CIRCUS PERMITS

Councillor Henry Wedge said he wanted to be fair to the Legion in the matter but a service club that raises money for community work had asked for a permit and had been turned down as the Council had agreed that no permits for circuses would be given. This puts the Council in the position of turning down one organization and letting another go ahead. Personally he said he wanted to see the Legion make as much money as they could.

Councillor Mollison said he felt that under the circumstances the Kinsmen Club should be granted a permit too. He pointed out that the Legion need the money and more than half of it will be spent on their ball team.

Mayor Arnett said that quite evidently there has been a misunderstanding. The matter had come before the Council and it was decided to issue no permits. However, due to a misunderstanding, the Legion went ahead. Mayor Arnett said that the president of the Legion had spoken to him about it only in a casual way. Another company wanted to operate for the hospital, he said, and he had turned it down and it is now going to operate outside the Town limits. He said he could see Councillor Wedge's point but the mixup was not intentional on the part of the Council.

Councillor Wedge explained that the service club which had asked for a permit has now lost its opportunity of having the circus come to Summerside. It is a matter of principle. He said he had voted against one organization getting a permit and he could not now vote in favor of another one getting a similar permit.

Councillor J. L. Gorrill said he did not feel like voting against the Legion but the public are not in favor of those circuses coming to town and taking away a lot of money.

Councillor Mollison said they can set up just at the edge of town and still take the money away.

Councillor Wedge said he thought there should be some agreement with the Attorney General on this matter of granting permits to such organizations to set up just outside the town limits when they would be turned down by the Town.

The motion was then put and passed with Councillor Wedge dissenting.

Councillor Mollison then suggested that a permit be granted to the Kinsmen Club if they could make arrangements.

Mayor Arnett said he felt that if this service club wishes a permit any time this year it be granted but the Legion should have obtained a permit before they made any arrangements.

Councillor Wedge moved a resolution that a letter be sent to the Attorney General enlisting his co-operation in the matter of granting permits to circuses, etc., who wish to operate just outside the Town limits. This motion was seconded by Councillor T. D. Morrison and carried.

Taxi Licenses

Councillor Wedge brought up the matter of granting taxi licenses and asked what was the opinion of the councillors as to what had been decided on this question at an earlier meeting.

Councillor Mollison said it had been decided not to amend the by-law but that licenses would be granted at the discretion of the Council. Mayor Arnett said his understanding was that they are limited to twelve.

Councillor Wedge said his understanding is that the Chief of Police was to inspect them and if they passed a license could be granted. There was a case last week, he said, of one of the best taxis in Town having bought a new car and then having been refused a license by the Town Clerk. He thought this was not fair.

Mayor Arnett said he thought it was a question of need.

Councillor Wedge said he could not agree with this. If the local people want to go into business it is their own matter.

Mayor Arnett replied that all governing bodies grant franchises to busses and taxis and Summerside would seem to have sufficient taxis. The matter should be again taken up in caucus, he said.

Councillor Morrison said that one taxi company had sent a letter to the Council asking that the number of taxis be limited to 12 and this was agreed to by the Council. But if there is a need for more than that it can be changed. "But I have seen things agreed on at meetings to which all the councillors had agreed and next morning it was all shifted," he said.

Councillor Wedge said he thought it was a hardship as no other business is limited. He moved that no limit be placed on the number of taxi licenses granted.

Mayor Arnett said he did not think it fair to bring this up without first discussing it in caucus. It is not fair to bring up a matter, without first having it discussed in caucus, and ask for a snap verdict. He asked Councillor Wedge to withdraw the motion and bring it up at the next caucus.

Councillor Wedge agreed.

Councillor Morrison reported that he had instructed the engineer at the electric light plant to order underground cable sufficient for two blocks on one side of Water Street and to endeavour to have it here before work is started on widening the street.—S.
