

Cafe Parlor Car To Tormentine

Trains No. 39 and 40 to Run Between Moncton and the Cape-West-bound Connections at Moncton Instead of Sackville.

With time changes on C. N. R. lines effective June 24th, travellers will note that trains No. 39 and 40 will run between Moncton and Tormentine instead of Sackville and Tormentine, and that west-bound mainland connections will be made at Moncton and not at Sackville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

The business stand formerly owned by Daniel McDonald at Vernon and lately occupied by William Tierney.

For terms and particulars apply to the J. J. HUGHES & CO., LIMITED

Valuable Property For Sale

ON MCGILL AVENUE

We are authorized by Mr. Ira Auld, Esq., to offer for private sale his valuable property consisting of 3 acres choice land with dwelling house, large barn, well watered and in good repair.

LARGE CLEARING AUCTION SALE OF FARM, STOCK, CROP AND FARM IMPLEMENTS AT COLWELL STATION

We are authorized by Malcolm McLeod, to sell on

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1923

Commencing at 1 o'clock his beautiful farm, situated at Colwell Station, consisting of 180 acres of choice land. One of the finest farms on the Island, having thereon a good dwelling house, large new barns, well fenced and watered.

Terms at sale. Sale positive. BENJ. CARTER & SON, Auctioneers

TO GENERAL DEALERS LOBSTER PACKERS, ETC.

We can supply you to advantage with all grades of Barbelled Pork, Mess, Short Cut Backs, Clear Pork, Lunch, a lean boiling grade; Jowls, Neck Ribs, Lard, Hams, Roll Bacon, Sugar-cured, boneless, much cheaper than Ham or Breakfast Bacon.

We also have some very fine fresh frozen Beef at right price by the carcass or quarter.

Use Island Products. Phone or mail us your orders.

DAVIS & FRASER

EASTERN STEAMSHIP LINES, INC. INTERNATIONAL LINE

Resumption of Freight and Passenger Service Between ST. JOHN AND BOSTON

S. S. "MANOA"

Table with columns: Leave Montreal for Ar. Charlottetown, Ar. Charlottetown, Ar. Charlottetown & leave for Montreal. Dates from June 23 to September 15.

CARVELL BROS.

Agents (Atlantic)

No Corns

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. Stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out.

Blue-jay

Touring Car For Sale

We will sell at our sale rooms on

TUESDAY, JUNE 26

Commencing at 1.30 o'clock. 1 McLaughlin Touring Car, 6 cylinder, in first class condition, good as new.

FOR SALE

Also other Cars will be sold.

We offer for sale that valuable property situated at head of Queen Street, consisting of 2 acres of choice land, 9 room dwelling house, stable, 2 large poultry houses, dwelling house, heated; also pump house, frost proof seller.

POINTS OUT WAY TO TERMINATE LABOR TROUBLES

ST. LOUIS, June 21.—If employers would spend half as much time cultivating the friendship, respect and good will of labor as they do fighting labor organizations there would be a labor problem.

Of course I had an almost unlimited allowance. So I could afford to beg the doctor to give me Parker for my housekeeper, at least over the summer.

"You'll want to be doing everything, and you mustn't overwork," Parker had to say several times every day. For I was full of enthusiasm.

"It isn't too late to plant a little vegetable garden," I told her. "Late corn and late peas and lettuce will grow—oh, lots of things. I've a seed catalogue from the grocery store."

My aunt would have been horrified if she could have seen me. I wrote her that I was to be under the doctor's supervision all summer and would stay in Wellsville, where I had taken a small house, and my private nurse was to attend me.

"The world is built on ideals. Labor wants to be square. If labor follows the wrong leader it is not because they want to misunderstand but because the right leader has been asleep at the switch and hasn't given the men a chance to understand him."

"There are three sides to every question—your side, the other fellow's side and the right side. I don't believe there was ever a question in either modern or ancient history where either side to the dispute was 100 per cent right."

"Ninety-five per cent of men, whether they wear broadcloth or overalls, want to play the game square. Lack of contact means lack of understanding."

"The employer has spent a lot of time selling his honesty, his fairness and his personality to the banker, the wholesaler, the retailer and the public. How much has he spent trying to sell that same personality, honesty and fairness to his workmen?"

"And that marked the end of one sort of life and beginning of another. For when my little house was done over, I was quite well, though not very strong yet. It would take months of a quiet life to bring back perfect health."

Aunt Harriet consented to my idea, my father was so far away through before he could get another letter to me.

