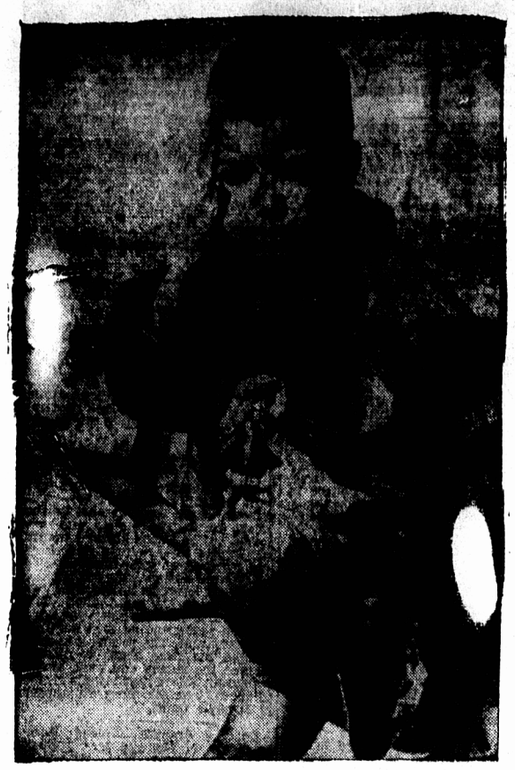
SHALL GREECE PERISH!

SIX MILLION PEOPLE IN GREECE ARE STARVING---AND THAT ENTIRE NATION IS IN DANGER OF EXTERMINATION

Greece Fought on Our Side Till She Was Forced to be Subdued---She Will Fight on Our Side Again

BUT NOT WITHOUT SUFFICIENT FOOD AND PROPER HELP



This looks like a normal Greek boy, but he is not. His whole body is swollen from lack of food and he holds onto his pail in the hope that he might find some scraps to help reduce the swelling. If Canadians support the Greek War Relief Fund campaign, now in progress, large supplies of food, medicines, etc., will continue to be sent to the Greeks from Canada.

We All Can Help Through the Greek Relief Fund

CANADIANS ARE ASKED TO GIVE MONEY TO SEND FOOD AND MEDICINE

CONDITIONS IN GREECE TODAY SHOCK THE WORLD

We Cheerfully Donate This Space to Help a Worthy People Like the Greeks

Union Commercial College Closing

FOR TERM 1942-43

The Union Commercial College closed for the term on Tuesday, June 8. Principal Moran presided and presented the Diplomas, Certificates and Prizes won during the term. He congratulated the student body on the excellent work done during the term. The value of punctuality was stressed. This school has always tried to impress upon the students the necessity of being punctual.

The results of the Weekly Spelling Tests were very encouraging, as shown by the marks made. Many graduates were unable to be present, as they had secured positions during the term.

Special reference was made of the splendid work done in the Shorthand Department under Mrs. McLellan's charge.

The Principal announced that College would reopen the first week in September.

The following is the list of graduates and prize winners:

BRUSH TREATMENT

In polishing ornamental silver, use a brush to remove polish that clings to crevices and holes. Don't ever try to remove the shadings, however, around ornamentation, since they add to silver's beauty. Choose a brush soft enough to use safely.

Many Qualities Are Essential At Air Post

By Gladys Lennon
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN R.C.A.F. BASE AT NEWFOUNDLAND, June 8 — (CP) — "Mother to more than 200 girls' is the way Flight Officer Elizabeth H. Bie of Moose Jaw describes her job. She is senior officer in charge of the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division) at this operational base.

Small and dark eyed, she is young to have the responsibility of so large a family. But there is something in her air of quiet confidence which says the girls and their problems are in good hands.

For they do bring her their troubles. The girl worried about illness at home comes asking to be posted back to Canada so she can be near her family. An airwoman whose boy friend has just received his commission asks desperately, "Do I have to give him up?" because of the rule that airwomen must not go out with officers.

Flight Officer Bie listens to them all with a sympathetic interest and gives whatever help is possible in the particular case. "Of course, some of them are very independant and wouldn't talk things over with anybody," she said, "But most of them depend on us to get them out of their troubles."

Scattered Duties

Perhaps the trouble is with the girls work- -It may not be just what she would like to do or feels she is capable of doing. Though most of the girls work directly under R.C.A.F. officers, ultimate responsibility for their work and welfare rests with their own W.D. officers.

Now and again the Senior Officer takes time from her busy days to visit the scattered points at which the girls work, to make sure that working conditions are satisfactory and that they are doing a good job.

Fitting the girls into jobs for which they are best suited, she said, "is right down my alley." Formerly on the staff of the Moose Jaw Technical High School, she holds a Master's degree in personnel and guidance.

But supervision of the girls is a relatively small part of Flight Officer Bie's work. As assistant Adjutant, in her small office between those of the Commanding Officer and the Adjutant, most of her day is spent dealing with matters far beyond the grounds of the Women's Division.

