The Taxpayers' Burden

A Canadian newspaper, the "Canadian," has just published a study of the tax burden in Canada. It is a study of the tax burden in Canada, and it is a study of the tax burden in Canada.

consequence of this were not all that Canadian producers feared. The might have gone further. The King Government was unable to obtain any tariff reduction on wool, the industry in which the Maritime Provinces were chiefly concerned.

Editorial Notes

Tomorrow's Daily Mail—Says that the Government is going to be forced upon the hard shoulders of the King.

Wonder how many more Government jobs are going to be forced upon the hard shoulders of the King?

The House of Commons Government is going to be forced upon the hard shoulders of the King.

General public giving things prices. The Government is going to be forced upon the hard shoulders of the King.

It is curious how little seems to be known about the Spanish situation.

A distinguished English scientist told a Canadian Medical Association of his attempts to reach the frontiers of insanity by (a) tracing mental illness to death and (b) by absorbing material in small doses.

The Federal Department of Trade and Commerce is asked to investigate the application for a special subsidy for transportation of produce and supplies to Boston and New York.

The C. C. F. leader is unhappy says the Montreal Gazette, and not without reason.

Two men entered a business place in Toronto where washing machines are sold.

Mr. Bennett is making royal progress in his world tour if we are to believe the brief cables received from various stopping-off places.

Heir Hitler "is as near a saint as any man can be," Lord William Montagu-Douglas Scott told the Scottish 1924 Club in Edinburgh on Saturday.

Not only do big incomes return a very large percentage up to approximately 90 percent—income taxes, but private estates are heavily assessed under succession duties.

Wearing Glasses

An attractive young woman began to have trouble with her eyesight—reading a book, reading a book, reading a book.

At a moment of fact, wearing glasses when they are needed really prevents one looking old.

PUBLIC FORUM

GOOD-BY RELIEF

Mr. A splendid article in MacLean's Magazine of October the 15th under the above heading describes how at King's Bridge some twenty five miles north of Toronto a settlement of a few families from the slums of Toronto was established in 1914 in small buildings of land on a community basis under the direction of the Rev. Father McGee, a Roman Catholic Priest.

These people are working hard, are happy and are only supporting themselves but are paying their own charges and a part of the principal $20,000.00 which was spent in establishing them.

Colonel Ranney, Chairman of the Veterans' Assistance Commission, when in this City expressed himself as being much interested in schemes of this nature.

Those who are interested in a similar scheme for this Province should read the article referred to. If such a scheme is possible in Ontario it surely ought to be in this Agricultural Province.

OCTOBER Wearing the tartan of the year Across her shoulders—! Our loved October now is here; Today I saw her go

And watch a farmer as he reared His stocks in order neat; Then later at a barn appeared Where one was winnowing wheat.

She called a hunter to the wood, A ploughman to the loe, A gardener's basket filled with good And Red apples from a tree.

She saved a pumpkin for a lad— A mark for Halloween; Bode Age's burdened heart be glad And, like herself, serene.

And when in doors a fire she lights, The social sense is stirred; And by the hearth on friendly nights Are song and story heard.

Then as the seasons forward go, 'Tween two she seems to stand— And Summer's bloom and Winter's Snow To hold in either hand. —Alexander Louis Fraser. in the Montreal Star
