THE LESSON OF VAMPBELLTON.—From the calamity at Campbellton we should learn a lesson on insurance. Those who have property owe it to themselves and others dependent on them as well as to the place in which they live, to keep properly insured, and if Campbellton had had reasonable insurance there would not be the privation we see today. Merchants should be insured for the protection of those from whom they buy, as well as themselves. I remember one large firm of manufacturing clothiers used to have on their invoices in red "Are You Insured?" and it is a reasonable question for them to ask, even although the buyer may be well rated—President W. B. Snowball, of the Maritime Board of Trade at Chatham, N. B. For lowest rates consistent with absolute security insure with Hyndman & Co., Ltd.
