THE LOVE PENDULUM

BY MARION RUBINCAM

DEPRESSION

"I won't go to Europe," I announced. "But no one will make you."

"Yes, they will. Dear Doctor Engel, won't you tell my family I must stay here all summer so you can keep on looking after me? I want to buy a little white horse I saw today."

Dr. Engel laughed and assured me he would do everything possible to keep me away from Europe. I returned to the letter.

"Your aunt has just written details of your illness," the letter went on. "It was dated two weeks previous: 'She said she would not come unless you were in actual danger, so as not to alarm me but would wait and write. She waited for that, too, until you were out of the worst of it, so you see, my dear child I have only recently heard of all this illness. I deeply sympathize and I am sorry I was not there. Though I suppose your aunt was competent enough and I would have been a burden at the time."

"As a matter of fact, her letter did not come to me for many weeks. I ran down to Nice for a week, and then to Rome and over to a business trip, in connection with some excavations the curator of the museum at home is making in Northern Egypt. The letter reached me when I landed at Naples. As you can see, I am now back in Paris."

How father skipped lightly over the face of the globe! He was always going somewhere, or always coming somewhere. He possessed an apartment in Paris that was quite large, and here he stayed a great deal of the time and entertained generously. He had a very tiny and inexpensive apartment in Florence, and he belonged to a club in Rome where he was always reserved for him. When he was in Monte Carlo or Nice, where he spent part of each year, he put up at one of the hotels, always ordering the same suite of rooms to be ready for him. It was only when he was in New York, where he had been born and brought up, that he was homesick.

Then he wandered from hotel to hotel, stubbornly refusing my aunt's offer of hospitality. I liked my father very much. I can't say that I ever regarded him as a parent he never seemed to have any relationship towards me—he was merely an amusing older friend who spent money on me, but insisted on taking me to places that bored me.

I went back to my letter: "As a matter of fact, I think you had better come over and join me here. You did not like it here before, but you were a little priggish—a quality you certainly never inherited from me. Your aunt is most disappointed because you could not have a real season at home. But I think that can wait until next winter, though you will be—is it 19 or 20 then? Meantime, I'll take you over to London for the end of the season there. I have a great many friends there, though I don't like the place much. We'll spend the summer on the Continent and go up to Scotland for some shooting in the Fall. That should bring you safely around to November, and then I'll turn you over to your aunt."

"I hope you'll be quite well when you arrive, for I am helpless with an invalid about. I want you to look pretty too. Your last picture was charming. I showed it to Lord Rosedale, who quite raved about you and wanted to meet you. Too bad he's 50 and twice married! He has everything desirable—a title, wealth, a pedigree as long as that on a prize terrier in a dog show."

He said his first wife married him because she liked the looks of him, when democracy became the fashion and we put away our coats-of-arms and our mid-Victorian principles."

I stopped reading the letter. I was in no mood for father's cynicisms and flippancies. I remembered Lord Rosedale very vaguely—he had been at Nice four years ago when father took me there. I was 15, he was nearly 50, and he was married to his second wife. I don't think she was alone—they rarely lived together. I heard he was very witty, but his wit carried a sting in it. He seemed to have read everything and to be tired of almost everything. I didn't like him.

I did not want to go to Europe. I knew what it meant—a suite of one of the big steamers, Aunt Harriet would have nothing less. She would go, or else I should have a nurse to look after me. The wealthy salesmen who travel first class on the big liners would try to flirt with me, the stout ladies would "take an interest" in me because of my de luxe suite and my nurse. People would stare, we would all dress for dinner every night and sit around and look stupidly at each other. There would be dances on deck and an orchestra playing all the time.

The more I thought of it, the worse it seemed. I went out on the deck and stood staring into space. Parker had to hunt me to bring me in to my tea.

I went to bed still more depressed. I was not going to join Father in Europe, that I determined—I would invent some plausible reason. Yet the alternative seemed to be my aunt—and that meant a summer at fashionable resorts, and parties and bands and late hours—and I was so tired and bored with all of it.

