(Special to the Guardian.)

LONDON, June 4.—The trial of two alleged spies, Muller and Kahn was concluded this afternoon. The jury found both prisoners guilty. Prisoner Muller was sentenced to death by shooting. All three were accused of sending military information to Germany by means of invisible ink.

THE TEXT OF THE REPLY OF THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT.

The following is the text of the German note:

"The undersigned has the honor to submit to Ambassador Gerard the following answer to the communication of May 15, regarding the injury to American interests through German submarine warfare. The Imperial Government has subjected the communication of the American government to a thorough investigation. It entertains also a keen wish to co-operate in a frank and friendly way in clearing up a possible misunderstanding which may have arisen in the relations between the two governments through the events mentioned by the American government.

"Regarding, first, the cases of the American steamer Cushing and Guiltlight. The American embassy has already been informed that the German government has no intention of submitting neutral ships in the war zone, which are guilty of no hostile acts, to attacks by submarine or submarines, or aviators. On the contrary, the German forces have repeatedly been instructed most specifically to avoid attacks on such ships.

"If neutral ships in recent months have suffered through the German submarine warfare, owing to mistakes in identification, it is a question of quite isolated and exceptional cases, which can be attributed to the British government's abuse of flags, together with the suspicious or culpable behavior of the master of the ships.

"The German government, in all cases in which it has been shown by its investigation that a neutral ship is not itself at fault, was damaged by German submarines or aviators, has expressed regret over the unfortunate accident, and, if justified by conditions, has offered indemnification.

"The cases of the Cushing and the Guiltlight will be treated on the same principle. An investigation of both cases in progress, the result of which will presently be communicated to the embassy. The investigation can, if necessary, be supplemented by an international call on the international commission of inquiry, as provided by article three of The Hague agreement of October 18, 1907.

"Regarding the British steamer Falaba, the commander of the German submarine had the intention of allowing the passengers and crew a full opportunity for a safe escape. Only when the master did not obey the order to leave-to, but fled and summoned help by rocket signals, did the German commander order the crew and passengers by signals and megaphone to leave the ship within ten minutes. He actually allowed them twenty-three minutes' time, and fired the torpedo only when suspicious craft were hastening to the assistance of the Falaba.

"Regarding the loss of life by the sinking of the British passenger steamer Lusitania, the German government has already expressed to the neutral governments concerned, its regret that citizens of their states lost their lives.

"On this occasion the imperial government, however, cannot escape the responsibility of having furnished facts having a direct bearing on the sinking of the Lusitania, may have escaped the attention of the American government.

"In the interest of a clear and complete understanding, which is the aim of both governments, the imperial government considers it first necessary to invite the American government to accessible to both governments about the facts of the case is complete and in accord.

"The government of the United States proceeds on the assumption that the Lusitania could be regarded as an ordinary unarmed merchantman. The imperial government allows itself, in the connection to point out that the Lusitania was one of the largest and fastest British merchant ships built with the government funds as an auxiliary cruiser, and carried expressly as such in the 'navy list' issued by the British admiralty.

"It was further known to the imperial government, from trustworthy reports from its agents, and neutral passengers, that for a considerable time practically all the more valuable merchantmen have been equipped with cannon and ammunition and other weapons, and manned with persons who have been specially trained in serving guns. The Lusitania, too, according to the 'navy list' issued here, had cannon aboard which were mounted and concealed below decks.

"The imperial government, further, has the honor to direct the particular attention of the American government to the fact that the British admiralty, in a confidential instruction issued in February 1915, recommended its mercantile shipping not only to seek protection under neutral flags and distinguishing marks, but also, while this disguised, to attack German submarines by ramming. As a special invitation to merchantmen to destroy submarines, the British government also offered high prizes, and has already paid such rewards to all summer in the cool Concert Hall. It is doubtful if many of the visitors to the Museum have ever seen these wonderful combinations of the World in Wax and Moving Pictures under one roof and the Eden Musee with its world wide popularity is one of the first amusements places to be visited by the stranger to the City.

The usual Summer cleaning and

FIRST MEETING OF COALITION MINISTRY

LONDON, June 3.—Both houses of Parliament met today for the first time since the formation of the new coalition ministry. The new members of the Cabinet however, were unable to take their place on the Ministerial Benches of the Commons, owing to a law which made them ineligible to sit until they were re-elected by their various constituencies. This situation, however, was speedily remedied, for the Commons passed in all its sittings a bill removing this disability for the period of the war. The Lords passed the first reading of the same bill, and will take up its further stages tomorrow.

Lawrence Ginnell, Irish Nationalist, who follows the Leadership of none of the Parliament Parties but is the leader and only member of his own party, was not to be denied, however, and despite the censorship of the speaker, succeeded in saying that members of the House who formerly were "calling each other liars and political assassins" were now aspiring to give each other jobs, and were afraid to face the electors. Ginnell was attacking Premier Asquith's political character when the speaker ordered him to resume his seat.

