WOUNDED ISLANDER WRITES

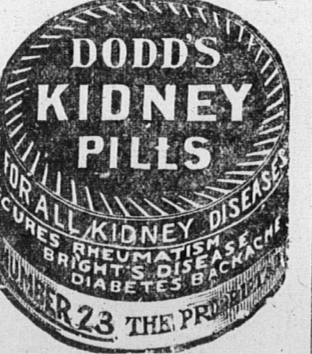

The following interesting letter has been received from Pte. Z. E. Perry of Wellington, recently wounded in action in France.

187137 Pte. Z. E. Perry, 8th Batt. V. A. D., Hospital, Darley Ward, Strook, Kikent, Eng. Oct. 1, 1916.

Dear Mother and Father: No doubt you received my card of the 27th telling you I was wounded. I was in the big attack we made on the 26th, and had the luck to come out with a shrapnel wound in my right thigh, which in only slight, but will lay me up for a while. We went in the trenches on Monday night expecting to go over the top at dawn the following morning. But as it happened we did not attack till 12.30 a. m., and I tell you it was great to see the way we captured the German trenches. We advanced a whole mile and captured hundreds of German prisoners. You ought to see them hold up their hands and call out "Kamrad, me no German no Polish." I had got to the German front line when I felt something like a hot iron hit me with a stick, not saying any attention to it. I kept on going till my Sergeant noticed me and told me to beat it back as quick as I could. But I had the pleasure of making some German prisoners carry me out. Of course I could have walked but it made me feel good to show them where their ideas of beating us ran to.

I just arrived from church. This is my second time today. Mr. Kennedy the man that looks after the R. C.'s came in this morning for all the Catholics to take us to church. Its only a little church, not two blocks away. And believe me they could not do enough for us. They asked me if there was anything I wanted. Of course I lost everything I had except what I had in my pocket. I told them I had no writing paper. I was not back five minutes, in he came with a lot of writing material and envelopes and a pair of prayer books. I believe it did me a lot of good to go to the front, and you can imagine I said my prayers a few times. When those big shells were falling all around me, I don't mind the bullets. I can't get any money now that I'm in the hospital to send you a card or a letter for me. For as in France we only get enough to keep us in tobacco, and in hospital we are not allowed any, but as soon as I get out I will send some for I know it will do me a lot of good. And mother your prayers were answered for I had some awful narrow escapes. And just before we went over I was up as a clock, and thinking of you all the time, something seemed to tell me I was going to be all right. Well Mother Dear as the nurse is turning out the lights I'll have to stop for this time. Hoping you are all in the best of health and feeling as nice as pie. I remain your loving son, ZENON.

Answers soon, Good bye.

YOUNG GIRL ASLEEP SINCE LAST SUNDAY

ST. JOHN, Oct. 20.—The strange case of Gladys Smith, a fifteen year old Dixby girl, is puzzling the physicians of Ipswich, Mass. Miss Smith has been found asleep since Sunday night and many efforts to awaken her have been futile. The girl left Nova Scotia last August to visit her cousin, Mrs. Charles W. Lathrop, of Ipswich. She was apparently in the best of health on Sunday, and went to bed that night as usual. On the following morning she was asleep at the time she usually awakes, but it was thought by members of the household that she might have been overtired on the day before and she was not disturbed. Later in the morning, as she did not awake, an attempt was made to rouse her, but in vain. She slept continually during the day and physicians were called. All attempts to rouse her have been futile, and she has not since been able to get up. Physicians are of the opinion that the strange condition was brought on by convulsions during the night.

GERMANS PAYING FOR DEMONSTRATIONS

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Chronicle sends the following to his paper under Tuesday's date: The utmost is being done by the military party at Athens to rouse the people against the Allies. Up to the moment of telegraphing, the Greek police have wholly abated their functions and authority and the streets of the capital are entirely given over to the so-called reservists and the rowdy elements of the population.

"The demonstrations show" clearly that the German propaganda is still powerfully organized. All day yesterday the German location and elsewhere money flowed out to the reservists and other barbare roughs to an extent never known even in the palmiest days of Baron Scheneck's regime. That class of rowdy yesterday received 10 francs each and assisted by a large number of soldiers and sailors, uniforms made up last night, demonstrated which was done openly of an anti-Entente nature, and probably for the first time in history Athens heard shouts of "Long live the Bulgars; long live the Turks;" in addition to "Long live Germany." The whole matter, indeed was a deliberate and desperate piece of mixed provocation and insult to the reservists, who were persuaded that they only need show temper and force to defeat the measures of the Allies, who they believed to be divided as to the measures to be taken.

For some weeks past the Nationalist press has been buoying up the hopes of its readers with promises of tremendous German reinforcements for the Balkans. The number of these reinforcements grew steadily day by day till it became forty-four divisions. Day by day, too, the date of arrival of the Germans at the front line in the Balkans was postponed until the final date was given as October 14.

When that date had gone by with out the slightest sign of these mythical divisions, another hour to be started it was announced that a "final" German warship intended to sail for France. This vessel in the course of a few days grew into a tremendous fleet coming to intercept on behalf of Greece and the neutral States, a German warship intended to sail for France. This vessel in the course of a few days grew into a tremendous fleet coming to intercept on behalf of Greece and the neutral States, a German warship intended to sail for France.

CALLED UPON AMERICA

This morning a deputation from these demonstrators headed by a number of nobodies presented a few-winded declaration to the United States minister about Greece being the victim of one of the rival belligerent groups simply because she refused to join the fight. The demonstrators therefore called upon America to use her powerful influence to avert the subjection of those who merely desired to remain free. The minister replied that he would bring the statement to the notice of his Government, adding per-sonally that he had never heard the principle of the United States not to intervene in European affairs.

