DESIGNER OF R-100 SPEAKS TO CAN. CLUB

Asks If Govt. of Canada Interested In The Idea of Establishing Airship Line Between England And This Country.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Aug. 5—Are the commercial interests and the Government of Canada sufficiently interested in the idea of establishing an airship line between Great Britain and this country to support such a proposition? This was the question asked by Sir Dennistoun Bourney, designer of the R-100 in an address delivered to the Canadian Club here today. He had all the information and data that he had been able to collect on such a project, he said. "Might I therefore ask you one question. Could you form a committee of business men within the next few days and let me know if you are interested or not?" asked Sir Dennistoun. "If you should find in investigation that you are interested, you might perhaps indicate to me the kind of support you would be willing to give, so that I might be able to put a concrete proposition before the British Government." Some may think that such a suggestion was premature, but his own opinion was that it was of paramount importance.

In this picture is seen the R-100 after she had been securely anchored to the mooring mast and passengers and crew were disembarking through the doorway in the bottom of the ship, just under the nose and slightly above the gallery around the top of the tower. From the top of the mast the occupants were taken in the elevator to the ground where they were acclaimed by the waiting throng just after daybreak.

Says Canada to Regain Her Own Butter Markets In Period of Five Years

"Now that the Canadian tariff against New Zealand and other British Empire butter has been raised to four cents a pound, Canada's dairy industry should recover to the point where in five years it will be able to take care of all the Dominion's butter needs," said J. A. Caulder, president and managing director of Dairy Corp. of Canada, in an interview granted to The Financial Post. "I think that this is not too high to give Australia and New Zealand fair competitive conditions, and it will enable an industry which is one of the most important in Canada to retrieve losses which it should never have had."

"I do not think most Canadians are fully aware of the great importance to Canada as a whole of having fully rounded out agricultural production," he continued. "The over-production of cash crops in the world will cause the Canadian farmer to return as rapidly as possible to a mixed farming basis. Since the markets of the world do not offer a profitable grain price to the farmer, the latter will desire to feed his crops to dairy and beef cattle, to sheep, to hogs and to horses. One Ontario farmer, who feeds his entire crops on the farm, said recently: 'All my crops walk off my farm on the hoof.' That is an ideal for other farmers to emulate. What J. S. McLean, of Canada Packers said at the annual

Royal Birth Expected Soon

(Special to The Guardian)

GLAMIS, Scot., Aug. 5—The Duchess of York, daughter-in-law of the King spent her thirtieth birthday quietly at historic Glamis Castle in the expectation that within twenty-four hours or a little longer, she would present a new member to the British Royal Family.

The Duchess is greatly beloved in the district where she spent her childhood. Though the folk around the Castle realize that her popularity is national, they feel they have special rights where she is concerned.

Sir Henry Simson, one of the most famous obstetricians in England was the only outsider present at the Castle celebration. He took up residence at the Glamis Castle late on Saturday, preparing for the birth of the royal child.

Right Hon. J. R. Clynes, British Home Secretary is hastening northward to join the doctor and will arrive tomorrow. His role at the Castle is a survival of historic customs. The Home Secretary is required to certify the genuineness of the birth of royal children in the direct line of succession to the British Throne.

The Canada Iron And Foundry Co. Razed To Ground

(Canadian Press)

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 5—Fire destroyed the plant of the Canada Iron and Foundry Company at noon today after firemen battled in vain to check the flames from spreading through the old stone building. The loss is estimated at $100,000. A spark from a passing locomotive was believed to have ignited the dry roof, and the flames blazed away for some minutes before they were noticed. The first alarm, which the workmen inside the structure received was the noise of an explosion, when the heat reached a cylinder of compressed air. This sent every man to the open in a hurry.

COOL BANDIT

(Special to The Guardian)

STE. ANNE DE BELLEVUE, Aug. 5—The Ste. Anne De Bellevue branch of the Bank of Montreal was held up and robbed of $3,000 by a lone bandit late today, according to an announcement made by provincial police today. The robbery was one of the cleverest engineered in this province.

Late yesterday the manager of the branch received a long distance call from Montreal and was advised that a Government bank inspector would call on him to inspect the books of the branch. Later, the manager was called from a St. Anne De Bellevue hotel; the party calling identified himself as the Government inspector and requested the arrangements be made for his entrance to the bank. As it was after banking hours the arrangement was made. A few minutes after gaining entrance to the bank, the cool headed individual produced a revolver and herded the manager and his six assistants into one of the vaults. He then proceeded to loot the various cashiers' tills.

After the crime was committed the police trail showed the man returned to the hotel again, changed his clothes and checked out. His movements from then on are still unknown.

COMMUNIST HORDES ARE ADVANCING

Eager For More Spoils After Sacking Changsha in an Orgy of Robbery and Murder, Frenzied Reds Threaten Other Chinese Cities

SHANGHAI, August 5.—Communist hordes eager for more spoils after sacking Changsha in an orgy of robbery and murder advanced yesterday toward the tri-cities, Hankow, Wuchang and Manhang, where 11 foreign warships including two American, were concentrated to protect foreigners.

The foreign quarters of Hankow were barricaded and guarded to prevent Reds re-enacting the scenes at Changsha when foreign property valued at millions of dollars was burned in anti-foreign demonstrations.

Thousands of panicky Chinese poured into Hankow's foreign concessions seeking protection, although additional Nationalist Government troops patrolled the city.

While Chinese soldiers searched every one in the streets, which were under martial law, a volunteer emergency defense corps was organized by the French community.

A skirmish party of Reds approached within 25 miles of Hankow and took munitions from cadets sent to fight them, but were scattered by veteran soldiery fire from an armoured train.

Continuing their fiendish acts in Changsha, the Communists killed 100 wealthy Chinese seized for ransom and held 400 others.