After the passage of the Suspensory Bill, the Commons passed the first reading establishing the ministry of munitions over which David Lloyd George will preside. While it is expected that the new government will have the support of the whole House of Commons and the Lords, with the exception of a few irrecconcilables, such as Ginnell, there is to be an "unofficial" opposition in both Houses. The Leadership of that of the Right House has been assumed by the Right Hon. Henry Chaplin, Unionist. By Courtesy extended to Privy Counsellors, Chaplin took his seat on the front bench on the left of the Speaker where he had as companions new and old Privy Counsellors. All known supporters of the coalition. Behind them, however, was a little group of radicals, who will accept no part of a Liberal Government and who as a token of their disapproval of the Coalition, crossed the floor of the House to seats from which they faced the Ministers and will be in a better position to cross examine them.

Proceedings in the Lords today were confined to the first reading of the bill relieving new Ministers from appealing for reelection and a few remarks by Mare-Quis Crewe and Lord Lansdowne on the entry of Italy into war.

Sir Stanley O. Buckmaster, New Lord High Chancellor, occupied the wool sack for the first time.

PRESBYTERIANS IN ASSEMBLY

KINGSTON, Ont., June 3.—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church transacted business on the King's birthday, but they first honored His Majesty by singing God Save the King, and by offering up prayer, led by Rev. Dr. Sedgewick of Toronto, and for the welfare of the King and his Empire.

About 500 delegates were in attendance at this morning's session, the new moderator, Rev. Dr. MacGillivray, of Kingston, presiding.

The case of Evangelist Irvin, of the Superior presbytery, came in for some discussion. Mr. Irvin had applied to be accepted into the ministry, but statements were read to the Assembly questioning his orthodoxy. Some of the delegates wanted the Assembly to deal with these statements, but the majority thought the Superior Presbytery should pass upon them, and the matter was sent back to it.

Rev. Dr. Dyke Shaw was introduced to the Assembly as the representative of the United Free Church of Scotland and the Pan-Presbyterian Alliance, and was given a cordial reception. He provoked much applause by declaring that the names of Ypres and Langemarck should be described on Canada's banners.

Immediately following the devotional services by Dr. J. B. Rice, of Winnipeg, drew the attention of the delegates to the honor conferred by the King today on the President of Queens, Rev. Daniel Gordon.

Keen interest is to be taken in the question of church union. It is expected that the matter will be referred to the Presbyterians under the Barrier Act. President Falconer, of Toronto University, was an attentive listener at this morning's session.

"We have a magnificent stock of sponges here, all grades, all qualities, all sizes, selling at all prices. But you can count on each price being the lowest that can possibly be placed on each article. The 'Two Macs', 149 Great George Street. MEH.

Killed in Action

How sleep the brave who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallowed mould,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.
By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honour comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay;
And Freedom shall a while repair,
To dwell a weeping hermit there.

"Finally the imperial government must point out particularly that the Lusitania, on its last trip, as on earlier occasions, carried Canadian troops and war material, including no less than 50,400 cases of ammunition intended for the destruction of the brave German soldiers who are fulfilling their duty with self-sacrifice and devotion in the Fatherland's service.

"The German government believes that it was acting in justified self-defence in seeking with all the means of warfare at its disposition, to protect the lives of its soldiers by destroying ammunition intended for the enemy.

"The British shipping company must have been aware of the danger to which the passengers aboard the Lusitania were exposed under these conditions. The company is embarking them, notwithstanding this, attempted deliberately to use the lives of American citizens as protection for the ammunition aboard, and acted against the clear provisions of the American law, which expressly prohibits the forwarding of passengers on ships carrying ammunition and provides a penalty therefor. The company, therefore, is wantonly guilty of the death of so many passengers.

"There can be no doubt, according to the definite reports of the submarine's commander, which is further confirmed by all other information, and the quick sinking of the Lusitania is primarily attributable to the explosion of the ammunition shipment caused by a torpedo. The Lusitania's passengers would otherwise, in all human probability have been saved.

"The imperial government considers the above mentioned facts important enough to recommend them to the attentive examination of the American government.

"The imperial government, while WITHHOLDING ITS FINAL DECISION on the demands advanced in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania until receipt of an answer from the American government, feels impelled, in conclusion, to recall here and now, that it took cognizance, with satisfaction of the mediatory proposals submitted by the United States government to Berlin and London as a basis for a modus vivendi for conducting the maritime warfare between Germany and Great Britain. The imperial government, by its readiness to enter upon a discussion of these proposals, then demonstrated its good intentions in ample fashion. The realization of these proposals was defeated, as is well known, by the declaratory attitude of the British government.

"The undersigned takes occasion, etcetera.

"(Signed) JAGOW."
