"But how could he drink in her beauty?" "Through his eye glasses, of course."

Pessimist-Say, I thought you lived near the depot. Optimist-There's more'n one depot in this world, isn't there? Pessimist-It don't look like it!

"Why do you call that boy Buttons?" "Because he's always off when you want him most."

"What's pound cake?" "Dog biscuit."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Madman's Wild Course. According to advices from Valladolid, Spain, a dangerous lunatic, who was about to be confined to an asylum, succeeded the other day in eluding the vigilance of his friends and rushed into the street. Here he fell upon a policeman, and wresting his sword from him, killed him with it. The lunatic then took possession of the man's revolver, and continued upon his wild career through the city, firing right and left as he ran. A number of police and gendarmes started in pursuit, emptying their rifles and revolvers at the maniac, who was eventually shot down, but not until he had seriously wounded three persons. The noise of the firing caused a panic, and the doors of houses and shops were hastily shut. The excitement did not subside for some hours.

Attention is called to the 'ad re Notice of The Stanley Bridge Dairy- ing which appears in this issue.

PITY YOUR MOTHER IF SHE IS FRAIL OR WEAK. The heroic side of life is most often found in the struggle between duty towards the family, and the mother's inability through ill-health to perform that duty.

Words sometimes seem poor things to express one's feelings," writes Mrs J. P. Merritt. "I have a family of five all pretty close together. After baby was born, my strength didn't come back. The child pulled me down a lot, and I couldn't wean him in the hot weather, my other children needed so much to be done for them. My system did not come right-my color was pallid, and morning and night and all the time I was livid. My druggist told me how well his customers spoke of Ferrozone, and I got six boxes right away. You wouldn't be here how well it built me up. It seems quite strange now to feel like my old self once more. I was really hopelessly in despair and too completely worn out to feel like living before I used Ferrozone, so you can imagine how highly I prize such a good medicine. My children now say 'mother isn't tired any more,' and for my children's sake I am so glad to be well enough to give them all the care and attention that every good mother feels she must bestow upon her family."

You are sure to be invigorated, certain to be built up and kept always at your best-you are bound to enjoy all the happiness of lasting good health if you use Ferrozone. Try it, one or two tablets along with your meals. Fifty cents a box, six for $2.50, all dealers, or The Cattarhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.
