

MAKE SEWERAGE COMPULSORY.

Dear Mr. Editor.—Kindly permit me to ask through your widely read paper why it is that the installation of sewerage in all houses is not compulsory in the City of Charlottetown. Perhaps our Board of Health will answer the question. We have a Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. People are compelled under certain circumstances to have their homes disinfected, etc., while in the matter of sewerage, unless it is the building of a new house, there is no compulsion in the matter at all to compel the installing of same. Why this is so, now that we have an expensive, and up-to-date sewerage system, passes comprehension, and should certainly not be tolerated longer than it takes to remedy the matter. Why should one householder have sewerage in his home as a matter of convenience and health for his family, while his neighbors are allowed to have such things as filthy hog-pens, and other unmentionables, which in our summer season simply make living with any degree of comfort or health out of the question. It seems to me that a man or woman who owns or controls his or her property or who rents houses for gain should be able, and should be compelled to install sewerage. If they have no regard for their own health, they should be made to see the error of their ways as regards the health of those who do care. What is the use of Prevention Societies of this, that, and the other thing, disinfecting fairs, etc., when those of us who have some regard for our health have to tolerate the abominable nuisances mentioned. There is no reason on earth why a beautiful City with its unrivalled scenery should not be one complete network of sewerage installation, and if our City Council, or Water Commissioners have not the power to compel the putting in of same by property owners, then it is up to them to move briskly in the matter of obtaining the same through the proper channel, which, I presume, would be the Legislature. I have in mind, Mr. Editor, two instances of persons who died during the last ten days of that dread disease "consumption." In both these cases no adequate means was taken or in fact was possible to prevent the spread of the disease or the construction of the germs. Both these homes were disinfected after the remains had been confined to their last resting place, but what will be the results of the conditions existing in both these cases during the long weeks of sickness? Would not the sewerage outlet have prevented some of the danger or at least minimized it? Pardon me for taking up so much of your valuable space, but surely this is a vital matter, which not only concerns one, but the whole of us, and surely there is a remedy, which should not be difficult to find. Yours etc., CITIZEN. Charlottetown, Feb'y 1st, 1909.