"And now I want to learn to cook," I told Mrs. Taylor. "A splendid ambition! I wish all modern girls were as sensible as you are!" she approved.

"Then let's cook our own dinner here Friday," I suggested. "That's Parker's evening out. I'll help and you can show me."

"But Friday's my girl's day out too. Come to my place—I have to set Winthrop's dinner."

"Bring him here!" I suggested. "Indeed, that was the one thing that drew a sharp line between past and future for me. But I did not know it then—we never know the big things when they are happening to us."

I had not met Winthrop. I had seen him in the doorway of his house, in the brief instant I leaned over to start my car. So when the bell rang and Mrs. Taylor and I were busy in my little kitchen, I had no idea what my guest would look like. I answered the bell, opening the screen door to the front porch and holding out my hand in welcome.

And Winthrop—Winthrop Taylor who was soon to play such an enormous part in my life—clasped my hand and crossed my threshold for the first time! And I, not knowing the tremendous importance of this meeting, said simply and casually, "Won't you put your hat on the table? Danner is nearly ready."

Tomorrow—Acquaintance

"THE LOVE PENDULUM"

BY MARION RUBINCAM

WINTHROP

Chapter 6

The next morning came warm and full of sunlight and the fragrant freshness that only the early season seems to possess. I could not be depressed on such a day.

There was the routine of the sanatorium to get through with. I rushed Parker through my bath and massage and waited impatiently for the doctor's visit.

"You look well enough to be sent home now," he told me. "Not quite home," I answered. "I have a plan—I'm going to stay on here for the summer. You can have me under your supervision then, but I'm going to live in the village."

"As soon as I was permitted to go out, I sent for my car and drove to the little white cottage, took the name of the real estate man, and half an hour later, accompanied by him, I was going through the place. It could not have been better! It had been made for me. It was a cheery built, but perfectly good little house, one and a half stories high. It was of white painted boards with green shutters and a porch about five feet square with two wicker benches, one on each side of the door.

Inside was a living room with a brick fireplace. This was half the house. On the other side, in front, was the dining room, then the kitchen completed that floor. Upstairs were two small bedrooms with sloping ceilings, and a bathroom. The house was furnished with cheap but plain furniture.

It seemed it had been built by a young married couple, who had moved away to another city and had this place up for rent. I took it at once, even before I knew its rental. I thought it very cheap, though Mrs. Taylor told me the man doubled the price when he saw my enthusiasm.

"Of course I had an almost unlimited allowance. So I could afford to beg the doctor to give me Parker for my housekeeper, at least over the summer. And in a week I was established in my little home—my first home, the only home I ever felt I could call by such a sacred name."

"You'll want to be doing everything, and you mustn't overwork," Parker had to say several times every day. For I was full of enthusiasm.

"It isn't too late to plant a little vegetable garden," I told her. "Late corn and late peas and lettuce will grow—oh, lots of things. I've a seed catalogue from the grocery store."

My aunt would have been horrified if she could have seen me. I wrote her that I was to be under the doctor's supervision all summer and would stay in Wellsville, where I had taken a small house, and my private nurse was to attend me.

"The world is built on ideals. Labor wants to be square. If labor follows the wrong leader it is not because they want to misunderstand but because the right leader has been asleep at the switch and hasn't given the men a chance to understand him."

"There are three sides to every question—your side, the other fellow's side and the right side. I don't believe there was ever a question in either modern or ancient history where either side to the dispute was 100 per cent right."

"Ninety-five per cent of men, whether they wear broadcloth or overalls, want to play the game square. Lack of contact means lack of understanding."

"The employer has spent a lot of time selling his honesty, his fairness and his personality to the banker, the wholesaler, the retailer and the public. How much has he spent trying to sell that same personality, honesty and fairness to his workmen?"

"And that marked the end of one sort of life and beginning of another. For when my little house was done over, I was quite well, though not very strong yet. It would take months of a quiet life to bring back perfect health."

Aunt Harriet consented to my idea, my father was so far away through before he could get another letter to me.

"And now I want to learn to cook," I told Mrs. Taylor. "A splendid ambition! I wish all modern girls were as sensible as you are!" she approved.

"Then let's cook our own dinner here Friday," I suggested. "That's Parker's evening out. I'll help and you can show me."

"But Friday's my girl's day out too. Come to my place—I have to set Winthrop's dinner."

"Bring him here!" I suggested. "Indeed, that was the one thing that drew a sharp line between past and future for me. But I did not know it then—we never know the big things when they are happening to us."

