CAPT. WILLIAMS DIES SUDDENLY AT CRESCENT Captain Watkin Williams, who settled at what is now known as Crescent 40 years ago, died suddenly on Friday evening...

From a pair of footprints on a stone ledge and a burning fuse beneath a corner of the house in time to prevent it exploding and possibly killing the inspector's wife and two children.

Pieces of glass from a broken window and particles of paint scraped from a wall, found on the clothing of two prisoners sent the pair to jail for a daring robbery. They had pleaded not guilty but when Inspector Vance completed his testimony at the trial they refused to take the stand in their own defence.

A footprint on a carton of tobacco, a small suitcase strapped to the wrist, in an abandoned well which had a loose plank covering the top, purple stains, similar to cyanide, about the mouth led to suspicions she had been murdered and thrown into the well.

Inspector Vance, through chemical analysis of the woman's stomach, disproved the poison theory and found the stains were caused by dye from the woman's clothing. When the inspector's finding was made public the farmer who made the gruesome find proved his memory and remembered he had placed the plank over the well to eliminate just such an accident.

On the top floor at police headquarters Inspector Vance, already famous throughout Canada and the United States for his solving of baffling crimes, work with two assistants. Here, the criminologist, looking more like a college professor preparing a class lecture than a detective, delves into crime clues in a laboratory only equalled by the famous scientific bureau of London and Paris.

All the instruments known to science for detecting crime are here. The microscope, one of the pioneer instruments, of scientific

IN MEMORIAM

MR. GEORGE WHITLOCK

In the later afternoon hours of Tuesday, February 6th, Mr. George Whitlock, a highly esteemed resident of Hunter River passed peacefully away at the age of 50 years.

Mr. Whitlock was twice married. His first wife, who was Miss Ruth Drumming passed away in 1925.

Besides a sorrowing widow, who was Miss Ruth Drumming, he leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father, two sons, Daniel and Elmer, of the first family, and two daughters, Marion and Pauline, in the second family.

Mr. Whitlock was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitlock, and was one of a family of five brothers and three sisters.

The deceased was a man who was quite widely and favorably known, and will be much missed by a large circle of relatives and friends.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held in the United Church, Hunter River, and was conducted by Rev. F. E. Boothroyd.

HEALTH

EXERCISE

As long as exercise is play, which means as long as it gives pleasure, and it is carried on in moderation, then the exercise promotes health and tends to improve the quality of life.

There are advantages in the out-of-doors play because it takes the player out into the fresh air and sunshine, and usually into more attractive surroundings.

There are many forms of exercise which may be taken; of these walking is the simplest, requiring no special preparation and not costing a penny.

For the average adult person, an hour's walk each day, or about three miles in length, provides a reasonable amount of physical exercise.

Younger people will enjoy the more strenuous skating and skiing during the winter, and tennis or rowing in the summer.

It is not that these games should be reserved for the young exclusively, but rather that they are better suited to the young person who can go at them vigorously.

As we grow older, such games should be taken on quietly and never in a competitive sense. The last gasp may win, but no game is worth it, notwithstanding the applause it may earn.

Competition may be very fine in most ways, but they have the unfortunate tendency to drive the competitor to overdo things.

The time to stop is before you feel exhausted. The man who enjoys nine holes of golf and finds a longer game more fatiguing is more than foolish to play beyond nine holes simply to oblige someone who wishes to play the eighteen hole or to enter club competitions.

Just as soon as exercise becomes work and the spirit of enjoyment is lost, then there is no doubt but that the time for a change has come; that particular exercise should then be discarded.

War Declared To Eradicate Grasshoppers

WINNIPEG, April 4—(Canadian Press)—Shook troops are deployed on a 2000-mile front today in as unique and dramatic a warfare as any in history.

Across an entire continent agricultural scientists are embattled besides thousands of grim-faced farmers in a fight to finish with countless myriads of grasshoppers.

The stakes in this international warfare are greater than those at issue in any other battle in history. The battle front stretches across western Canada's fertile wheat lands and down through the great plains of the United States, from North Dakota, Montana and Minnesota to Texas.

Armies for the manufacture of poison bait-ammunition have been set up across the prairies at strategic positions. Drivers of motor trucks are "standing-by" waiting for the "zero hour," ready to race the initial salvo to threatened sectors of the battle-front.

Officials believe the three-year reign of a winged horde is nearing an end. Repetitions of defeat in this year's determined stand against this aerial army of destruction would be felt in every cottage ladder in the land.

Such a visitation came to the Red River settlement in 1918 when, old records reveal, "a cloud of hoppers" darkened the air and fell like a heavy shower of snow upon the colony."

A crop which at that time looked vigorous and healthy and promised a rich yield, disappeared overnight. Not a single green herb in the settlement was left standing.

The following year there was a new infestation. On a countless swarms of new "hoppers" was produced. They lay in masses three and four inches deep and streams were polluted.

In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta committees now are busy planning the details of large quantities of poison bait to farmers in southern infested areas.

Last year sub-committees supervised the operation of more than 200 stations in each province. Chemists have produced cheaper bait formulae which has made the warfare economically feasible on a wider front.

The poison blanket will be thrown against infested soil. Larvae nurseries will be straffed until the balance of nature is restored to a point where natural enemies of the hoppers—birds, bees, flies and red miles—the predators and parasites—can lift the torch from the farmer and the scientist.

The present plague is the first extended infestation since 1874 and the third of general impact in the history of settlement in central North America.

Mourning As Dead Soldier Returns

CALGARY, April 4—(Canadian Press)—A picture of his own grave and a cross with his name printed on it are prized possessions of Col. D. G. L. Cunningham, of Calgary.

Severely wounded on Aug. 11, 1918, Col. Cunningham was left on the field of battle for dead by his fellow officers. He was found by the Germans and made a prisoner of war. His tunic and other articles were left on the field where a Canadian party later found them.

Released from a prison camp, the Calgary soldier later heard of his grave. He immediately set out for the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money-back.

Peace Crusade To Outlaw War

DUNCAN, B. C., April 4—(Canadian Press)—More than 100,000 Canadians have become members of the World Peace Crusade to end armament manufacture.

The crusade is a two-fold movement. They plan to decide whether or not there shall be war and to demand state control of armament manufacture.

O. C. Johnson, of Duncan, world-war veteran, is the international organizer for the crusade. Reports 300 new members are signing pledges of membership each day. They are spread throughout Canada in 180 cities, towns and districts.

The crusade hopes their work will induce every country to pass a law requiring a referendum before a declaration of war. They plan as safeguards for such referenda.

Each nation to be fought must be publicly proclaimed; reasons for war must be clearly stated; voting must be compulsory; a two-third majority be necessary as sanction for war; and recruiting drives, martial music, pamphlets, orations, crude drawings and other forms of war propaganda must be prohibited during the period of the referendum. Membership is free and open all.

The movement is not confined to Canada. Originating in this Vancouver Island town last January it has already spread to Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, United States, France, Germany, Belgium, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

The executive would be composed of 10 members from each nation to be known as the international executive. Under the constitution, political exploitation would be impossible because of a device providing that no member of the executive could accept nomination to public office.

The crusade is strongly supported by other organizations seeking world peace. Many members of the clergy, the business community, the women's organizations and veterans' organizations have approved the plan.
