

His Worship The Mayor Commends Apple Day

City Hall, October 20, 1933.

We have all long since outgrown the ancient prejudice against the apple. Of all the bounties which a generous Mother Earth has bestowed upon mankind there is nothing more tempting, appetizing and wholesome than the apple.

It is pleasing to learn that the leaders of the Boy Scout movement have decided that Saturday, the 18th day of November next be, by permission of the proper authorities, observed in Charlottetown as Apple Day, after the fashion of a tag day, for the sale of exclusively Island grown apples.

The object aimed at is to help raise much-needed funds required to provide the necessary supplies for the Summer camps of the Boy Scouts, and at the same time to give a boost to the apple industry of the Island.

Nothing is better calculated to develop in the boys of our land a virile and worthy manhood than the training and exercises given them by the Boy Scout movement. There is besides, no better apple grown anywhere than certain varieties produced on the Island when proper care and attention are given them.

I would therefore urge that every one of our citizens, have at least the minimum five cents on hand on the 18th of November to buy an apple and so give a helping hand to a most deserving cause.

W. S. STEWART, Mayor.

WOMEN JUDGES BETTER FOR JUVENILE COURT

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—A growing place for women in the legal field—both on the bench and at the bar—was envisaged today by two women attorneys who have achieved prominence in their profession. Judge Edith M. Atkinson, who presided for eight years over the Miami, Fla., juvenile court, and Miss Hope K. Thompson of Washington, D. C., who has represented the Federal Government in legal affairs in Mexico expressed their views between sessions of the regional convention of Phi Delta Delta legal fraternity.

"Women judges are preferable to men in juvenile courts for the dependent and neglected," said Judge Atkinson, "but in delinquent courts, both men and women play equally valuable parts."

"A woman is naturally inclined to give more consideration to small details of the welfare of a child, perhaps, than a man and sometimes the very destiny of a child may depend on consideration of those seemingly unimportant details."

Miss Thompson suggested one principle for women attorneys: "The main thing for them to do is to be genuine."

The task of feminine lawyers, she said, is to obtain an opportunity to utilize practically the legal knowledge obtained in school.

Teachers Meet At Rustico Convent

An interesting and instructive teachers' meeting was held on November 10th in Rustico Convent. Despite the very disagreeable weather there were present besides the President, Mr. Ayrre Gallant, and the Sisters of the Convent, Mr. Al-an Gauthier and Mr. John P. Buote. Many classroom problems confronting the teacher were discussed, some of which were the following:

On discipline—Make few rules, but adhere to those closely. Never introduce a rule until necessary. The personality of the teacher is the chief factor in securing and retaining attention. The teacher must be in earnest. He must be enthusiastic. Children are impressionable and if they felt that the teacher is interested in what he is trying to teach they will naturally be interested. The teacher should keep up a gentle conversational tone while speaking. He must keep up a continual search for new methods and devices and adapt these to his own individuality. Variety appeals to the child.

On the recitation—Question the class after each paragraph and again (as a review) after the reading is over. Where possible dramatization should follow either in the classroom or on the playground.

On Arithmetic—To prevent pupils from counting on their fingers make sure that they know all their combinations in addition. Question: A pupil in grade 3 knows his tables but fails to get his multiplication problems correct. Answer: Have pupils work problems on the blackboard. Here you will have an opportunity to watch the child and note where the trouble is. If he makes no mistakes on the board a lack of attention at his seat is evident.

On History—A suggestion was offered that Canadian and British histories ought not to be taught together. Complete one book before you begin the other. This avoids the possibility of confusing or interchanging historical characters and events, especially with the junior classes.

On Junior Red Cross Meetings—These should be called regularly with the junior as well as the senior pupils, even if much of the work of necessity be done by the teacher.

Last, but not least, an interesting paper on the arts of binding, cataloguing and classifying books was read by one of the teachers who had taken the library course at Prince of Wales College during the summer. This excellent reading also touched on the qualities of a good librarian. This was of particular interest to the teachers as it contained many hints and helps for maintaining good discipline in the classroom.

