THE MORNING GUARDIAN

MONDAY, JULY 30, 1900.

Pretty Montague has assumed the status of a town with a Mayor, a council of five and a prospect of taxes. As befits a thriving port, the first Mayor bears the same name as Britain's most famous captain—Horatio Nelson.

The Dominion capital appears to be sharing in the general growth and prosperity of the country. Its latest directory indicates a population of 88,550. When it was made the capital of Canada it was little more than a village. In 1881 the population of Ottawa was 27,412 and in 1891 was 44,154.

We are glad to find the Charlottetown Steam Navigation Company taking the lead, as was mentioned in Saturday's GUARDIAN, in discontinuing the use of the steam whistle of the Princess when at her wharf in this port. We trust that the rule may be generally adopted by other steamers as well. The C. S. N. Co. not only furnishes first-class steamers and gives prompt and regular service to its patrons, but shows every disposition to guard the safety and convenience of the public in small matters as well as great.

The Examiner mildly censures the Patriot for its silence in regard to the recent promotions, and adds that "THE GUARDIAN is conducting an investigation on its own account, but that will amount to nothing." Our impression had been that the Examiner had been very quiescent in regard to a matter which has been the talk of the town. Our slow-going contemporary reminds one of the passenger who arrives at a railway station too late and finds the train on which he had intended to take passage rolling away with increasing speed. His thought, as he contemplates his watch is doubly embittered by the fact that other passengers got on board while he, himself was left.

Some time ago Lord Wolseley casually expressed the opinion which seemed ridiculous to many persons, that the greatest danger to civilization lay in China and that the people of that country might possibly yet overrun the world. It is now recalled that General Gordon, the martyr of Khartoum, had twenty years ago a very similar impression to that of Lord Wolseley. Gordon knew the Chinese well, had done much to train and lead their soldiery in the days of the Tae Ping rebellion, when he really saved the dynasty. He saw that the civilized powers had treated China unjustly on many occasions, and he foresaw that some day the millions of China would be arrayed against the foreigners, as he said "with good reason." He predicted the "yellow storm" which is now bursting, and it is most regrettable that his warning was not heeded in time.

WOULD MARRY HIM.

When He Declined With Thanks She Left Her Preserver $7,000.

HAMILTON, July 25.—Louis H. Scott, who emigrated to America from Ireland two years ago, and who was instrumental in saving the life of an elderly maiden named Miss Verscoyle, at Atlantic City, shortly after he landed, has been left $7,000 by her. Miss Verscoyle offered her hand in marriage to Scott shortly after he saved her from drowning, but he declined, owing to the difference in their age. A correspondence has been kept up between them ever since. Scott is a law student at present employed in the office of the Hamn rag and metal company.

MANITOBA'S WHEAT CROP.

Montreal, July 26.—"I have been in Manitoba for 18 years, and I do not see anything in the present crop shortage to make me lose faith in the province."

This is the way Mr. S. A. McGaw, secretary and treasurer of the Dominion Elevator Co., puts it. He says the wheat crop of Manitoba and the Territories will probably be a little short of fifteen million bushels, against thirty-four million last year. The fact of the increased acreage, both in the province and the Territories, will help them out a great deal, and although merchants may have to carry over some of their country accounts, there will be no suffering. Although the rains were late for the wheat, Mr. McGaw says they were productive of great good to the feed, and as Manitoba is raising a great deal of stock and prices being good, the average will be pretty good. In 1889, the yield was 12½ bushels per acre, in 1890 it was 21 bushels, while this year he says there are in Manitoba and the Territories about 2,200,000 acres under wheat, which, at seven bushels per acre, would give a total yield of fifteen million bushels. It was at first thought that the crop of oats would be short, but it has turned out to be very good. There are also, he adds, splendid crops of wheat in the Red Deer Country between Calgary and Edmonton and in the vicinity of Prince Albert.

MINNESOTA AND THE DAKOTAS.

He says he considers the reports from Minnesota and the Dakotas, tending to the belief that the wheat crop is all right, are quite misleading. He says that the wheat crop of the three states just mentioned will not exceed 75,000,000 bushels, against 157,000,000 bushels last year, and he added that the farmers would not be so well off as their neighbors in Manitoba, because they do not do so much stock farming.

NO DOLLAR WHEAT.

Mr. McGaw concluded as follows: "But if there is a shortage in the Canadian and American Northwest it does not follow that we will have one-dollar wheat, as some might suppose. When our prices go high, England will increase her purchases in Bulgaria, the Argentine Republic and other wheat producing countries."
