

Make Donations To Blood Bank

Vitaly-needed blood and plasma saves the lives of countless accident victims, mothers in childbirth, infants and hospital patients. To supply blood... free to all, available to all... is a Canadian Red Cross service... a service that must continue. Without the countless public-minded citizens who give their blood, the Canadian Red Cross could not continue this soon-to-be nation-wide service. But it takes more than blood! Blood donor clinics must be operated... blood processing and distribution costs must be met... new clinics are needed. This takes dollars... your dollars. Your contributions to the Red Cross make this service possible! In the above picture a group of Charlottetown citizens, from all walks of life, are making their first donation to the Red Cross... blood to help others. The donors are shown having their blood tested and registered by the nurses in charge of the clinic. —Photo by Garnham.

O'Leary and Vicinity

Many of the ladies of O'Leary and district are busy making mats and many serviceable and pretty ones can be seen at the various homes.

Mr. Allan Matthews of the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Truro, N. S., arrived in O'Leary on Monday, March 21st, to spend his holidays at his home, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Matthews. Mr. Matthews was formerly on the local staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia before being transferred to Truro.

Through the past winter splendid service has been rendered the residents of O'Leary and surrounding communities by the operators of the snowplow, Messrs. Ed Coughlin and Dermot McLean. They have always been most obliging and conscientious in discharging their duties.

O'Leary and district has had more winter weather in March than January and February combined. The weather during January was like the fall and except for the last few days of February, was all that one could ask. But March which come in "Like a Lion" has shown us in several big storms, typical examples of an old fashioned winter. It has been a winter of much more than ordinary sickness, with many cases of measles and influenza reported. Very few homes (if any) escaped having at least one attack of the flu this winter so springtime is welcomed.

Due to the roads being blocked by Saturday's severe snow storm.

Tignish

Mr. John M. Handrahan, Ascension, was a business visitor to Summerside last Tuesday.

Returning recently to their homes at Christophers Cross after spending the winter months in the lumber woods of New Brunswick, were Messrs. William O'Brien and Alonzo Hogan.

The sleet storm of March 12th left the telephone lines in a sad condition in and around Tignish, and now a week later the rural lines are just as the storm left them and reports say they will remain so for at least another week due to shortage of repair crews.

Mr. Walcott Krough, Norway, was a patient in Western Hospital, Alberton, for several days last week when he was treated for infection in the hand. We are happy to report he is coming along fine now and will very shortly be able to resume his farm duties.

The recent heavy snow fall has covered up any source of food our little feathered friends "the Huns" has had access to during the past months, and flocks of them are to be seen approaching the farm yards in search of their daily food ration. Farmers reported scattering grains on the snow banks for them and also placing sods at their feeding places. But it is hoped now that March has passed the middle of the month, the blankets of snow may soon be lowered and "The Huns" will not have to brave the dangers of getting too close to the farm houses and that dreaded enemy the gentle house-cat.

A most successful pantry sale was held on Saturday, March 12th, in the Tignish Co-Op. Drug Store. The day was quite stormy and for a time seemed as if the affair would be a failure, but as usual the good ladies of Tignish paid no attention to what was taking place in regard to the stormy weather and arrived in good time with donations of home cooking so tempting in look and quality that sales were quickly made and a tidy sum of money realized. A large dark fruit cake, attractively loed, was sold by lottery and won by Myrtle Keough. Each purchaser at the sale received a ticket which entitled him to a chance in the drawing for a dollar in cash and the lucky winner was Jean Skerry. Proceeds from this sale were for the Tignish Girl Guides, and the local association are most grateful to Mr. Wilfred Kiggins for the use of his drug store to hold the sale, and to all who donated and purchased food or helped out in any manner in making this pantry sale such a splendid success.