Plenty Troubles

The Flight Officer doesn't talk about this side of her work. "Oh I'm just a general Joe," she will say, with a smile that robs the words of any self pity. "Sometimes I think all the troubles of the station are on my shoulders."

One of the first of the Women's Division to reach this station about ten months ago, Flight Officer was notified on Good Friday of her promotion from Section Officer. For some time she had been hearing rumors that it was coming, but dismissed them with a shrug and the characteristic remark, "I'm not getting excited until I see it in cold print.

LEARNING CAME IN WIDE TOUCH OF COMMON ILK

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 8 (CP)—Just prior to Lord Hewart's elevation to the House of Lords he told a dinner party that not so long ago it was considered that the chief virtue of them are very independant and wouldn't talk things over with anybody," she said, "But most of them depend on us to get them out of their troubles."

That remark was typical of the classic humor of Gordon Hewart, former Lord Chief Justice who died recently at his home in Totteridge, Hertford at the age of 73. Few public men of his day were more versatile. With classic ease he was jurist, philosopher, essayist, classical scholar and after-dinner orator.

On one occasion Lord Hewart said the life of a judge was not easy. He said that a judge had to "exhibit profound and permanent impartiality, in complete contrast with the invincible partisanship his clients expected of him when at the bar. A miracle of experience and knowledge, he must also be capable of asking at decent intervals 'Who is Gracie Fields?' or 'What is a Test Match?"

Lord Chief Justice

A glamorous personality, he was at home speaking either Latin or Lancashire. He held the post of Lord Chief Justice for 18 1-2 years, resigning in 1940. A large part of Lord Hewarts learning came from wide contact with common life. Son of a draper and born at Bury Lancashire, he was dependent from boyhood on his own exertions. He owed his university career at Oxford to a grammar school scholarship. While studying for the law he worked as a journalist in the House of Commons Press Gallery.

He displayed fearlessness when taking part in Lords' debates and declined to undertake to "an austere and pensive silence." When the Lords were discussing the Supreme Court of Judicature Amendment Bill, Lord Hewart threatened to adjourn his court every day during the committee stage and attend Lords to fight it line by line if "odious features were not removed."

Liberal M. P.

Called to the Bar at the age of 32, he rapidly made a name for himself and in 1913 became Liberal member of parliament for Leicester. In 1916 he became solicitor-general and attorney-general three years latr. In 1921 he was admitted to the cabinet and helped prepare and was one of the signatories to the Irish Treaty.

He was twice married. His first wife died in 1933. He wed again in 1934 and his second wife survives. The heir is Lord Hewart's son by his first marriage, the Hon. Hugh Vaughan Hewart, 46.

Paying tribute to Lord Hewart in the High Court, the present Lord Chief Justice, Lord Caldecote, said he "won a place in the history not merely of English law, but of England."

CANADIAN HOMES STILL ALLOWED CHLOIRNE SUPPLY

Canadian housewives can still find plenty of household bleach in the stores. Chlorine is an essential war material, but, as far as the housewife can see, as yet, slightly off-white cleansing tissues and other papers are the only sign that chlorine has gone to war.

Canada has a good supply of chlorine —a by-product of manufacturing. At present there is enough being made for domestic and war uses. Smoke screens, explosives and the anti-freeze for tanks, planes, jeeps all require chlorine.

Pulp and paper mills, possibly the largest industrial users of chlorine in the country, had their supplies cut for fear of a shortage but the amounts used in domestic products such as household bleaches were too small to be important.

WAR LOOKS DIFFERENT

LONDON, June 8 — (CP) — The war looks different today than it did at the outset, but it is "too late, far too late to turn back" now, an Italian radio commentator said today in a broadcast from Rome recorded by The Associated Press.

The commentator was Camillo Pellizzi, National Councillor, who noted that "there is at present a general state of confusion which . . . can not last long."

To Supervise Munitions Production

Crawford Gordon, Jr., of Toronto (left), and Drummond Giles, of Montreal, who have been appointed Special Assistants to the Co-ordinator of Production, Department of Munitions and Supply. Mr. Gordon will supervise the work of the Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver representatives of the co-ordinator, while Mr. Giles will have under his jurisdiction the Montrtal, St. John, and Halifax representatives.

SUITS THIS YEAR EVEN FOR CHILDREN

Even for children, this season runs to suits A carefully-made woolen suit is an adjunct to the family wardrobe, because when one of the children outgrows it, you can pass it on to the younger members of the family. In pastel shades these are very summery, but they are equally necessary in navy, grays, tans, and novelty worsteds. In Eton jackets or boxy coats, there is little difference between those for the girls or the boys. A woolen coat, to is necessary in every child's wardrobe.

LONDON—(CP) — Motoring to safety at 100 miles an hour along 3,000 miles of high-speed roads is envisaged in a report on the post-war development of highways by the British Institution of Highway Engineers.

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?
