The Court of Divorce met yesterday morning presided over by the Chief Justice. Other members were Hon. C.C. Baker, Hon. F.A. Large, Hon. A.W. Matheson, Hon. W.F.A. Stewart and Hon. H.H. Cox.

In the case of Edna Wealthy Jenkins, plaintiff, vs. William Everett Jenkins, defendant, an application for increased alimony, a motion to remove the action to the Supreme Court was taken under advisement. Proctor for the plaintiff was A.J. Haslam; for the defendant, H.F. MacPhee, K.C.

Judgment Absolute was granted in the case of William Ernest Robertson, plaintiff vs. Olive Blanche Robertson and Robert Tinson Holman, defendants. R.S. Hinton, K.C., is proctor for the plaintiff.

Four cases were on the docket for trial but one, that of Richard Ernest Ruthardt, plaintiff, vs. Agnes Eleanor Ruthardt and Emmett Burke, defendants, was struck off to be re-listed on application.

The case of Harris Edward Pye, plaintiff vs. Mabel Georgena Pye and Ray Wright, defendants, was adjourned until Sept. 15th., Mr. Hinton for the plaintiff.

Judgment nisi was granted in the following three cases: Leith Francis Tierney, plaintiff, vs. Audrey Enid Tierney and Edgar Winsberg, defendants. E.S. Trainor, proctor for the plaintiff, C.R. McQuaid for the defendants; Ella Blanche Murley, plaintiff vs. James Merrill Murley and Ruth James, defendants, R.R. Bell, K.C., for the plaintiff; Marvin John Sherren, plaintiff vs. Helen Manson Sherren, defendant. N.W. Lowther, K.C., proctor for the plaintiff.

GOVT. MOVES

prepared to move at dawn towards the New South Wales coalfields area.

The country's 23,000 coal miners went on strike 3 1-2 weeks ago over demands for a wage increase of 30 shillings ($4.80) a week and a reduction in the work-week from 40 to 35 hours.

The 40,000 tons of coal above ground which railwaymen are preparing to handle was blacklisted by the miners when they stopped work. Until now no attempt has been made to move it.

This coal will not last long however, even with the present drastic Government restrictions on use of electricity and illuminating gas.

Latest estimates are that the strike and the widespread closing of industry it necessitated have left 630,000 Australians out of work.

The Government of Victoria State proclaimed the unloading of 6,700 tons of coal from the collier Haligonian Duke as an "essential service." The collier, formerly Canadian-owned but now under British registry, has been tied up at Melbourne for five months. The State Cabinet decided to call for non-union labor to unload the ship.

Union longshoremen have refused to unload the coal because the Canadian Seamen's Union blacklisted it.

NEW CUT

adian Governments."

"None of them is a suggestion for new financial help," Sir Stafford said.

Sir Stafford stressed, as he did in his first "crisis" speech, that existing trade contracts will not be affected by reduced dollar buying.

The only contract he specifically referred to as unaffected by the cuts is the Canadian wheat agreement, which calls for delivery of 140,000,000 bushels during the 1949-50 crop year at $2 a bushel. He called this an "important exception" — important to Britain since this large amount of wheat will have to be paid for in dollars.

"We have decided to work on the assumption that we shall not be able to afford in 1949-50 more than 75 per cent of our imports from the dollar area in 1948," Sir Stafford said.

"These imports in 1948 amounted to about £400,000,000 ($1,600,000,000) and we are thus working on the assumption that we shall not be able to afford to import dollar goods at a rate of more than 75 per cent or £300,000,000."

No Food, No Work

"These cuts are only precursors of much worse conditions which are going to come," declared Oliver Lyttelton, speaking for the Conservative Opposition.

He called it a "no food and no work" program.

Sir Stafford said cuts in sugar purchases mean that the weekly sugar ration will fall Aug. 14 from 10 ounces to eight ounces. He estimated the tobacco cut will mean smokers will find about five per cent fewer cigars and cigarets on vendors' already scantily - filled shelves. Candy rationing, ended last spring, will be reimposed Aug. 14, with a limit of four ounces a week for each person.

