place feels like a cellar entirely unlit by a pale green furnace. "The word me lad, is fungi" Teresa was bland. "And turn the thing down, for heaven's sake!"

Mike spun the dial, impudently turned the volume to a blast, and stuck through the kitchen door, following Virginia.

"Listen," he closed the door carefully, "let's shake up another sodorizing to keep 'em bubbling for a while, and then we'll beat it down the back stairs, and go somewhere else."

Virginia looked at him. Not tall, though he carried himself like a tall man, head high, black hair, hair, disciplined by backward jerks long arms, and eyes very bright and audacious, eyes that beamed with reservations. His lower lip was reserved, mobile, shaped to form a permanent, grimace that already his daily column was syndicated in more than fifty important papers.

"I'm not in love with him - I couldn't be. I have too much sense. Virginia had been telling herself fiercely of late.

But his nearness at the sink, throwing out ice cubes, made her uncertainly made odd flashes of stinging warmth burn her cheeks and her fingers. He saw this, she knew, his eyes ceased and appraised her, and then they went with the swift incalculable charm that made Mike a favorite with older women. Virginia found her fingers trembling a little as she slashed a green lime, but she controlled her voice sternly.

"Teresa would be furious if we went."

"She won't miss us for hours!" Mike measured ingredients quickly, gave the silver shaker a few rattles. "Get some clean glasses. I'll carry 'em in. And you get your hat." (To Be Continued)

MRS. ALEXANDER MACISAAC

A shadow of gloom was cast over Tracadie Cross and vicinity on Tuesday, November 13th, when it became known that the Angel of Death had visited their midst and claimed for its victim, one of the most respected and honored citizens in the person of Mrs. Alexander MacIsaac, at the age of 83.

The late Mrs. MacIsaac (nee Agnes Macinnis) was born at Tracadie Cross and married the late Alexander MacIsaac who predeceased her twenty-six years ago.

Being of a charitable, kind and generous nature the late Mrs. MacIsaac endeavored herself to all, both young and old, and her home was always a hospital place where Mrs. MacIsaac in her friendly manner made all welcome.

The deceased bore her illness with patience and courage and viewed the approach of death with fortitude and faith in God's mercy. She was moved to the Charlotteville Hospital where kind nursing and trained hands did all possible to alleviate her suffering.

When it became known that her time on earth was getting short she wished to be taken to her home and her last wishes were accordingly carried out. She was peacefully and quietly breathed her last.

During her illness, she was frequently visited by Rev. William Simpson also her pastor, Rev. Kenneth MacPherson, who administered to her the rites of the Catholic Church of which she was a devoted member.

There are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving Mother, five sons and two daughters, namely: Neil, James, John, Joseph and Alexander, all of Tracadie Cross, N. S.; John of Tracadie Cross; James and Joseph at home, Blooming Point; Theresa, Mrs. Ambrose Murphy of Somerville, Mass. She is also survived by one daughter, Miss Elizabeth Macinnis of Tracadie Cross. A daughter Mrs. Urban Curley lives in St. John's, N. S. Mrs. MacIsaac predeceased her in July, 1945.

The funeral which was followed by a large concourse of sympathizing friends was held from her late residence on Thursday, November 15th to St. Bonaventure's Church, Tracadie, where a Requiem High Mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. Alexander MacPherson, who also conducted the service at the grave.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. J. Alexander MacIsaac, John D. MacDonald, Urban Curley, Andrew Macinnis, John J. Macinnis, A. James MacDonald. May her soul rest in peace.

GREETINGS FOR 1946

From HYNDMAN & CO. LTD.

As we welcome the New Year we wish Health and Prosperity to all.

Starting in 1872 as a Marine Insurance Agency, the business has grown and expanded to include all Branches of Insurance.

As we approach our seventy-fifth Anniversary, we wish to take this opportunity to express our thanks and appreciation to all clients for the liberal patronage extended. Our aim has always been to merit the confidence of clients by serving them to the best of our ability.

With the termination of the most terrible and disastrous war in human history, we should all strive to improve world conditions, realizing we all have responsibilities to fulfill, as a result of the incalculable human sacrifices made.

Given an opportunity to develop its resources on a parity with the other Provinces of Canada, as provided for under the terms of Confederation, the citizens of Prince Edward Island have reason to look forward, to the future, with confidence.

The Management, Staff and Agency Organization join in extending to all, the Season's Greetings.