I had not met Winthrop. I had seen him in the doorway of his house, in the brief instant I leaned over to start my car. So when the bell rang and Mrs. Taylor and I were busy in my little kitchen, I had no idea what my guest would look like. I answered the bell, opening the screen door to the front porch and holding out my hand in welcome.

And Winthrop—Winthrop Taylor who was soon to play such an enormous part in my life—clasped my hand and crossed my threshold for the first time! And I, not knowing the tremendous importance of this meeting, said simply and casually, "Won't you put your hat on the table? Danner is nearly ready."

Tomorrow—Acquaintance

POINTS OUT WAY TO TERMINATE LABOR TROUBLES

ST. LOUIS, June 21.—If employers would spend half as much time cultivating the friendship, respect and good will of labor as they do fighting labor organizations there would be a labor problem.

Of course I had an almost unlimited allowance. So I could afford to beg the doctor to give me Parker for my housekeeper, at least over the summer. And in a week I was established in my little home—my first home, the only home I ever felt I could call by such a sacred name."

Every 10c Packet of WILSON'S FLY PADS

WILL KILL MORE FLIES THAN 50¢ WORTH OF ANY STICKY FLY CATCHER

Clean to handle. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and General Stores

New Turn In Wakeford Case

LONDON, June 21.—Another stage in ex-Archdeacon Wakeford's fight to vindicate his honour against the verdict of misconduct against an unknown woman at the "Bull" Hotel, Peterborough, and to stop the stories which are hindering him in his efforts, will commence in the High Court of Justice in a few days time.

Since the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council Dismissed his appeal from the judgment of the Lincoln Consistory Court, resulting in his deprivation from the office and emoluments he held in the diocese of Lincoln, Mr. Wakeford has never ceased to labour to establish his innocence, and in this he has had the support of many influential friends.

Some time ago Mr. Wakeford commenced in action for alleged slander against Mr. Henry Wright, managing clerk to Messrs. Lee, Bolton, and Lee, solicitors to the Archbishop of Canterbury and also to the Bishop of Lincoln. It was this gentleman who had charge of the gathering of the facts, which were presented against the then Archdeacon in the Consistory Court and later before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

This action has been delayed owing to a decision of the Master in Chambers that the case must be struck out because "the plaintiff, being out of beneficence through the judgment of a Consistory Court, and having no stipend, can suffer no damage and therefore can maintain no action." This was supported by Mr. Justice Greer, but on an Appeal the Court held that the case must be restored to the list provided the claim for damages was amended. This was done and the action is listed for hearing before a special jury.

In the pleadings Mr. Wakeford alleged that many of the slanders have been uttered concerning his normal life, not only before the trial in the Lincoln Court but since. After a time he traced the bulk of them to Mr. Wright. An apology was demanded, but no notice was taken. Finally there came two definite statements upon which the present action is founded.

The specific slanders alleged are as follows: "Rev. G. W. Neatby, Vicar of St. John's Highbury, N., is said to have been advised by the defendant, who stated: "I know that John Wakeford is guilty. I have myself traced him to various hotels with women."

This was repeated by the Rev. G. W. Neatby to Dr. Neatby, his brother a Surgeon at Ormond Street Hospital, and a member of the congregation. The latter gentleman repeated them to a lady doctor, Dr. Tyler, a sister of General Tyler. Dr. Tyler sought out Mr. Wright and asked if the statements were true, whereupon it is alleged that the defendant said: "John Wakeford would be a very nice fellow if only he could keep the seventh commandment."

Special damages are claimed on the ground that Dr. Tyler had promised to set him up in a ministry, but hearing the slander did not proceed with the plan until the matter had been investigated. Other witnesses called for the plaintiff will include the Archdeacon, and Mr. Evans, clerk to Peter Thomas & Clark, solicitors. Dr. Daniel Ward will be leading counsel for Mr. Wakeford.

Mrs. Wakeford will be in court and may possibly be called as a witness. This is regarded as important on account of the many rumours that have been in circulation to the effect that the ex-Archdeacon had been living with a woman, and that he had been living with her in a house in the Strand.

Minard's Liniment for Neuralgia

RUMANIAN CAPITAL CITY MAY BE MOVED TO HERMANNSTADT

BUCHAREST, June 21.—Hermannstadt, a city in Transylvania, 150 miles northwest of Bucharest, is being considered as the new capital of Greater Rumania.

For a long time many Rumanians have felt that the enormously increased frontiers of the country demanded a capital nearer the Western States of Europe than Bucharest. They want to make of Hermannstadt, which in Rumanian is called Sibiu, a sort of executive Washington.

