Will Speed Up Canadian Army Demobilization - (By The Canadian Press) OTTAWA, Aug. 16 - Defence Headquarters today put into effect a new demobilization program aimed at speeding up the discharge of the Canadian Army by extending the opportunity of immediate discharge to personnel not eligible under previous regulations.

With certain exceptions, discharges now are immediately available to the following: Personnel with a demobilization priority score of 100 at March 31st last; wounded service, war, regardless of point score; personnel who served in the last war; those over 42 and those who had not attained their 19th birthday as of V-J Day, and to new recruits who have been so recently enlisted that they are still in District Depots awaiting forwarding to a training establishment.

While the new regulations apply equally to servicemen and members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, married C.W.A.C.'s are additionally eligible for immediate discharge upon request, provided they are married to a discharged member of any of the armed services or can satisfy their national intent to set up a home.

The statement in which the new regulations were announced last night stressed that no one would be forced to accept discharge if he elected to stay in the army and that the conditions of service could be efficiently employed in an emergency.
