INDIA TORN BY RELIGIOUS ANIMOSITIES

Between 250 and 300 Persons Killed as Result of Conflicts Between Moslems and Hindus.

(Canadian Press)
SIMLA, India, Aug. 29.—Between 250 and 300 persons have been killed and more than 2,500 injured in less than eighteen months past as the result of religious conflicts between Hindus and Moslems in various parts of India. Lord Irwin, the Viceroy, stated in addressing the legislative assembly here today.

Calcutta was one of the storm centres last year and Lord Irwin said that from April to July the city seemed to be under the mastery of an evil spirit to such an extent that the law had to be reasserted by drastic methods. The same sinister influences were at work elsewhere, he declared.

The Viceroy said that there was much in Indian social life that cried out for remedy and reform but the task would be sorely handicapped so long as the country was distracted and torn by the present animosities. India desires home government, continued the Viceroy. It is Great Britain's task to guide her in this end, and both Britain and India are confronted with the vital necessity of laying the spectre that besets the path of their common hopes.

Marriage In Tower of London

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Aug. 29.—Macaulay described the Chapel Royal of St. Peter ad Vincula, within the Tower of London, as "the saddest spot on earth." He was thinking of all those of high birth, men and women, whose heads were hurriedly buried within St. Peter's after the executioner had swung his axe on Tower Green.

Despite its age-long mournful memories St. Peter's was chosen as the place of her wedding by a bride of 21 the other day. A very bright and charming wedding it was, too. The bride was Miss Louise Margaret Austen, daughter of one of the famous "Beefeaters" of the Tower, who for the last ten years has been keeper of the Bloody Tower, and in that time has told its story to tens of thousands of visitors from all over the world. The bridegroom was John Harry Beames, a member of the Order of the Garter. It was in the Olympic that Mr. Beames met his bride 18 months ago.

It is seldom that a bride's father makes as brave array as the bride, but it was so at this wedding. The bride wore a shell-pink dress with orange blossom. Her father was arrayed in the full glory of his office of Yeoman Warden—doublet of red and gold, spotted white frill with Tudor Roses; a uniform which wardens of the Tower have worn on state occasions for over 500 years. Anyone who has seen Gilbert and Sullivan's Opera "The Yeoman of the Guard" will realize what a brave show Yeoman Warden Austen made. There was a reception at the Casemates, the quarters of the bride's parents within the Tower, and the bride cut the wedding cake with a sword which has been in the Tower for many centuries.

Jazz Beats To Catch Burglars

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Aug. 29.—"Jazz Beats," "Beating the Burglar," is the latest move in the game of wits played between the Metropolitan Police and the intelligent cracksmen who uses his knowledge of the police beats to his own advantage when committing a burglary.

So stereotyped have certain beats in some divisions become, and so regular have the "points" made between constables and their superior officers been kept that cracksmen, by watching a policeman pass a given point have been assured of a period free from interruption.

But this is being changed. With music playing on gramophones, fine tracings through congested streets and semi-rural lanes and innumerable journeys of survey, beats have been arranged, and instead of being stereotyped walks are being cut and planned in jazz patterns, which in many cases recross their own itineraries.

Thus, no matter how observant a cracksmen may be, he will not be able to tell when the policeman will enter the street from the other end.

For many years he was civil engineer with the International Railway in the east where he also was actively engaged in many other enterprises.

BRITISH PREMIER HIGHLY EULOGIZED THE DOMINION

Hon. Stanley Baldwin Says Canada Is A Land Of "Good Wages And Unlimited Possibilities."

DOUGLAS CASTLE, LANARKSHIRE, Aug. 29.—Premier Stanley Baldwin, addressing a gathering of 20,000 people at a Conservative fetich this afternoon eulogized Canada as a land of "good wages and unlimited possibilities." Referring to the prosperity of the Dominion, he said: "It has been built up primarily by British brains, capital and skill. The secret of its success is its British character."

At the outset of his speech the Premier referred to evil propaganda about the people of Great Britain being decadent and said: "I was able to tell Canada that our spirit of undimmed courage is unquenchable; that our working people are striking grandly to the almost impossible task of rebuilding, and are slowly but surely winning through."

Premier Baldwin said he had been struck with the results obtained in Canada by a comparatively small population and the faith of the Canadians in the future of their country. "There is one thing Canada wants to take from us," he said. "She wants our people."

"There is no spot to which I would rather come from Canada than the heart of Scotland," Premier Baldwin declared.

"There has been a great deal of evil propaganda about the world especially in new countries, telling that the people of Britain are decadent. I was able to tell Canada that this country, so far from being that, is the same as it was ten years ago; and that our spirit is undimmed and our courage unquenched. Mistakes have been made but I am struck by the courage and patience with which our working people have struck grandly to the almost impossible task of rebuilding and are slowly and surely winning through."

"That message was received in the new world with the greatest enthusiasm," the Premier went on.

Land of Possibilities

"The opportunities in Canada and the scope for development were of the deepest interest to me. I found in Canada high aims and real high achievement. While Canada is developing her own nationhood, she looks to develop it within that wider community of nations forming the British Empire."

"Canada is a land of good wages and unlimited possibilities," the British Premier told his huge audience. "It has been built up primarily by British brains, capital and skill. The secret of its success is its British character. There is there the will to work to confront difficulties and hardships, and surmount them in a spirit of self-reliance. None but the people themselves can build a fabric of society and industrial life, for if the people of a nation are pauperized in spirit they will build nothing but a poor house for a grumbling population."

