Surveyors Arrive In Hopedale Anti-Nazis Drive Continues Unabated

(C.P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire)

HOPEDALE, Labrador, Aug. 5.—Returning to Labrador to complete a mapping survey begun four years ago, Dr. Alexander Forbes of Harvard University arrived here tonight in a plane piloted by Charles J. Hubbard, former Harvard rugby star.

Leaving Rockland, Maine, early Sunday morning, he made a brief stop near Charlottetown for fuel and reached Hopedale, Nfld., last night. They took off again at six o'clock this morning and arrived at Cartwright, Labrador, in time for lunch, making a leisurely flight to Hopedale later.

Having been delayed last week in his first attempt to reach Labrador, Dr. Forbes said he was anxious to lose no time in getting to work.

On his first take-off from Rockland he was forced down by motor trouble at Shediac, N. B., and turned back to have a new motor installed in the plane.

Hubbard, who had made several previous flights to Newfoundland and Labrador, encountered no difficulty yesterday and today and was favored by fine weather.

A SUGGESTION

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5.—If hunters would take the old shotgun out in the spring and get crows then, in the fall they would get better bags of ducks, E. C. Bunnell, Winnipeg sportsman said today. He blamed crows for depleting the flocks of ducks that came south each year because he said, they eat thousands of duck eggs each spring.

FATALLY GORED IN BULL-FIGHT

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

CORUNA, Spain, Aug. 5.—Francisco Morena Moreno, Banderillo in a bullfight at the rink here, was fatally gored today. Another Banderillo, Jose Parada, was seriously injured.

Spurned In Love Shoots Self

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

NEW CORNWALL, N. S., August 5.—(OP)—Despondent about unrequited love, Ray Thompson, 26, shot himself a short distance from the little farmhouse where he had lived with his widowed mother and his sister.

His body was found early yesterday morning by a search party including friends with whom he had spent the previous evening at the village store. A discharged shotgun lay across the body and a revolver was found in one of the pockets of the dead man's trousers.

After hearing the story of Thompson's grief, coroner Charles Lohnes of Mahone Bay decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Dependence of Canadian Communities upon the C. N. R.

Even a brief study of the map of Canada will show how widespread in a geographical sense, are the transportation facilities afforded by Canadian National Railways. From the Atlantic to the Pacific and North and South from its main lines the C. N. R. serves practically every important section of the Dominion.

Along its 22,000 miles of track in Canada are 4,550 C. N. R. Depots or Stations. Some of the larger centres of population, (from which comes, of course, much of the company's revenues), are not dependent solely on the C. N. R. for their railroad requirements, but over four thousand stations, or approximately ninety per cent of the company's total stations in Canada, are located at points where the only rail transportation service available is that provided by Canadian National Railways.

Almost without exception these stations serve communities, varying in size and wealth, which produce commodities required in other parts of Canada or abroad. In their turn they are purchasers from manufacturers and merchants throughout the Dominion. They are thus highly important in the economic structure of the country, and in providing the means of transportation for passengers and freight Canadian National Railways is performing an essential service : : one which, indeed, is of tremendous significance in enabling Canada to exist as a complete and united national entity.

As will be readily understood, many of these communities are only in the early stages of their development : : their growth has in all too many cases been retarded by the economic conditions of the past few years : : but their potentialities, under happier trade conditions, are beyond computation. Further, the people who live in them and who are building the Canada of the future have claims to railway service as a necessary adjunct to their welfare which must be seriously considered.

This aspect of the services rendered by Canadian National Railways will command the approval of all who have faith in the destiny of Canada. Without adequate patronage however from the public as a whole, the performance of these services becomes a matter of great difficulty, if not of impossibility.

Canadian National Railways is operated economically. It stands ready to deliver the best service possible in railway facilities : : transportation, telegraphs, express, hotels : : and it is on this basis that the C. N. R. solicits your cooperation in the great and nationally important work performed under all conditions and throughout the entire year.

During the present Summer season the C. N. R. is providing special fares and excursions between points throughout Canada. These are exceptional travel bargains. The nearest C. N. R. agent will be glad to give full particulars.
