SCHOOL for Grade 8: Miss Phyllis MacMillan, Rochford Square, for Grade 9 and Miss Wanda MacMillan, Rochford Square for Grade 10.

The importance of the Seal Campaign was stressed by the various speakers which included: His Worship, Mayor B. Roy Holman, Hon. Dr. W. J. MacMillan, Prof. J. H. Blanchard and Dr. D. E. Wayne, President of the Tuberculosis League, who presided.

In his interesting address, Dr. Found pointed out the need of "educating the public to the necessity of early diagnosis" of the disease. For this purpose many clinics and surveys have been established.

He explained that tuberculosis is caused by a germ and "is not inherited" and described how it develops when it enters the body. "It has been observed that the spread of disease is more likely to occur in the late teens and early twenties," he declared. He outlined a number of symptoms including cough, expectoration, loss of weight, night sweats and hemoptysis, which generally accompany the disease.

Speaking of the control of tuberculosis, Dr. Found asserted that "diagnosis can be made accurately with the tuberculin test, the fluorescent or x-ray examination." He pointed out the practical advantages of a simple tuberculin test which is a simple one. "Pulmonary tuberculosis is classified according to the extent of lung tissue, as minimal, moderately advanced and far advanced," he declared. He advocated treatment in a sanatorium for a few months as a means of cure and spoke of the "ideal conditions" which exist in such an institution. He was of the opinion that "there should be a sanatorium of 130 beds to cope with the situation in this province." At present the Provincial Sanatorium has only 80 beds added.

Dr. Found said, "One of the modern weapons used to fight tuberculosis is surgery of the lung" and he named the more common operations, pneumonectomy, thoracotomy, phrenicotomy and thoracoplasty, adding "all of these methods are being successfully carried out at the Provincial Sanatorium at Charlottetown."

In conclusion he urged the people of this province to invest in Christmas Seals.

Prof. Blanchard, in his address, stated that the health of the body, mind and soul creates a great system of education in Germany that country is now in a "lamentable condition," he said and to a certain extent the same thing has happened to this country. This is the result of the training of the mind has not been as it should have been. More than half the population of the world still does not know of the Christian faith. "The greatest danger to the world is more ill health at present than there was during the last war, notwithstanding the wonderful improvements for the treatment of disease," he commented. The Tuberculosis League for the wonderful work they are doing in educating the people in matters of health.

Premier Campbell, in awarding the prizes, commended the efforts of the League for promoting the essays. He cited the need of watching out for the physical well-being of the nation in war time—especially the youth of the nation. Referring to the efforts of the Tuberculosis League during the past few years, he pointed out that the death rate of tuberculosis in the province has been cut in two in the past ten years. However, there is much yet to be done. He expressed the opinion that the capacity of the sanatorium is not sufficient to handle the cases which need care. There is also the problem of cases outside the institution.

Hon. Dr. MacMillan referred to the loss of 60,000 of Canada's youth during the last war and pointed out that since 1914, 150,000 Canadians have died in the war of tuberculosis. He spoke of the value of the League and the part which education must play in the fight against the disease. Rejections are greater in the war of tuberculosis. "The last despite the work done along the lines of preventive medicine and public health, he asserted. Most rejections are caused by nutrition and respiratory troubles which are breeding grounds for tuberculosis." He thought it would be wise if the Federal government would assist the Provincial government in the war of tuberculosis and Dr. C. Kennedy, for the "splendid work" they are doing. He regretted that they did

STRATEGIC NAVAL

(Prime Minister Mackenzie King in announcing in Ottawa Saturday night the arrival of the Canadiana at Hong Kong said that "defence against aggression, actual or threatened in any part of the world today is part of the defence of every country which still enjoys freedom," and that the dispatch of the Canadiana to the Orient was "in accordance with this view.")

Hong Kong, second only to the naval base at Singapore as a British stronghold in the far east, lies on China's south coast on the north shore of the China Sea, 750 miles northwest of Manila, and would be of highly strategic value to the American as well as the British fleet in the event of a Pacific war.

The exact size of the contingent and details of its trip here were military secrets, but the commanding officer, Brig. J. K. Lawson, did disclose that the journey was of weeks' and that he and his men, volunteers who enlisted in Manitoba and Quebec, "have been overseas once before in this war."

"We are ready for anything that might occur," he said. Decks of the transport swarmed with khaki-clad infantrymen equipped for the field as the ship put in.

