relatives in Fortune.

Miss Sadie Webster, Cardigan, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Chester Burke, Bay Fortune.

Rev. A. D. McDonald, Souris, conducted the services in Bay Fortune Church Sunday.

Minard's Linctment is good for colds.
