INSIDIOUS

EYE STRAIN

We use this adjective ad-visedly.

Sufferers from Eye-strain may have perfect vision and therefore do not suspect the presence of any eye defect.

The motive power of the entire human organism is Nerve Energy.

Normal eyes, it is computed utilize about 20% of this Nerve Energy, but when Eye-strain is present, a much larger proportion is required. Hence defective eyes, through their consumption of an excessive amount of Nerve Energy may seriously affect the functioning of other organs of the body and produce ill health.

GOOD COMEDY.—The Clyde River Dramatic Club presented their comedy "Deacon Dubbs" to an appreciative audience in Corwell Monday the seventeenth. It would be unfair to particularize, as all the characters were cleverly interpreted. Quite a number from the city enjoyed the play. Enjoyable music was furnished by the Club Orchestra, and the step dancing by Major MacNutt was heartily enjoyed. Lunches were served by the Community Club and a snug sum was realized, which goes to help pay the debt on the rink. The rink management are very grateful to the Dramatic Club for their assistance.

CLOW—SENCABOUGH—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sencabough, Murray Harbor North, P. E. I., on Tuesday evening, September 27th, at eight o'clock when their only daughter, Matilda Graham was united in marriage to Mr. John Webster Clow, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clow of Murray Harbor West. The parlor was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, cut flowers, white wedding bells and long streamers of white ribbon. The bride party entered the room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March which was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Rouliston Kennedy. The bride looked charming in gown of white silk with the conventional wedding veil in cap style and held in place with wreath of orange blossoms. She wore a white pearl necklace and carried a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas and maidenhair fern. She was attended by Miss Hazel McKay who wore pink crepe de chine and pink pearl necklace. The groom wore a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. V. O'Meara in the presence of about seventy invited guests, most of which were relatives of the bride and groom. After the usual hand shaking and felicitations the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper. The superior quality of the gifts testified to the popularity of the young couple. During the evening a friendly band of serenaders gathered and with their different musical instruments helped for a time to make things merry. After congratulating the newly wedded pair, and receiving refreshments they departed peacefully to their homes. The evening passed pleasantly with music, both instrumental and vocal until about midnight when the guests departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Clow bon voyage through life.

AUTUMN WEDDING.—St. Luke's Church at Killy's Cross, P. E. B., became the bride of Percy M. McMahon. Acting Inspector of Cattle and Hogs in the common cows, Canada Train Despatching, C. N. R. Atlantic Region, of this city. The nuptial mass was celebrated at seven o'clock by Rev. Father P. L. McMahon, P. P., brother of the groom, in the presence of immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The bride was attended by Miss Hazel McKay who wore pink crepe de chine and pink pearl necklace. The groom wore a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. V. O'Meara in the presence of about seventy invited guests, most of which were relatives of the bride and groom. PRINCE OF WALES OBEYS POLICE-MAN'S ORDERS.—LONDON, Eng., Oct. 15.—The Prince of Wales figured in an amusing incident at Folkestone Harbour on Monday night recently. From Sandwich, where he had been staying, he came by car with two little girls to meet their mother as she landed. As the boat came alongside an official attached to the Prince, who had his cap pulled well over his forehead, and asked "Are you a visitor?"

"Yes," said the Prince, and the official at once politely asked him to stand back behind the barrier used by the Home Office for examining passports.

The Prince at once obeyed, and walked to the public part of the quay. But a few minutes later his identity was discovered by another official, who promptly invited him to stand at the bottom of the gangway down which passengers disembarked.

The passengers also failed to recognize the interested onlooker.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 5.—Reopening of Illinois' soft coal mines, closed six months because of wage differences, will not reflect any appreciable change in the price of coal to the consumer, operators believe.

Louis H. Smith, Treasurer of the coal operators' association expressed the opinion that there would be little change in retail prices, largely because of the great surplus stocks which were on hand when the strike started.
