CITY AND COUNTRY

Guardian Correspondents Everywhere.

YESTERDAY morning John Donalds appeared before His Honor charged with an infraction of the Prohibition act. He was fined $100.

THE Hillsboro bridge construction works are practically closed for thisseason Messrs Butler and Morrow, leave today for their homes to spend Christmas.

MR. James Lamphier of Tracadie Road had in the market on Friday a fine hog that tipped the scales at 505 lbs, being the heaviest raised in that part for some time. Mr. Tanton was the purchaser.

WHILE the cattle were being shipped on board the Dalton Hall yesterday morning a cow exercised a spirit of independence and jumped overboard. After swimming out some distance she changed her mind and decided to effect a landing and thus secure her freedom. Before she could accomplish her aim a boat overtook her and she was towed ashore.

AT the police court yesterday morning four drunks appeared and were disposed of as follows: Noah Waughan fined $4 or 15 days; Chas. Slate, $10 or 40 days; James McInnis, $5 or 20 days; Vincent Mahar, $5 or 20 days. His Honor in imposing the fines upon the last two said that he purposed putting heavier fines in future on those who persisted in getting drunk on Sunday.

MR. Wm. Moran, the shorthand instructor in Charlottetown Business College informs THE GUARDIAN that another of his pupils, Miss Jeanie Webster daughter of Mr. Chas. Webster of this city, has been awarded a certificate from the Phonographic Institute, Cincinnati, Ohio. Miss Webster who came out from Scotland about a year ago, has proved herself to be a very clever student.—This is the fourth certificate from this institution that has been secured by the students of the C. B. C.,—in fact the only ones ever secured on P. E. Island. A certificate from the leading shorthand Institute of the world today bearing the signatures of such men as Benn Pitman and Jerome B. Howard is certainly something to be prized by every student who secures one

EASTERN NOTES.—Compared with last year the weather is remarkably fine, and the fall open. As the politicians well remember, election week was the coldest and blusteriest of the season, the corresponding week of this year fine and balmy. At present the ground is frozen but William McLean was plowing all day on the 10th inst, and fishermen are still plying their vocation Though the school of fall codfish did not strike these shores as early as usual, a fine body is off the West River and South Lake at present, and the fishermen there are landing good catches every fine day. West from Basin Head but little is doing. The school of squid is still here, providing an abundance of bait, numbers of them still coming on the shore every fine night. Though some codfish have been caught here formerly, as late as this, the middle of December, never were so many caught so late in the season before.—Great Eastern Lodge, I. O. G. T., has resumed its meetings this fall, after being dormant for some time.—Mr. James Stewart and his son Charles of South Lake, still keep unwell, and John McLean of Ped Point, is not any better.—Rev. Mr. Gardiner still preaches aeceptably to large and interested congregations.—Quigley & Walker have their grist mill in operation, a convenience to the neighborhood.

The majority of my guests were people who used Malt Breakfast Food in their own homes, and refused to be comforted even for two or three days with oatmeal and other foods while travelling. I am pleased to say that your health food is a perfect one, and has given me greater digestive vigor and relish for breakfast than I ever had before. I shall always use it and recommend it to my friends." All Grocers sell Malt Breakfast Food.
