Love's Philosophy .. Roger Guillemer's first, Mr. Cornelius Corrigan; Hop Li, the Ricksaw Man .. Kathleen Manning
My Parting Gift .. Eleanor Warren

In addition to the above, every number of which received hearty applause, the following encore pieces were sung by Mr. Jagel:
Liebliche Wangen Brahms
Aria from "Martha" Flotow
The House on the Hill Ernest Charles
Aria: "The Pearl Fishers" Bisset
The House that Jack Built Sydney Holmer
There is a Lady Winnifred Bury Aria from "Pagliacci" Leoncavallo

In the first group, which was devoted to songs by the 18th and 19th century composers, the "Invocazione di Orfeo" and "Till Sail Upon the Dog Star" were particularly fine, and of the next group, which consisted of German Lieder, this writer most enjoyed the Brahms "Minnelied," though two Schubert songs were also very lovely.

It was in the arias which he sang, however, particularly in those from "La Boheme," "Martha" and "Pagliacci" that the full power of Mr. Jagel's voice was heard, and his rare qualities as a singer, singer of grand opera brought to the audience, with most expressive and thrilling effect. One could almost, at such times imagine oneself in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

The next group consisted mainly of 19th century German composers. Of these "I Pastori," which is a musical setting by Pizzetti of a fine poem by Gabriele D'Annunzio, was very lovely and poignant. Mr. Jagel, of course, gave it a very sympathetic rendering.

The concluding group consisted nearly entirely of settings by modern American composers. In the case of "May Day Carol" and "Love's Philosophy" these settings were based on old English folk music, and were very beautiful. It remains to be seen what the accompaniments were most excellently played by Mr. Edwin McArthur.

During the intermission Mr. Justice Arsenault, President of the Community Concert Association, made reference to the success of the season's concerts but explained the need of heartier support in the ensuing year.

GERMANY

big the new airforce is, but asserted "it is not as big as foreign countries picture to themselves."

"The decisive thing is not the number of planes," he said, "but their quality—not the number of files but their qualities, character and ability."

"If you ask how strong the Reich is in the air," he continued, "I reply it will always be as strong as any outside combination, for or against peace, will be."

"It depends upon others to determine how big Germany's airforce is. If others scrap theirs we'll scrap ours, but they must be honest about it and be prepared to deal on the basis of strictest equality."

He said the air program did not contemplate construction of zeppelins or aircraft carriers, the former because he regarded them as too expensive and too easily destroyed and the latter because Germany's purpose was purely defensive. Goering told newspapermen Germany demanded a parity with France but not with Russia.

The Air Minister denied existence of any plans to send troops into the demilitarized Rhineland.

Spotted Goods

Their value amounted only to some $35 or $40, he asserted. They comprised "musty" meat, flour that was "wet and caked," caked sugar and "rank" butter, besides some tinned goods, some of which appeared in good and some in bad shape.

No one about the spot asked for any, he said, and he declared the burning was watched only, besides the officials, by about five adults and 15 children.

County Councillor Samuel Robichaud of Gloucester asserted that last fall (when the stores were burned) none were government stores and excise at Shippegan declared they were "not fit for consumption" in his opinion.

Boston Fishing Schooner in Trouble Off N.S.

HALIFAX, May 2—The Boston fishing schooner Mary E. O'Hara, with about 30 men aboard, was reported in trouble tonight off Nova Scotia. In a message brought to land by a steamship that passed her, she reported her propeller was gone and asked for immediate assistance. Word of her plight was brought in by the freighter Astoria, and the fact that the Astoria had headed into Halifax instead of taking off the crew was taken as indicating their situation was not very serious at the moment. She was off Egg Island, about 10 miles east of Halifax. Seas in that vicinity were reported tonight to be moderating after heavy gales, and it was considered likely the 108-ton craft would be able to ride them out under emergency sail until help arrived. After halting her, the Astoria sailed as far as the mouth of Halifax harbor, where she told of her position to officers of the pilot boat. They wireless it to land.

nine throughout the season." And courteous Mr. Duffy had a word of praise for the modern generation. He believed they were better and enjoyed themselves more than did their grandparents.

With a twinkle in his eye he declared: "The ladies are much easier to place at table now. You know there were days when they had puffed sleeves that stretched their shoulders way out and with their bustles it was very difficult to seat them at dinner."

Typical of Mr. Duffy's sense of humor is the little anecdote contributed by Lieutenant Governor DeBlois.

"After taking my customary stroll through the park the other day I was met at the door by Duffy who seemed somewhat excited. There are two distinguished visitors!" he exclaimed. I was rather puzzled. What, so early, Duffy? asked as I stepped into the reception room. Duffy bowed very low. "Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper" he announced with more than ordinary dignity. And there, placed
