No Trifling With the Nerves.

When you can't sleep at nights and toss in misery longing for daybreak to come, do not yield to the temptation to use morphine, cocaine or other opiates. They only hasten decay.

Let reason rule. Get right down to the foundation of the trouble and build up the system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great restorative is in pill form and contains the very elements of nature, which go to form new red corpuscles in the blood and create new nerve cells.

It is worth while to remember that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is not a patent medicine, but the greatest prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase, author of the famous receipt book.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an up-to-date, scientific preparation which has proven itself to be specific for all nervous diseases. It cannot fail, if used persistently, because it actually rebuilds and revitalizes the wasted nerves. It is especially recommended for its peculiar to women, because they almost invariably arise from exhausted nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box at all dealers, or by mail.

TOBACCO AND INTOXICANTS.

Intoxicating liquors have been in the world from time immemorial and the evils arising from their use find emphatic mention in the earliest preserved history and literature, sacred and profane. Something was done by precept and example thousands of years ago to check the evil; Nazaries and Rechabites were total abstainers, but it remained for the nineteenth century to inaugurate the great temperance crusade, to multiply total abstinence societies, and since the mid-century to make laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicants.

Tobacco met with a very different reception on its introduction to the civilized world. The prohibitions and maledictions which are only in comparatively recent years falling upon the liquor traffic greeted the tobacco habit hundreds of years ago. As is well known both the tobacco plant and the potato are native to America and were unknown to the old world before Columbus' great discovery. The red men of North and South America were the only smokers before that time. The habit was apparently universal among them, and the pipe was an important appendage to all their great ceremonial gatherings. To refuse the pipe was a declaration of war. To smoke the peace pipe together was the solemn ratification of restored amity.

The tobacco plant is poisonous, it had been hitherto used only by savages and it was perhaps natural enough that its introduction to Christian countries should be strenuously repelled. It was first introduced into Spain and Portugal about 1530 and thence spread to France and Italy. Sir Francis Drake introduced it in Great Britain about 1585. Priests and rulers set their faces against it. Pope Urban excommunicated all who used it. King James I of England issued his famous counterblast against tobacco, affirming that "God made it black that it might bear the devil's color." The Sultan of Turkey, equally opposed with Christian Popes, Kings and Priests, ordered that the noses of smokers should be transfixed with pipe-stems thrust through, and if they still persisted they must suffer death.

In spite of all spiritual and temporal anathemas and prohibitions the use of tobacco made its way, conquering all opposition. It has gone around the world and finds its millions of votaries among kings, priests and people of every faith, in Christian, Mohammedan and heathen countries alike, in every civilized country, in America, Europe, Turkey, India, China, Japan and the islands of the sea. In less than 400 years the use of tobacco has become as common as that of intoxicants, and this notwithstanding every civilized country began by most determined opposition to its introduction.

This is the more strange from the fact that much that is said against it is undoubtedly true. It is not ordinarily necessary to the human system; in most beginners, though not all, nature revolts against the beginning of the tobacco habit. To non-users the habit seems irrational, absurd and uncleanly. It is notorious that the habit once formed, whether of smoking, chewing or snuffing is a very difficult one to break off, and moreover that the natural tendency of the smoker is to smoke more and more until the time not occupied in eating and sleeping is largely devoted to the use of tobacco. Its effect upon health is a controverted point, except in the cases of the young, to whom it is undoubtedly deleterious. Some adults claim direct benefit from the use of tobacco. These are few. A much larger number will probably admit that it is injurious to them. Thousands of those addicted to the tobacco habit would gladly abandon it if they could do so easily.

If there appear to be some incidental advantages accruing to the smoker in the lessened liability to infectious diseases, notably fevers, it is not for this reason that tobacco has come into such universal use. It is because of the sedative effect, the physical and mental quiet which it induces. It is sometimes charged that the use of tobacco, deadens the intellectual and moral sensibilities, but this is disputed ground. Certain it is that there is no parity between intoxicants and tobacco in that regard, or in the extent of demoralisation, vice and crime resulting from the drinking and smoking habits respectively.

It is well to study both the tobacco and the liquor questions in the light of history and of established fact. Viewed in this way we conclude that the trend of the world's most enlightened opinion has been toward greater tolerance in regard to the one and greater severity toward the other.

POINTING THE WAY.

When a brave admiral in war time goes into an enemy's harbor he knows that the life of every man in the fleet depends upon his skill and courage. It is a tremendous responsibility, and yet he cannot feel it any more deeply and truly than a conscientious physician feels his responsibility for the lives of those who are dependent upon his professional care and skill. He feels that his duty demands more than a mere routine, stereotyped interest in his patients; he feels that his work is a serious matter; that it is often a question of life and death.

"You have my many heart-felt thanks for your kindly advice to me in my sickness," writes Mrs. Claus Nelson, of Pico Heights, Los Angeles, Cal., Box 31, in a cordial letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "Also for your book which I received two years ago, and which I could not do without. It is all the Doctor I have had since I got it. I had female trouble and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, together with the advice given in his book, cured me of five years' sickness. I thought my days would not be long, but your kindness and medicine would not let me die."

For more than thirty years Dr. Pierce has occupied a grand and most unique position for benefiting his fellow beings: As chief consulting physician of the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo. Almost countless thousands have sought his services and advice both in person and by letter. "He is one of the best men in the world," said the late President Garfield, "and he is at the head of one of the best medical institutions in the world." Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free for 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing, or for handsome cloth-bound copy, 50 stamps. He makes no charge for consultation by mail; he only requests that sufferers will state their cases to him fully, freely, and in perfect confidence. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Each season we strive to sell better clothing than we did the last season; each year we endeavor to raise the standard of quality without hoisting the price.

This policy has won us thousands of friends among the shrewdest buyers. They realize that our name is a guarantee of quality—that when our label appears on a garment it is bound to be modern in fashion and fabric, that the cloth is just what it is represented to be, that for looks, wear, and general all round satisfaction it is dependable.

It means dollars in your pocket to buy our clothing.

Every time you buy a suit of our clothing you are more pleased than ever.

A Good Suit for $12.00

When we say a good suit we mean that it contains good cloth good lining, good canvas, good sewing, good tailoring and we can go further and say it is as good as the usual $15 suit that you see about town.

We can knowingly speak of the goodness of the suits as we have others not so good at $3.75, $5.00 $6.00, $7.00 $7.50.
