Circus Star Mother Loves Trailer Life

REGINA, Aug. 16 — (CP) — The average housewife wouldn't give two cents for a life of following a circus around the country, living in a trailer and raising a family there. But Mrs. Robert Henry loves it.

Mrs. Henry is the mother of a family of six children. She and her husband, who performed here recently at the annual Regina Exhibition, for her marriage and a family didn't mean much of a change. Before the birth of her two sons, she had a tight wire act of her own; now she helps her husband with their slack wire show under the big top.

WELL-ORGANIZED — "Back to school" is the theme of many young people on Prince Edward Island during the latter part of August but they have other ambitions as well because very soon they will be beginning their Junior Red Cross work again. Over 600 branches were organized last year and several inquiries have already been received regarding enrolment for this school term. Early requests are answered promptly and the September magazines will be mailed to all school secretaries before the end of August. The alert branches are planning a very full program. They make a portfolio or plan a toy making project. Other groups will raise money for the Crippled Children's Fund at home or for the Service Fund which provides food and clothing for overseas. Besides their work for others Junior Red Cross members learn good food habits and insist on being clean and having regular habits of sleep and exercise. Membership is open to all school pupils who agree to practice the Health Rules and help others who need help.

Dorothy Dix Says — Continued from page 2 man in return for his saving her life. She thinks she can find contentment, but no happiness. Is there any way out for us? UNDECIDED

ANSWER: I think the girl would make her sacrifice in vain if she married a man she didn't love in order to get the money to go West. One of the factors in the curing of any disease is peace of mind and certainly any woman would be in a most upset mental state if she were battling with a blighted love affair and trying to school her heart to forget one man and turn toward another because it was her duty.

Most doctors now do not put much stress on climate in T. B. cases. They say that any fairly good climate will do, provided the patient lives in the open air, keeps quiet and has nourishing diet, and that it is better for those afflicted to be at home with friends and family and be happy than it is for them to be in a better climate where they are homesick and lonely.

A woman who is heart whole may take a chance on marrying a man out of gratitude, for whom she has no affection, but the woman who is in love with some other man is bound to be desperately unhappy herself and make the man she marries miserable. It is always disastrous for all concerned.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

MacSweyn-Davey

On July 16th at 2 P. M. the St. James' United Church, Montreal, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Rev. Mr. T. E. MacLennan united in marriage Jean Agatha, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Davey of Gurnesey Cove, P. E. I., and Ewen John son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacSweyn of West Brom, Que.

The bride was dressed in pale blue street length dress fashioned from lace and satin with shoulder length veil held in place with blue flowers, white accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridesmaid Miss Ruth Coote of Montreal was dressed in pale blue eyelid embroidery with pink and white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The groom was supported by his brother Donald. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Clunie sister of the groom, where many lovely gifts were received. The happy young couple spent their honeymoon at Browne Lake and Vermont. Out of town guests included Mrs. Clifford Hodgson and daughter, Hudson Heights, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Robinson, Comog, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacSweyn and daughter Jean, West Brom.