He had one ray of cheer. Meat, bacon and butter rations will be increased slightly because of increased buying from non-dollar sources, such as Argentina.

The meat ration, now 1s 1d, (about 21.5 cents) worth a week, will go up 3d (about five cents) July 21. Britain rations meat by money value, thus giving larger amounts to families buying cheaper cuts.

The bacon ration will be raised from two to three ounces a week Aug. 21. Butter will go up from three to four ounces weekly July 17.

Boston Newsman Visits Lieut. Governor Bernard

The following article by Mr. Willard de Lue, travelling editor of the Boston Daily Globe, appeared in that newspaper on July 8, and will be read with much local interest:

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I.— This morning I picked up the phone and dialed 1125. A man answered.

"Is this the Lieutenant-Governor's office?"

"Yes," said the voice. I guessed that I was talking with one of the secretaries of His Majesty's representative in the Province of Prince Edward Island.

"Is the Lieutenant-Governor there?" I asked.

"Speaking," said he, for though the representative of the Crown surely must have a secretary, he makes it a practice to answer his own office phone.

So I introduced myself, and suggested that perhaps he could find a few minutes to give to me.

"I always like to talk to old Bostonians," I said.

I could hear him laugh.

"How did you know that?" said he. So I told him that I knew his cousin, Greg Wedge, very well.

"That's right...Greg is with the Globe, isn't he. Come on over. It's just a short walk from where you are."

"You're at Government House?" I asked; for though I had seen the Lieut.-Governor's official residence I wasn't sure that his office was there.

"Yes," said he. "Come in through the gate, to the front door...and walk right in."

But I did not have to walk right in, because the Hon. Joseph Alphonsus Bernard had spotted me coming up the drive and was at the door to greet me.

P. E. I. is a really democratic place, and Mr. Bernard is a P.E.I. man.

The beautiful old Government House stands in broad grounds that are a part of Charlottetown's attractive Victoria Park — a harborside promenade and recreation place that's only four blocks from the city's business center. The white, shingled house is big and comfortable-looking. It has been here for more than a century now, resting on a piece of rising ground at the park entrance in a little grove of white birches. Four white pillars support its high portico, on which the arms of the Province are set in a blue field.

"You'll notice that the front of it is almost like that of the White House in Washington," Gov. Bernard suggested. But Government House sets low, so close to the ground that a step or two gets you up to its entrance; and it has a front porch all along the front of it, which Mr. Truman surely would enjoy.

Gov. Bernard can sit out here of an evening and look down across his front lawn to where the park drive runs down along the shore. Just a little way down it is an earthen rampart on a curving point of land, with a row of old iron cannon set on it, pointing out across the great expanse of the harbor—formed by a meeting of the estuaries of three rivers. Fort Edward, this used to be; and the slotted walls of a whitened stone building a few steps from the cannon suggest that it was once a blockhouse or magazine, or some such thing.

The Lieutenant Governor and I sat in his office in Government House and talked of many things .. but mostly about Boston, where Mr. Bernard lived for nine years. He went there in 1898 when he was a young fellow of 17—fresh from the little town of Tignish, off at the Island's west end. It is Bernard's home town still — a place of fishermen-farmers, mainly of the French-Acadian stock of which the Lieutenant-Governor comes.

"You could get to Boston in a day, and for $10 in those times," said he. "Of course you carried your bundle of food with you and you sat up nights. But it was pleasant enough....and there weren't immigration problems... so people went and came."

"You came down from Tignish by railroad?"

"To the ferry," he said. "The railroad was a narrow gauge one; and the ferry wasn't where it is now. In those days it ran from Summerside across to Port de Chene, New Brunswick, and you took the train to Shediac."

"So you got yourself a job in Boston," I suggested.

"Do you know West Roxbury?" he countered; and I said that I did.

"Did you ever know Rudolph Dunkel who had a bakery in Roslindale?" I remembered only the name.

"I used to drive a bakery wagon for Dunkel," said the Governor, sitting back and getitng a fresh light on his cigar. He smokes very good ones, and the two of us filled his office with smoke.

"I'd drive the horse and wagon around all over West Roxbury and on into Germantown," he recalled. "And then I'd continue on to Dedham."

