Motoring With Mary

By MARY JANE MOORE

Every revolution of the engine grinds out wisdom for the woman who drives a car, one of them has discovered.

THE CAR—A DIALOGUE

"I notice, I said to Bob who had been using the car for a few days, 'that you are a slovenly motorist.' 'No doubt of it,' he pleaded guilty, 'but what specific thing calls it to your attention so sharply?'"

"The spare tire, for one thing. It is flat." "I know it. It ought to be flat. It was punctured yesterday morning. If it was not flat, it would be a miracle."

"Not a miracle," I retorted. "Merely a sign that you had had it fixed immediately. But, of course, if you had had that would be a miracle. What if you had another puncture on the way to the office this morning? Then you'd be sorry, young man, that you are such a slovenly, careless car owner. Wouldn't you?"

"I can tell you better when and if I have the puncture," Bob smiled helpfully as he drove away. That night when he came home, a spare had been fixed.

"Well," he remarked, "I'm no longer a slovenly motorist. Furthermore, I did not have a puncture. I don't know what that makes you but if I were in your place. It would make me embarrassed, at least."

"But you still are a slovenly motorist," I remarked calmly. "One thing that proves it is that the jack, lug wrench, and pliers which you used to change the tire yesterday are lying on the floor of the car. You know as well as anyone that that is a mark of slovenliness."

"This begins to look like a challenge to my fine sense of orderliness," Bob cut in. "Now just give me a few minutes, and I'll answer the challenge with an exhibition of doing the right thing that will leave you gasping for breath. You'll regret all these harsh, unkind words, young lady when I make you eat them. Slovenly motorist, am I?"

With this remark, he got out of the car, opened the tool kit, picked up the jack lug wrench, and pliers. Putting them in their proper places, he closed the kit neatly, and put it in its place behind the rear seat. He then picked up a brush we kept in the car and swept the spot where the tools had been lying.

"Are you all ready to do some high word eating?" he turned to me with a triumphant look.

"Not yet," I replied. "Why don't you drive the car into the garage instead of leaving it here. We won't be using it tonight and if you do not put it away now, you will have to come out later—or forget it until tomorrow morning is more likely."

whatever the road or weather

One of the outstanding advantages of the Dodge Six is the sense of security it brings to driver and passengers. No matter what the road or traffic condition, this sturdy car insures maximum safety and protection with a body of typical Dodge strength and rigidity. This body is built inflexibly onto the chassis in such a way that the center of gravity is exceptionally low. And also you always have the complete security of Dodge Six 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—positively equalized—internal-expanding—absolutely weatherproof.
