Floud Appointment Popular in India

By G. E. POWELL

Canadian Press Correspondent

CALCUTTA, April 27 (CP)—Appointment of Sir Francis Floud to the chairmanship of the Bengal Land Revenue Commission has been hailed with approval throughout India.

Even the Nationalist newspaper Amrita Bazar Patrika, which has often been critical of the provincial ministry, declares it will start his mission with no prejudices against him. The paper asks, however, if the same impartiality can be expected from other members of the commission.

Sir Francis has served as British High Commissioner to Canada since 1935.

It is difficult to over-estimate the importance of this inquiry to Bengal. The land revenue system there is based on the four-year-old Permanent Settlement, a legacy left India by Governor-General Cornwallis, who earlier in his career commanded the British troops in the American War of Independence, and who was a brother of Hon. Edward Cornwallis, the founder of Halifax, N.S.

It is much more than a machine, however, for supplying the government with funds. It has become an integral part of the social structure of Bengal. On it largely depend the fortunes of the Bengali middle class. Consequently, as most of the Zemindars (landlords) are Hindus and the majority of the tiller of the soil under them Moslems, the Permanent Settlement is mixed up in India's communal problem.

It also forms part of the general question of Agrarian relief with which all Indian provinces are faced. In the handling of the cultivators and their claims is believed to rest the fate of the present ministry which the Congress Party is seeking to oust.

Ever since provincial autonomy was inaugurated a year ago Bengal politics have been dominated by problems of adjusting class, social and economic interests.

Bengal, with 51,000,000 inhabitants, is India's most populous province and also its richest. It has a monopoly of jute, the world's cheapest packing material, grows vast quantities of rice and other foodstuffs, has extensive coal fields, tea plantations and sound industrial developments. Bihar, Orissa and parts of Madras presidency share the Permanent Settlement with it.

This was ordained in 1793, primarily to ensure a steady flow of revenue into the British administration's public treasury. The Zemindars, who had acted as revenue collectors for the Moguls, were declared full proprietors over the areas in which their collections extended so long as they paid revenue punctually to the government.

The assessment was fixed at ten per cent of the produce of the land owned by the cultivators, the remaining eleven per cent going to the collectors. The settlement was declared permanent and the assessment unalterable for all time.

Seek Women's View on Marriage

NEW YORK, April 27—(AP)—Every woman communicant of the Episcopal Church in the United States is to be asked during the next three years what she thinks about marriage, divorce and a sweeping effort to obtain the views of churchwomen on women's most vital problems was decided upon today by the committee on marriage and divorce of the executive board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church, in quarterly meeting.

The committee, composed exclusively of women representing every section of the United States, decided a "referendum" to the women of the Episcopal Church, Sunday morning, when the National Committee makes its report on its three-year study, it will represent not merely the committee's findings, but the actual thinking of the women of the church.

WINDHOEK, South West Africa, April 27—An attack on naturalized Germans in South West Africa was delivered in the legislative assembly here by J. D. Laue, a member for Swakopmund, in a speech on a motion against the government of the Union of South Africa to extend the powers of the assembly.

"I have no faith any longer in the political faith of the naturalized Germans in this country," he said.

"They claim dual nationality and we know that in 1923 cases of 1,000 they are German first and British last, and then only one per cent British in order to secure privileges and rights without any obligation. They are neither fish nor fowl, and they are not German and not British and not German and they cannot be."

"The interests of South Africa and Germany are not the same."

LONDON, April 26—Anthony Eden appealed tonight for a "spiritual and material rearmament" of Great Britain to meet the challenge of dictatorships and preserve democratic ideals.

He addressed a dinner of the Royal Society of St. George—his first speech since his retirement two months ago. The speech was broadcast internationally in Canada over a network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

ITALY CASTS EYE TO SOUTH AFRICA

ROME, April 27—The possibility of developing exports of coffee, cement and other goods from Italian East Africa to the Union of South Africa is being studied in Italian business and shipping circles.

The goods would pay for the purchase of South African meat for consumption in Ethiopia and for raw materials destined for Italian industries, notably wool.

Italy finds difficulty in paying for her imports from South Africa because she has no clearing agreement with the Union. Increased South African exports to Genoa have been noticed recently.

The possibility is being considered of offering to South Africa the establishment of a base for its fruit trade with central European countries in the free port of Genoa.

Refrigerated carriages on express trains could leave for Switzerland and central Europe in conjunction with arrival of express ships from the Union.

It is learned that in future Lloyd Triestino ships bound for the Belgian Congo and South Africa will also call at Seville.