Then later on young Bernard got a job with the Elevated, at the old Lennox St. barns in the South End, on Division 2.

"I ran out of Division 2 on the rear end of the cars," said he. (It's just occurred to me that another P. E. I. man, the distinguished United States labor mediator, Cyrus Ching, also was a Boston Elevated graduate.)

By 1908 Bernard had his fill of living in Boston. He returned to his old Island home, got a job in a Tignish store, married and prospered. With a partner he bought the establishment for which he worked—a retail grocery and general merchandizing business at Tignish, which he alone now owns. At one time or another he's had his own boats in the fisheries, outfitted fishmen, had an interest in timber and a finger in the Island's famous silver fox industry. He was elected to the Provincial Legislature...and finally was picked for the honor of representing the British Crown.

But he is still at home in Boston. "I get there often," he tells me.

"I have two daughters in Boston—one is Gloria, the other is married to Dr. Eric Loth. She lives at 295 Lagrange St., in West Roxbury."

His brother, William S. Bernard, also has been a resident of Boston for many years. "Used to live on Mission Hill, but now he's on Ainsworth St., Roslindale." It certainly must be like old times when Gov. Bernard gets out in that familiar territory where he used to drive around on his bakery route.

The Bernard daughters in Boston are just two of Governor and Mrs. Bernard's 13 children. Five are with them here at Government House, some are at Tignish, others in other parts of the Dominion. Government House could take care of a Bernard family reunion without any trouble. It has about 40 rooms.

"It was built for heating with fireplaces," Mr. Bernard said as he showed me the old mansion. "They used to have a couple of tremendous stoves in the upper hall..and they'd have to carry the cordwood up there all winter long." There's modern heating now, but the pipes do have to run up through some of the great rooms.

He showed me, too, the big flower gardens, where in August there will be thousands of blossoms.

"You ought to come back in August," said he.

"If I do I guess I'd have to call on you to get me a hotel room"—for early August is the Island's Old Home Week and rooms are at a premium.

"Well," said he, looking at the big house from where we stood on the lawn, "I ought to be able to take care, of you all right."

He's a friendly man, the Governor...and not as sedate as he appears in the picture that I'm sending. The picture sort of shows his official face—as it shows his official wing collars. Today he wore a light tan tropical suit, an ordinary white shirt and a colorful bow tie. He's of medium height, solidly built—yet not as heavy as the picture makes him.

"Remember me to Greg," he yelled, as I went down the drive.

Which I hereby do.

There are plain little bathhouses along the sea wall beyond the battery, with steps running down from them to the water. And back of the shore road in all that far end of the park there are white birches, with benches under them, and an unspoiled woodland behind them. Walks run through the birchen groves and a wild green undergrowth, and they lead eventually to a great sports field, complete with a fine cinder track. The whole park probably is no larger than Boston Common, but it is so wooded, and so varied in its character—and the view from it across the harbor to the low green hills full of farmlands and daisy fields and bright white homes is such a broad one—that the park seems much larger than it is.

One day I was walking in the park, under a row of green trees, near the Governor's house — lime trees, said a man who was cutting the grass under them.

I told him how fine a place I thought the park was.

"Yes," said he, stopping for a moment to chat. "It's a pretty place...quiet. The people who come seem to like it. They appreciate it better than the people here do. Here...it's just the same old thing."

I've just heard this one about Lt. Gov. Bernard.

A visitor was addressing him as "Your Excellency."

"You shouldn't call me Your Excellency," said the Governor. "The correct title is Your Honor. But if you really want to please me, call me Joe."

And I understand that he's a wonder at the good old game of 45's.

P.E.I. Presbytery Of United Church

The regular quarterly meeting of the Prince Edward Island Presbytery, United Church of Canada, convened Monday, July 11th at 10.00 a.m. Rev. R.E. Vessey, retiring chairman presided at the devotional period. Mrs. J.D. MacFarlane, president of the Women's Missionary Society in P.E.I. was on the platform and took part in the service. Rev. J.M. Sheen gave a very fine address on the subject, "What is a Christian".

