We have received from the publishers of the Weekly Empire an advance copy of the premium which they are giving to their subscribers for the coming year. It is a reproducing in photogravure of the picture presented to Sir John Thompson last session by the Conservative members of the House of Commons. Its dimensions are 3 feet 6 inches by 2 feet 4 inches, and when we state that the work is the best specimen of art in photographic effect which we have ever seen we are only doing justice to the enterprise of our widely circulated contemporary. This magnificent picture is intended for framing, and will set it will be highly esteemed in the Conservative homes of Canada. The Weekly Empire people declare their intention of invading every family circle in the Dominion where Conservative principles are inculcated. The original picture cost over $500.00, and small photographic copies cannot be purchased for less than $4. The central group in cabinet size photographs comprises the members of the Dominion Cabinet. The most prominent position is, of course, assigned to Sir John A. Macdonald. The photographs are excellent likenesses, and reproduce the features of each member in every detail. Grouped around are the representatives from each province in photographs of ordinary size. Each picture is numbered and a key is printed at the bottom of the picture, giving the name and constituency of each member.