"Meanwhile outside, newsboys were actually selling papers reporting that arrival of this imaginary armada and the Mes. He-men, the organ of the military clique, this morning saluted these words with a shout of "With the greatest joy, the Greek people learn the news of the approaching arrival of the great American fleet. It is indeed a relief in the midst of the torments we endure. The citizens of America rejoice in the sorrow of the Greek people and they will proceed without delay to their reprobation in a loud voice which will resound across the seas." The American war vessels in the Mediterranean are a small cruiser and a collier. On all hands to-day eye hears the people saying that Greece could do nothing against the Allies, but that now with the United States fleet, she can do what she likes.

Knowing this dodge is condemned to be short-lived, papers of a like kind are already reporting the arrival of 15,000 Turks in Macedonia who will sweep the Allies into the sea. Today the crowds have been extremely rowdy and provocative. The situation can only be said to have become extremely dangerous. They hiss and jeered both the French Admiral and the French minister and when the guard of the municipal theatre was taken to a building in the Zappion Garden, the crowd shouted "Turn them out," and "Long live Germany." An evening paper calls for a demonstration to-night before the British Legation, where some thing of the sort was attempted this morning.

RECEPTION IN SUMMERSIDE TO MR. A. V. FRASER

Mr. A. V. Fraser, representative for Lampson's great fur dealing concern in London, who was given such a splendid reception in Charlottetown, was no less heartily received in Summerside. Last week he visited a number of ranches in the vicinity of the western capital including the King Edward, the A. E. McLean, Ltd., the Park Island, St. Patrick's and the Raynor International.

On the whole Mr. Fraser was greatly pleased with the foxes; he stated that the breeders should endeavor to produce larger foxes. The estimated value Mr. Fraser placed upon some of the foxes ran from $300 to $1500 each on a pelts basis. On Tuesday evening he was the guest of honor of the Summerside branch of the Fox Breeders Association at a splendid banquet, at the Clifton House, at which some fifty persons were present, including Dr. Jardine, who presided, Messrs. Ches-ter McLaughlin, J. W. Callbeck, Neil Sinclair, Hilary Martini, A. E. McLean, Lucas Allen, E. W. Mansson, Ed. Monkley, Sterling McKay, H. T. Holman, C. S. McArthur, P. G. Clark, B. G. Rogers, Bannerman Tanton, W. K. McCougan, J. Lelloy Holman, Dr. McNeil, and others.

After the toast to the King and the guest of the evening, Mr. Fraser gave an interesting sketch regarding the fur buying business. In order to prevent too great a readjustment of prices, Mr. Fraser proposed that the breeders should cooperate with the larger fur brokers in preventing the cut-throat competition. With this in view his firm had consented to take any number of our pelts on estimated conservative valuation and keep them in cold storage until sold. Messrs. Lampson's would advance to the producer 50 per cent. of the valuation, so that the ranchers would be kept in cash to carry on their business.

All skins shipped to Lampson's either at London or New York were covered by a blanket insurance policy. Lampson's would charge 6 per cent. interest on all advances of cash, and they were to receive a commission of 1 per cent. of the gross selling price of the skin for their services in handling and selling.

As Mr. Fraser pointed out, this was a straight business proposition with them. Upon all furs handled by them they receive a commission of 6 per cent. of the selling price, and he pointed out that it was much better for them to receive 6 per cent. on $1000 rather than 6 per cent. on a much lower valuation. It was therefore very much to their interest to sustain prices for silver fox pelts within reasonable limits. Mr. Fraser stated emphatically what our fur board has constantly brought to our attention, that is, that these results could not be attained unless breeders tried to cooperate with the larger fur selling brokers.

Mr. Fraser estimated a total average of perhaps 2000 silver fox pelts had been placed on the market, during the last three or four years, and that under careful management this would be increased without too great a decline in prices.

One of the most favorable points brought out by Mr. Fraser was that in the future the price of pelts went on a somewhat lower basis than the Russian trade would be very greatly expanded to take up any surplus this might have. On the other hand we must remember that it is much more profitable to sell one skin for $700 than two skins for $350 each. Another point Mr. Fraser brought out was that a skin by being kept over a year in cold storage would deteriorate from 20 to 25 per cent. in three years the deterioration might amount to 50 per cent. of the original value. Although he was delighted with the prospects of this province, Mr. Fraser had the same criticism to make as in Charlottetown and that was that P. E. Island pelts on an average are too small, the average of wild pelts being several inches larger. He thought heavier feeding would help this defect to a great extent, and recommended that the quality of P. E. Island skins were exceedingly fine, and he considered those with a blue black sheen as being the most valuable.

In closing Mr. Fraser stated: "I think you have a very fine business here."

GERMANS CANNOT SPARE THE SOMME FRONT.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Germans on the Somme front are being prevented from sending men to aid in the Austro-German attack against Roumania according to Major General F. B. Maurice, chief director of military operations of the war office. He today expressed the objectives of the Anglo-French offensive. This provides a temporary feature of the Entente commanders feel that while the situation in Roumania cannot be considered a crisis, it is serious, and the best assistance the western armies can offer is to prevent reinforcements from going to General Falkenhayne. General Maurice declared that "supreme and Peronne cannot be considered objectives, in the usual sense of that term. The capture of these cities, he said, must be expected as a result of the present offensive, but their fall could not be called a decisive feature of the operation. It is planned to drive such a wedge into the German lines that attacks can be made in three directions against the expanded battlefront. The result is hoped to carry the offensive so far that a broad point will result. The Germans said General Maurice, may shorten their line before this happens, but such an outcome is always kept in view by the Entente staffs in planning future advances."