Rev. Burton Crowe of Bedeque took over his new duties as Secretary succeeding Rev. E.R. Woodside, and it became clear as the day went on that Mr. Crowe possesses the gifts that make for a good secretary. Rev. K.G. Sullivan of Summerside was installed as chairman by Mr. Vesey who in a very gracious manner in behalf of the members of the Court welcomed the new presiding officer to the Chair.

Rev. T.G. Head was appointed Assistant Secretary and Rev. A.S. Weir press reporter.

The minutes of last meeting were taken as read, the secretary being authorized to make any necessary corrections.

It was agreed that adjournment be at 12.00 noon and that Court reconvene at 1.15.

It was moved and seconded and carried that visiting ministers present be invited to sit and correspond. These included Rev. E.M. Aitken of Hamilton, Rev. E.W. Aitken of St. John, Rev. E.C. Evans and Rev. L.G. Marshall. Rev. H.E.D. Ashford was welcomed as a member of the Court.

The business set down on the docket was then dealt with carefully but with dispatch.

The list of members of the newly appointed standing committees was read and will appear in the official printed minutes.

Mr. W.E. Brooks gave a report of the Layman's Conference held July 6th at O'Leary. Besides a good attendance of laymen, four ministers attended. Rev. E.C. Evans had given a much appreciated paper on "the need for evangelism".

Mr. Brooks suggested that an association be formed for each County. $2,908. has been raised so far for the Memorial Fund and the balance of the objective it is anticipated, will be realized before next General Council program in 1950. Mr. Mercer stated he would arrange for the showing of films from the journey of Dr. Gilchrist from Halifax to Africa, in any charge requesting same. The afternoon session heard reports from such standing committees as had any report ready so early in the Conference year. Rev. P.A. Fitzpatrick for the Social Service and Evangelism Committee urged upon the members of Presbytery the necessity of taking a firm stand against the manifest encroachments of the gambling evil, within the Province. He recommended that the regulations controlling lotteries be published in the United Churchman. This task was assigned to the S.S. Committee.

A special committee consisting of Mr. Justice Tweedy, chairman, Rev. J.R. Skinner and A.S. Weir, reported on a reference from Rev. W.G. Dickson concerning a matter before the Session of Brae congregation. After some discussion clarifying the issue for the Court, the Committee's report was adopted and Mr. Dickson was given advice as to further procedure as he had requested.

The Special Committee dealing with proposed rearrangements of boundaries in the Bideford, Richmond Bay East and Wellington areas with a view to saving the services of one minister in this time of great shortage of ministerial manpower, presented its report for adoption. As the details for such an arrangement had not been completely arrived at, the report was laid on the table till the next meeting of Presbytery in September with the hope that by that time an agreement satisfactory to all concerned may be reached.

Lord's Day Alliance Activities

Rev. L.G. Marshall, Secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance was heard with much interest by the Court as he presented the work of the Alliance. This organization, he said represents the united effort of several denominations in Canada to preserve for Labor one day in seven as a day of rest from regular work, and the preservation for all of the opportunity for public worship. The matter of attempts to commercialize sports on Sunday contrary to Dominion law is definitely brought to the attention of alleged offenders and if necessary to the authorities. The great objective however is to lay upon the conscience and hearts of the people the necessity for keeping the Lord's Day according to Divine Law.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Court: "Resolved that this presbytery continue to show its appreciation of the work being done by the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada in its constant fight against those forces which would undermine the Lord's Day and deprive the people of Canada of those blessings which come to us from the Day of Rest and Worship. Further be it resolved that we commend the Attorney General for his prompt action in preventing the commercializing of Sunday sports as attempted early this season. We further request that he enforce the provisions of the Lord's Day Act as they pertain to Sunday excursions and further that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Attorney General."

Mr. Marshall was warmly thanked for his clear presentation of this important subject.

Reports on inductions were received and arrangements made for the induction of Rev. W.B. Corkum at Souris on August 5th. The business at this point being completed, the Court adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

A large number of members of Presbytery attended the induction of Rev. H.E.D. Ashford into Trinity congregation. Rev. K.G. Sullivan, chairman, presided and inducted. Reverends L.M. Murray, R.E. Vessey, A.S. Weir and Doctors Rice and A.D. MacKenzie took part. There was a splendid attendance of the congregation and officials and interested friends. Rev. A.D. MacKenzie gave a most impressive address to the people of the charge, and Rev. A.S. Weir gave "The address to the Minister". The newly inducted minister pronounced the benediction. A very pleasant social reception followed later in the Church Hall.