Maj.-Gen. C. M. Malby, Hong Kong commander in chief, was first to board the vessel. Later Governor Sir Mark Young inspected the new arrivals.

"We never sighted an enemy vessel—the navy looked to that," Brig. Lawson said. He reported the unit was made up largely of infantry, but "we have other things as well."

Interpreting The War

forces in Libya are badly riddled by British air and sea attack.

Against Berlin rumblings of new and more ferocious submarine warfare in the vital Atlantic, impending or in progress, stands the accomplished fact of revised American neutrality laws.

German boasts of new and bigger submarines to hunt the sea on Britain's life lines confirm London's reports that for the last four months the German sea attack has been losing instead of gaining ground.

Terrible as have been Russian losses in territory, in blood, in economic resources they have given Hitler's war machine its first significant pause, brought about the first semblance of a definite halt.

Once halted in its cycle of crushingly swift advances—whether on land, at sea or in the air—that vast Nazi war juggernaut would lose much of its momentum in the judgment of British and American officials who guide policy-making.

At the evening service Professor Andrews look at his subject "A Faith for the Times" as a Christian affirmation that "God is love is not self-evident. If we examine the fields of human relationships, and of history, we could easily become heartened and strife are fundamental. It is when we turn to the revelation of God in Christ that we are persuaded that love is basic. Upon such a faith our civilization depends."

The music for the day, under the direction of Prof. A. Roy Kendall, was of a very high order. In the morning the anthems were "The Woods and Every Sweet Smelling Tree" by J. E. West, with solos by Miss Margaret Sterns and Mr. Harvey MacPherson. The traditional anthem "Jerusalem, My Glorious Home" by Mason. The broadcast over CFCY of the major portion of this service was provided by a few friends of the sick and shut-in.

The evening music included a solo "These are They" (Gaul) by Miss Margaret Sterns, an anthem "Brother James' Air" (Gordon Jacob) and a selection for men's voices "Lead Kindly Light."

Good crowds were in attendance all day at the Salvation Army Hall in connection with the Special Revival Campaign conducted by Dr. C. H. Brown, Bible Teacher and Musical Evangelist of Leeds, England.

In the morning service the Evangelist spoke on the subject of "Power" taking for his text: Acts 1:8. He emphasized the need of Christians having the Power of God in their lives if they would live a life of victory. In the evening service he took for his text I Kings 18:21. How long halt ye between two opinions? He spoke of the need of individuals coming to a definite decision, and of making the right choice as to whom they would serve. Several souls came to an Altar of Prayer signifying they were making that choice.

Services will be continued each week beginning at 7:45 p. m. when special topics relating to present day conditions will be dealt with.

Meighen

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The return of Arthur Meighen to leadership of the Conservative party was the subject of a special editorial in the Times today.

Meighen has lost none of his mental vigor which made him an successful successor to Sir Robert Borden and the youngest Minister in the British Empire, the Times declared.

The editorial traced the history of the Conservative party since the time of its rise to power in the Conservative party.

Meighen has shown himself receptive of new ideas. As Opposition leader he will be able to bring the Mackenzie King Government to the point where it will be able to do as it pleases with the constructive critic.

Mayor Holman, in a brief address, also paid tribute to the doctors in charge of the sanatorium. He stressed the need of "compulsory patch tests" in the public schools. "This is necessary," he asserted, "if a proper picture of the health of school children is to be obtained. He suggested that such a tuberculin test be made free of charge in order that there would be no objection on this score."

During the meeting, the Trinity Male Chorus contributed several pleasing selections. Prof. A. R. Kendall was pianist.

CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian Press management is satisfied that its report of the occurrence was accurate and fair. Comparison of the Prime Minister's own version of what happened, and the Canadian Press report, is convincing evidence that there was no misrepresentation. Mr. King's statement that there was a "demonstration" and that later there was another "demonstration" favorably offsetting the first.

The Canadian Press report included the following statements: "Mixed cheers and boos greeted Prime Minister Mackenzie King when he arrived in the Province, and the obvious background of boos quietened down momentarily."

"Assorted hand-clapping, cheering and booing broke out again after the inspection had concluded."

"This was greeted by loud cheers, whistling and applause." (Referring to the Prime Minister's statement that "I gather from the applause that many of you are impatient and would rather be engaged in more active operations than you are today.")

These differ from the Prime Minister's account only in giving somewhat fuller detail of the character of the demonstrations.

