Quite a commotion was caused on Kent St., near Pownall, in the early part of last evening when a bull dog and an Irish terrier decided that the roadway wasn't wide enough for both at the same time. Numbers of spectators gathered but at first no efforts, not even buckets of cold water, could separate the dogs who had got a "clinch" till the animals, fatigued by the long fight their hold weakened and they were pulled apart.

The accompanying resolution was submitted to Excelsior Division, Wilmet Valley, Aug. 1st and unanimously adopted.—Resolved, that we, the members of Excelsior Division, Wilmet Valley, are of the opinion that the Prohibition Law is not being enforced as it should be, that evidence of this is plainly to be seen at many public gatherings and elsewhere, that the fair name of our island is being thereby disgraced.—that enforcement of law is the duty of officers paid for that purpose, rather than that of private individuals.—We most heartily commend the Editor of the Guardian for his faithfulness in making public the facts above referred to, and is assured the hearty support of this Division in his efforts to advance the cause of Temperance.