After the meeting was over an appetizing supper was served to the teachers. This was the second meeting at the Convent and those attending feel like thanking the Sisters for their kind hospitality, and are looking forward to the next meeting. It is hoped all teachers will make an earnest effort to attend.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts. Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Geo. E. Hughes and Taylor Drug Co. of Kensington invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

After Accident She Put On Weight

Kruschen Took It Off Again A woman sends the following account of the consequences of an auto accident in which she was involved:—

"A year ago I had a very bad automobile accident, which left me more or less a cripple. Having to lie in bed so long, and being unable to move, I began to put on flesh. When I was able to walk a little again, I found I was 144 lbs., and being just under 5 feet you may guess how I was placed. So I thought I would try Kruschen Salts, and I must say they have done me a lot of good in every way—but chiefly in keeping my weight down. In three months I lost 6 lbs. Then I let off taking the Kruschen, and I soon went up to 142 lbs. again. So at once I got more Kruschen, and am again steadily reducing. My weight last month was 134 lbs."

Mr. H. M. Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

Remembrance Day At Wheatley River

The programme for Remembrance Day service for Wheatley River Monument was carried out in the hall at Wheatley River on Saturday, Nov. 11th at 11 a. m. Owing to weather conditions it was thought advisable to hold service indoors. The large concourse of people in the hall was abundant evidence of the growing interest and appreciation Remembrance Day is receiving in this part of the Island. The area includes Hunter River, Wheatley River, Hope River, Stanley Bridge, New Glasgow, Rustico and Cavendish, and contains over thirty resident ex-soldiers who observe the day in honour of their fallen comrades. Sacrifice, Remembrance, Peace are the keynotes of the day throughout the world and the sentiments were spiritualized in the service held. Mr. John Buntain acted as chairman and the following service was held:

10.50—O Canada. 11 a. m.—Two minutes silence. Prayer—Rev. Mr. Quigley. Hymn—O God Our Help in Ages Past. The Last Post. Address—Rev. W. A. Paterson. Hymn—O Vallant Hearts. Address—Rev. F. E. Boothroyd. Hymn—God of Our Fathers. Revellie. National Anthem. At the close of the service, the ex-soldiers paraded to the monument, followed by the citizens, where wreaths were presented by "The Comrades," Orange Lodge, Women's Institutes, Wheatley River Y. P. S. and several wreaths from private individuals. In the evening the ex-soldiers with their wives gathered in the hall at New Glasgow for their annual banquet. At 8 p. m. they sat down to a bountiful repast—a goose dinner—Mirth and happiness prevailed, with Billy Gauthier in his usual fun-making form. At the close of the banquet the boys proceeded to the lower part of the hall, where for nearly three hours, songs, dancing, stories and war songs and stories were given, ever reminding the boys of other days and deepening the fellowships which such a day is meant to give to those who came back. Addresses were given by Mrs. M. Doyle and Rev. W. A. Paterson. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Cecil Laird, representing the directorate of the hall, for the hospitality. After singing "We're Jolly Good Fellows," and the National Anthem, the company dispersed, considering the day a very happy one and looking forward to another 11th.

Plane's Arrival Thrills Natives

LONDON, Nov. 15—When, not long ago, the Imperial Airways air-liner "Astrea" was making a survey flight along eastern sections of the 10,000 miles air-mail route from England to Australia, a descent was made for fuel on Bathurst Island, a lonely spot off the north-west coast of Australia. The natives of the island were spellbound when they saw the great four-engine monoplane come gliding down. Their amazement was equally great when, after taking on petrol, the air-liner taxied along and ascending again swiftly, disappeared in the direction of Port Darwin, on the Australian coast.