Hermannstadt was founded in the twelfth century, and has been splendidly developed by the Austrians. It is thoroughly modern and has a series of fine public squares, parks, schools, churches, libraries and theatres. It is much cleaner than any of the cities of Old Rumania, and has a much more healthful climate.

I am different and better~

MAPLE LEAF MATCHES

Well worth 15¢ a box

Great Lakes Shipping Breaks May Record

DULUTH, Minn., June 21.—The Great Lakes shipping business, held to a late start due to the delayed opening of navigation, is booming. Vessels point to the total coal and iron ore tonnage shipped during May.

The coal receipts for May, the first month of the 1923 navigation season, totaled approximately 1,600,000 tons. This is one of the largest monthly receipts total on record.

The difference in the ore and coal tonnage for the opening month gives an idea of the percentage of boats travelling "light" from low lake levels to the head of the lakes, according to vesselmen. Of the few months to pass the coal receipts mark set during May was October, 1922, when every available craft was pushed into service to bring 1,771,535 tons to the local docks.

EXPERT SKIPPER DECLARES MARINE OFFICERS OVERTAKEN

LONDON, June 21.—Captain Selwyn Day is one of the best known of the mercantile marine officers and an A. D. C. to the king. He has been all through the mill at sea, and he says that the trouble with the officers on the big Atlantic steamers now-a-days, from captains down is that they eat more than is good for them.

"Apprentices and junior officers in the passenger ships of today," he asserts, "all eat too rich food too often and in too large quantities. Consequently as they have no real physical labor to perform, at least 40 per cent of them are physically unfit. The great need of the service is for physical training and an adequate course in practical seamanship. There is much more need of these things than for insistence on a higher educational standard."

is the best remedy known for sunburn, heat rashes, eczema, sore feet, stings and blisters. A skin food!

ZAM-BUK

is the best remedy known for sunburn, heat rashes, eczema, sore feet, stings and blisters. A skin food!

At Druggists and Stores—50c.

In Moscow's Streets

(By Dominion News Service.) LONDON, June 21.—Under the heading, "In Moscow's Streets," the current number of Justice contains an arresting article from the following extracts which are talented.

George Popoff is the Moscow correspondent of the Frankfurt Zeitung. Recently he sent an article to that well known German newspaper on the condition of the children in the Russian capital. More than 15,000 abandoned children, in rags, homeless, footless, are wandering and begging in the streets. From ten to twenty perish daily under the wheels of tram cars and motor cars. Never in Moscow or anywhere else has been so many vagabonds. It is one of the consequences of the war, the revolution, and of Bolshevism. And this phenomenon has assumed frightful proportions since the beginning of the "new economic policy," by which the State has abandoned millions of people to their fate.

At the tramway stopping places, innumerable children, ill, verminous and filthy, crowd among passengers to beg from them. Along the railway lines where trains stop for hours, they are seen standing in the rain and cold, calling: "Little father, give us some bread." Everywhere, into trains, theatres, private houses, they penetrate like rats, begging and stealing.

There are several categories of vagabond children in the streets of Moscow. There are the homeless ones coming from the provinces and wandering aimlessly about the streets of the capital. They beg and die en masse from hunger, cold and accidents. Then there are the street sellers. Little ones of both sexes are found at the street corners selling cigarettes, matches, flowers, etc. These are the little energetic ones who are engaged in a struggle for existence against destiny, authority and the soldiers, who are constantly chasing them. A third category is that of the criminal children, those who make begging in connection with stealing a profession for which Russia now offers good ground.

And the children in the service of the "Tcheba" must not be forgotten. This institution, the cunning policy of which know no limits, does not scruple to utilize this infant misery in its service. "Tcheba" chooses the most intelligent of these vagabond children and orders them by means of begging to follow certain suspects and listen to their conversations.

The refugees instituted by the Soviet Government to shelter these little vagabonds are in a destitute and filthy state. There is nothing to eat or put on. They perish there as soon as the winter streets. Soviet humor calls them "little death chambers." A visit to one of these "children homes" is always baptised in honor of a Communist celebrity—Lenin, Rosa Luxemburg, or even the Third International—is an occasion for melancholy meditations on flagrant contrast between theory and practice in Russia.

STOCK:—One general purpose mare, one driving horse, by Joe Dillon, 8 years old, one Arysthrie grade cow, due to freshen, one Arysthrie cow freshened, one Guernsey grade cow in milk, one brood sow due to farrow the 23rd of June, 30 hens.