I wanted to stay quiet—I wanted to live in the little white house in Wellsville. I went to sleep hoping I would worry myself into a relapse. Then I could stay on where I was at peace.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Relief When Other Medicines Failed

Port Mann, B.C.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was tired and run-down, I had headaches and no appetite and was troubled for two years with sleeplessness. I tried many medicines, but nothing did me any real good. While I was being in Washington I was recommended by a stranger to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am stronger and feel fine since then and am able to do my housework. I am writing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. C. GREAVES, Port Mann, B.C.

Feels New Life and Strength. Keene, N.H.—"I was weak and run-down and had headache and all sorts of troubles which women have. I found great relief when taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am able to do my work and feel new life and strength from the Vegetable Compound. I am doing all I can to advertise it."—Mrs. A. F. HAMMOND, 72 Carpenter Street, Keene, N.H.

Annual Meeting P. C. Hospital

The 11th annual meeting of the Prince County Hospital was held in the Civic Building, on Friday evening the 15th inst. Quite a number of citizens were present. Mr. H. T. Holman presiding. After reading the minutes of last annual meeting the President read the following report:

Another year in our Hospital history has joined the great majority and it behooves us to hold what I might medically call a post mortem examination of the financial transactions and medical accomplishments throughout the period.

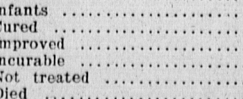

We have not been successful this year in having our receipts equal our expenditures and as practically no demands were made upon the people of the County for assistance, our deficit for operating amounts to $485.88. Our receipts were as follows:

Table with Receipts and Expenditure columns. Receipts include Bal. in Bank, 1922, Dues, Donations, etc. Expenditure includes Tray Cloths, Pneumonia Jackets, etc.

In addition, material was purchased and a number of garments made by the members. Before proceeding with our regular business, I wish to serve notice on all the people of this County that the Hospital must rely upon their generosity. We cannot continue to have deficits and expect to give the capable and efficient service that we feel this Institution is worthy of—we must look to all the people for support. It is a charitable institution of the highest order, and it behooves us, one and all, to keep it upon the high standardized level that it now occupies. A little later in the year, we are going to make a thorough of these were ruptured appendices which in days gone by were practically always fatal; 67 tonsils and adenoid cases were successfully operated upon; and, last but not least, 50 infants first saw the light of day within our walls.

I need not dwell upon the necessity for a Hospital in this community. When the question was first mooted, there were many who doubted the advisability of starting one—these days have long gone by, and apart from the many, very many, emergency cases it has served, as well as the many, very many lives it has positively saved, its every day performance has justified the value of those lives that have been saved, as well as with the suffering, pain and worry it has alleviated, the above mentioned amount will be reckoned small indeed.

I wish now to register the appreciation of the Trustees for the untiring efforts of the Ladies' Aids of both Alberton and Summerside. In addition to the hearty sympathy that they have always shown to the institution, they have made contributions of both material and money that have been most helpful. It is pleasing to find also, that they are in financial strength and we hope ready to carry on the good work for the coming season.

The following is the financial report of the officers of the Alberton Ladies' Aid:

Hon. President—Mrs. Dr. Kier. President—Mrs. H. J. Larkins. Vice-Presidents—Mrs. P. W. Leard, Mrs. Chas. Bennett, Mrs. White, Mrs. W. Tanton, Miss M. Martin.

Sec.—Mrs. G. A. Christie. Treas.—Mrs. A. L. Purdy.

Table with Receipts and Expenditure columns. Receipts include Bal. in Bank, 1922, Dues, Donations, etc. Expenditure includes Tray Cloths, Pneumonia Jackets, etc.

The usual Christmas Box of envelopes was also sent to the Hospital. The following of the Summerside Ladies' Aid:

Gas In The Stomach Is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion." Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach aches. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloated rigidity of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its fermentation, and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form)—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.