Actually, for some time after "Astrea" had alighted, the natives were so mystified that they did not care to approach the machine; but presently their king drew near enough to catch sight of the Royal Mail emblem, with its crown, on the air-liner's side. He gave a cry of delight and, pointing to this crown, declared that he now realized that the aircraft had come from the King of England, and that he, as King of Bathurst, must be the only one to approach the machine. His fellow natives retreated hastily, while he himself, feeling that the occasion required some special act of recognition on his part, proceeded with his own hands—and much to the astonishment of the air-liner's crew—to sweep and clean out the interior of the machine. When the time came for "Astrea" to depart, he refused to accept any gift or token from the air-liner's crew, but, drawing himself up in truly regal fashion, gave them a message as from himself to King George; this being to the effect that, as from one King to another, he would not be averse to receiving a gift of flour to replenish the stock on the island. The astonishment caused by the arrival of "Astrea" at Bathurst recalls a story concerning a native who, coming to an aerodrome in the jungle, and never having seen a flying machine before, stood in amazement when one of the big air craft of the Cairo-Cape Town route circled overhead just before landing. "Would you like to be up there in that great bird?" an official asked. "No," answered the native, "but what I would like is a setting of its eggs to take back with me to my village."

FAREWELL PRESENTATION

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 1st, a farewell party was held at the spacious new home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Drake in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jenkins. Mr. Albert Drake was appointed chairman, Mr. W. C. Smith read the address and Mr. Samuel Drake presented the beautiful gift. Mr. Jenkins capably replied in a few well chosen words. Dancing and music were the chief amusements of the evening. Luncheon was served by the ladies of Millview and vicinity, after which the people repaired to their home, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins every success in their new home. Following is the address: To Mr. W. L. Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins. Dear Friends—Prior to your departure from among us, we, your friends and neighbours in Millview and vicinity feel that we cannot let the occasion pass without trying in some slight way to give expression to the feeling of esteem in which you have been held during your sojourn with us. Coming among us as you did a few short years ago, almost a perfect stranger, by your integrity in business and the part you have taken in the social and religious activities of the community, you have won all our hearts, as your voice and your purse were ever ready in every move pertaining to the best interests of the district, and we are not surprised at this, as we do not forget that back in the year 1914 (which we would all more or less like to forget) you were among the first who stood ready to make the supreme sacrifice for the good of your country. Now that you are about to leave us, we feel that we are losing one of our best citizens but our sorrow is somewhat mitigated by the thought that you are not going so far away, but that the friendship formed will not be broken and that you will still continue to take an interest in the life of the community. To your amiable partner in life, Mrs. Jenkins, we extend our best wishes. We congratulate you on the beautiful home you have erected at Vernon and we hope you both may be spared many years to enjoy the comfort and prosperity which your business ability so richly deserves. In conclusion we would ask you to accept this chair as a token of our esteem and we hope that as you relax in it after the business cares of the day are over, that it will remind you of the friendships formed in Millview and vicinity. Signed on behalf of your friends in Millview and vicinity. Minard's Liniment removes stains.

Royal Commission Features In Bank Report

(Canadian Press) OTTAWA, Nov. 15—The Royal Commission on Banking outlines in its report the features which it considers desirable in the financial system of Canada. It should be accommodated to the great seasonal variation in volume of business. It should possess sufficient strength "to withstand the vicissitudes of the highly specialized regions of the country." It must provide for the financing of external trade. Canada's financial system should also assist in providing the mechanism for borrowing at home and abroad. It should be in a position to exercise some control over domestic speculative tendencies, and also foreign exchange rates. Also it is desirable that the financial system should be competent to "participate in international co-operation regarding financial policies which may affect the world prices of Canada's exports, and other matters."

Man Helped Save 1,000 Lives

William Cooper, who helped to save 1,000 lives and who received a gold watch from the President of the United States for the rescue of 23, has died in Ramsate. For 56 years he was a member of the Ramsate life crew and for 32 years was coxswain. Cooper was awarded a silver medal for his services during a terrific storm in November, 1916, when the Ramsate boat went to the aid of the American steamer Siberia. The lifeboat stood by for six and one-half hours and was launched a second time nearly three hours later, only to reach the Siberia after a great struggle just as the Kingsdown lifeboat crew completed the rescue of the 52 on board. The gold watch was presented to Cooper for the rescue in January, 1919, of the crew of 23 from the steamship Plave, of New York.