IMPLEMENT:—One binder, Massey Harris, one hay mower, one hay rake, one gang plow, one single plow, one scuffer, one sectional seeder, one rattle harrows, one set of spring tooth harrows, one set of harrows, 1 gasoline engine, H. P., one thrasher and cleaner, one hay fork and blocks, one turnip pulper, one crusher, one truck wagon, with pole and shafts, one cart, one driving wagon, one wood sleigh, one box sleigh, one semi-speed sleigh, one cream separator "Magnet", one barrel churn, one set of driving harness, one set of team harness, one express pad and breeching, one parlor stove, one extension table and a lot of other articles too numerous to mention.

Terms of sale 7 months on approved joint notes, under ten dollars cash.

STANLEY A. PROWSE, PETER BRODIE, Auctioneer, 2376-19-41.

FOR SALE

FARM OF 160 ACRES AT COLVILLE STATION

Malcolm McLeod offers for sale 160 acres of land, part of his farm at Colville Station, 125 acres under cultivation with good dwelling house and new barn. Apply MACKINNON & McNEILL, Solicitors, Charlottetown, 2394-19-61.

NOTICE

Mr. Archie C. Ramsay 49 Union St. has been appointed the regular Rawleigh Retailer, consisting of that part lying West of and including both sides of Great George Street, 2449-21-31.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the Liberal Conservative Committee of Braddabane Poll on Thursday, June 21st at 8 p. m. to appoint delegates to attend convention.

NOTICE

Reserve Saturday, July 21st, for the big Matinee Races at Georgetown. Three classes to start, 2.30, 3-minute and a green race. Track is in excellent shape and a big day's sport is expected. Expert horsemen pronounce this track second to none in P. E. I.

POST'S BRAN FLAKES A LAXATIVE FOOD Now you'll like Bran! At All Grocers

Auction Sale Of Household Furniture And Furnishings

I am instructed by the trustees of the estate of the late

Morris Blake to sell the following goods moved to the Lyceum Theatre for convenience of sale, on Tuesday, June 26, 1923 at 1.30 p. m. Sharp

Comprising Parlour Furniture, Bedroom Suits, Hall Furniture, Dining Furniture, all in Mahogany, Walnut and Oak. Also two splendid rugs, quantity of good dishes, Hall rack, pictures and other useful household articles.

AUCTION SALE OF HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE AND FURNISHINGS

At 28 Upper Queen Street, Charlottetown, on Thursday 21st June at 2 p. m. Sharp

Including Mission Oak living room set, bedroom furniture, oilcloth, dishes, kitchen range, etc. All these goods are new.

LARGE CLEARANCE AUCTION SALE

I offer for sale my farm on Brackley Point Road, consisting of 50 acres of choice land, all clear and in a good state of cultivation, three and one half miles from Charlottetown, within 1/4 mile of two railway stations. If not sold before will be sold by public auction on Saturday, June 23rd, 1923, commencing at one o'clock sharp, together with stock and farming implements.

STOCK:—One general purpose mare, one driving horse, by Joe Dillon, 8 years old, one Arysthrie grade cow, due to freshen, one Arysthrie cow freshened, one Guernsey grade cow in milk, one brood sow due to farrow the 23rd of June, 30 hens.

First District of Queens

A Liberal Conservative Convention will be held in the Hall at Braddabane on Saturday, June 23rd at 1 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of nominating two candidates to contest the district at the forthcoming provincial election. Each poll is requested to meet and appoint five delegates.

Ladies cordially invited to attend. JEROME MacGUIBAN, WALTER G. MacKENZIE, Convenors, 2394-19-41.

Liberal Conservative Convention

A Liberal Conservative Convention will be held in St. Paul's Hall, Summerside, on Thursday, June 21st for the purpose of nominating two candidates to contest the Third District of Queens at the forthcoming General Election. Each poll is requested to meet and appoint five delegates.

Jeremiah S. Gallant, Robt. Cochrane, convenors.

CARD

To the electors of Ward One: Ladies and Gentlemen: At the request of Ward One I have decided to offer myself as a candidate for Councillor. If interested shall do my best in the interest of the City as a whole and of Ward One in particular. Soliciting your support on election day.

I remain, Respectfully yours, A. AVILWARD

CARD

To the electors of Ward One: Ladies and Gentlemen: At the urgent request of a number of electors of Ward One, I have decided to contest this ward in the election to be held on July 4th. I am a resident of this ward and I am a member of the Councillor Smith. If elected, I shall serve you in the interests of the whole city to the best of my ability. Respectfully soliciting your support, I am, Yours faithfully, G. J. McCORMAN, 2394-19-41.