The Canadian Press report was written and edited by R. K. Campbell, London superintendent, who accompanied the Prime Minister to Great Britain, after consultation with two other staff members of the Canadian Press, D. E. Burritt and Douglas Amaran. Canadian Press alternate war correspondent with the Canadian corps, who from positions at some distance from that occupied by Mr. Campbell were able to observe the degree and extent of the apparent expressions of disapproval and the applause. All were agreed that the report prepared was in accordance with the facts.

It should also be pointed out that the Canadian Press endeavored to determine on a factual basis the reasons behind the original demonstration, and duly reported: "Long after Mr. King had left the scene to spend the weekend in the country with Prime Minister Churchill, the soldiers were laughing mischievously about the incident, though none was anxious to admit he was among the ones who booed. Of those who claimed to have been in the stands and to have understood the reason for the mixed reception, the majority said: 'The gang all want more action.'"

Further, on Aug. 25, the Monday following the Saturday of the Aldershot visit, The Canadian Press reported the Prime Minister's statement:

ment to newspapermen that no doubt the troops were anxious for more warlike action, but that Prime Minister Churchill had expressed himself as being "most thankful" the Canadians were defending a key position and had stressed the importance of the Canadians being available in Britain for this week.

On this occasion The Canadian Press report said: "In the nature of a reply to those soldiers who held the Prime Minister personally responsible for the Canadian corps being confined to the United Kingdom, was this comment by Mr. King:

"The British government knows and the War Office knows that the Canadian corps could be sent to any part of the world where it could most assist the war effort. Our whole aim is to strengthen the war effort."

The late Mr. McDougall was for a number of years Captain of the Rocky Point ferry. He leaves a widow and family of eleven children, one daughter having left Friday for Toronto.

An inquest was immediately ordered by Coroner Dr. I. J. Yeo who was notified of the tragedy. The following jury was empanelled: Messrs J. J. Storey (foreman) Byron Brown, William Rix, Kenneth Lacey, Harry James, Joseph Purcell and Ernest Sioconb. After the body and the scene of the accident had been viewed, the inquest was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon in the City Building.

Trinity United Church observes 77th anniversary

At the 77th anniversary services of Trinity United Church yesterday the guest preacher was Rev. Elias Andrews, M.A., B.D., of the Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax. The services were well attended and the messages brought by Professor Andrews were inspiring.

At the morning service the text was Psalm 122, verses 1 and 2; and the subject was "The House of God."

It was pointed out that the Psalmist had joy and gladness when he recalled God's House and the city where it was situated, for three reasons:

(1) His remembrance of what God's House had meant to him and to Israel in the past.

(2) His anticipation of the Fellowship that he would find there in the present.

(3) What his presence there would mean for his people and for the House of God itself.

Upon these three suggestions the morning sermon was based. It was, the speaker said, first a day of remembrance. The Church had been associated with all the great experiences of life. It had been the great well-spring of spiritual strength. It had been a source of leadership and direction to the community.

Secondly it was a day of joy because of the present sharing in the Christian Fellowship. We need, said the speaker, a resurrection of Church consciousness. It is vastly more than an organization. It is a divine society and must be exalted as such. A divine institution it is which includes both the "living witnesses" and the "cloud of witnesses" who have entered into rest. We are now in communion with all those in every land and every clime and every age who have been and who are being brought, by God's grace, in the fold of the Christian Church.

Thirdly a day of joy springing from a consciousness of what our sharing in the Christian Fellowship may mean to our Fellow-men in the Christian cause in the world. It is a joy that is never motivated by selfishness, but rather for the sake of others, and particularly for the world's redemption. When the Christian values are being threatened by pagan and tyrannical forces the church is challenged in a supreme way to maintain those values. To share in this work is to share the joy associated with it. Moreover, the Christian Fellowship is the hope of the world in these days when mighty forces are working against fellowship. The Church must lead in this crusade for fellowship which must come to the world when the weapons of war are again laid aside and when men begin to follow again the arts of peace. It will be a challenging task for the church and she must be ready to meet it. It is, therefore, a day calling for fresh dedication and consecration to the Kingdom.

At the evening service Professor Andrews look at his subject "A Faith for the Times" as a Christian affirmation that "God is love is not self-evident. If we examine the fields of human relationships, and of history, we could easily become heartened and strife are fundamental. It is when we turn to the revelation of God in Christ that we are persuaded that love is basic. Upon such a faith our civilization depends."