"I shrink from reflecting on what would have been the fate of Canada if the early settlers had relied on the socialist doctrine of nationalization instead of Scottish qualities which have brought such great prosperity."

King George Is A Crack Shot

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Aug. 29.—King George, who every year in the grouse-shooting season is a guest of the Duke of Devonshire, former Governor General of Canada, at Bolton Abbey, Yorkshire, is one of the best shots in Great Britain and the greatly enjoys the grouse season, which opens always on August 12th and closes December 10th. His Majesty, as good time for the opening. His departure from London on August 11th was the beginning of his only real holiday this year so far.

The King will go to Balmoral, Scotland, from Bolton Abbey and will pay a series of private visits there. Saskatoon Cafes Open All Night

SASKATOON, August 29.—City fathers would make Saskatoon a good city, night life in the city council has failed to put into effect the proposal to regulate the hours of cafes.

"I feel that we should not take any steps in this connection at the present time," declared Alderman John Macklem, whose motion providing that no action be taken was carried.

"We should find out first what public opinion is on the matter," he further stated.

Police Chief G. M. Donald strongly favored the present system of keeping the cafes open at all hours.

"I am of the opinion that if council passes a bylaw closing the restaurants during the early hours that it would be a regrettable step," declared the police chief. "It would be very harmful advertising for the city and would not in any way assist in keeping pure the morals of the young people, such I believe being one of the chief reasons for the contemplated action."

Naval Men Excluded From Politics

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, Aug. 29.—Naval men will be virtually excluded from active politics by a new order issued by the Admiralty. The order forbids any naval officer or men to make an address to electors or in any manner allow himself to become a candidate for parliament. The prohibition applies also to the parliament of Northern Ireland, the Free State Dail and the Malta parliament and forbids speaking or appearing on the platform at political meetings or serving on election committees. It is provided that naval officers must seek permission from authorities if they wish to enter political fields.

Rostow Majesty Stonehenge Trioliths

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Aug. 29.—Every British school-child has heard of Stonehenge—that weird circle of trioliths on Salisbury Plain, built ages before even the first glimmering of the dawn of history. And appeal signed amongst others by Premier Baldwin, Viscount Grey and Ramsay MacDonald, has been issued for funds to preserve the "lonely majesty" of this gigantic prehistoric relic.

Nine years ago Sir Cecil Chubb, owner of the land upon which Stonehenge stands, presented the site to the nation, and it is now within the safe keeping of the office of Works. During the war, however, the magnificent line of the archaic temple was ruined by the erection in the neighborhood of military huts. It is a curious reflection that one government department schedules Stonehenge as an "ancient monument," and takes it under its protection, while another Government department, leaves a number of unsightly buildings derelict within its immediate vicinity.

One of these derelicts has been turned into a bus-stop, and the "solitude of Stonehenge could be restored," declares the appeal now published, and precautions taken to ensure that our posterity will see it against the sky in the lonely majesty before which our ancestors have stood in awe throughout all our recorded history.

"Options have just been secured for the purchase of an area of the Plain which includes the whole of what may be called the 'Stonehenge sky-line.' Should the purchases be effected, the Air Force Buildings will be removed, and the valuable archaeological remains of the site permanently protected from the plough. The land purchased will be placed under the guardianship of the National Trust.

"The total area under construction is 1,444 acres, the sum aimed at is about £35,000."

British Boys Good Settlers

(Canadian Press)
EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 29.—Fifty British boys sent out from the Labor Ministry's training schools in England arrived in Edmonton recently. Fifteen of the boys were dropped at Dayland and other points in central Alberta on the way to Edmonton and the majority of the others left Edmonton in a day or two for Westlock and the Peace River country.

"They are a splendid type of young settler and are keen on life in the new land," says the Edmonton Journal. "They have all been instructed for varying periods in the training schools at Brandon and Claydon, in Suffolk, England. These schools were instituted by the British labor ministry to interest boys in agricultural opportunities in Canada. The equipment is all Canadian and the boys are taught the methods of farming in vogue in the Dominion, including dairy work and general work of the farm, such as rough carpentering, blacksmithing and lumbering."

A shoe shine stand was the first thing that aroused the wonder of the boys. "Look, Sid!" said Wallace, "look at that man sitting in a chair and getting his shoes polished." The boys gazed in wonder at this sight, as they did at the barber college where a row of men were being shaved.

The boys range in age from 16 to 21 years old and are being placed with various farmers in the northern sections of the province.

TWO BIG SURPRISES IN IRISH FREE STATE POLITICS

(Special to the Guardian)
DUBLIN, Aug. 29.—There were two big surprises in Irish Free State politics today. The first came with the announcement that James J. Walsh, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs had left the country for Italy after declaring his unwillingness to participate in the general election on September 15th or to retain his seat in the executive council. He disappeared, apparently without consulting his colleagues or constituents in Cork.

Mr. Walsh has been unsympathetic toward the government's policy on many matters, particularly on the tariff. He is an advocate of high protective duties. He took part in the 1916 rebellion, and became postal chief when the Free State was set up. He is regarded as a good leader and has considerable influence in the Cork district.

The second surprise was the decision of the Sinn Fein party not to take part in the election owing to lack of funds. In the last election Sinn Fein candidates polled about 41,000 votes and five of them were elected. A Sinn Fein statement issued attacks Eamon De Valera, leader of the Fianna Fail party for entering the Dail Eireann on the tariff. He is an advocate of high protective duties. He took part in the 1916 rebellion, and became postal chief when the Free State was set up. He is regarded as a good leader and has considerable influence in the Cork district.