This Province Not Represented In Contest

HALIFAX, July 14—"We have had entries for the "Miss Atlantic" contest from all Provinces and states bordering the Atlantic except Prince Edward Island. We are anxious that the Island should send contestants," stated Eric Dennis, chairman of the Miss Atlantic Committee here today.

Officials here announce that Prince Edward Island could send a "Miss Charlottetown", a "Miss Summerside", a "Miss Borden" as entries from any part of the Island would be eligible under the rules.

One thousand dollars in cash and a free trip to contest the "Miss Canada title at Hamilton with its $10,000 prize money, is awaiting the winner of the "Miss Atlantic" contest to be held in Halifax as a feature of the Bicentenial celebration July 21, 22 and 23.

The contest is sponsored by the Halifax Press Club and the Nova Scotia Branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club for the City of Halifax who sent Miss Betty Jean Ferguson to win the "Miss Canada" title at Hamilton last year.

Any organization approved by the committee may sponsor a single lady "of good character" between the ages of 18 and 28 on September 21, 1949. The contestant must possess "poise, personality and charm, and beauty of face and figure." A further qualification is talent to sing or dance, or give a three minute talk on the career she wishes to pursue. Dramatic ability will be an asset.

First runner-up in the contest will receive a $500 cash award, the second runner-up $250. Three special consolation prizes of $150 each will be awarded to the contestant with the most beauty, the contestant with the most talent, and lastly the contestant with the most poise, personality and charm.

Contestants, or organizations sponsoring them, must provide their fare to and from Halifax, and bring at least two evening gowns in addition to their street clothes. The Miss Atlantic Pageant will be responsible for meals and accommodation while in Halifax.

If the winner is a Canadian and sent to the Miss Canada contest in Hamilton in August her accomodation and meals there will be provided by the Miss Canada Pageant Committee. If selected as "Miss Canada", her transportation to Atlantic City to compete in the Miss America contest will be provided by the Miss Canada Pageant Committee. Her meals and accommodation while in Atlantic City will be provided by the Miss America Pageant Committee.

Contestants must reach Halifax not later than the night of July 20. If unaccompanied by a chaperon, the Miss Atlantic committee will arrange for a responsible Halifax woman to serve as such during her stay in the Bicentennial city.

A Tribal Class destroyer the Iroquois will arrive here Saturday and leave on Monday. She will have a complement of 13 officers, 104 ratings and 88 cadets when she arrives here. At present the Iroquois is employed in the training of R. C. N. Reserve officers and men. Courtesy calls will in all probability be made on the Lieutenant-Governor, the Premier and the Mayor with the call at Government House scheduled for 10.45 a.m. Saturday morning.

them will stick to their economic theories in the face of excommunication? It will be strange if there are more than a handful.

Of the 12,000,000 people in Czechoslovakia, where the Communist war on the Church centres for the moment, about 8,000,000 are Catholics. In Poland, where the party claims 1,500,000 members more than 90 per cent of the 24,000,000 people are Catholics.

Sixty-seven per cent of the Hungarians are Catholics.

In all, there are about 50,000,000 Catholics behind the iron curtain. In the world there are about 350,000,000 to 25,000,000 Communist Party members who, however, control, if all China is included in the domain, some 700,000,000 people. In all, there are more than 300,000,000 Catholics, who are allied with a similar number of non-Catholics in countries which are actively engaged in fighting Communism.

Although the conflict of ideologies is a major theme of the cold war, and the Catholics already were heavily involved, the weapons to date have been mostly those of power politics and of economics. Now the battle of ideas has been joined with a vengeance.

That the Vatican's blow is a telling one is testified by the outraged screams of the world Communist press. When and if Communist imperialism comes its final cropper its survivors may look back on its war with the Catholic Church as one of its greatest tactical mistakes.
